The Next Word
Provocations

What is learning now?

We will dive into different understandings of learning and explore the impact of changing technologies and other factors on the nature of learning in schools.
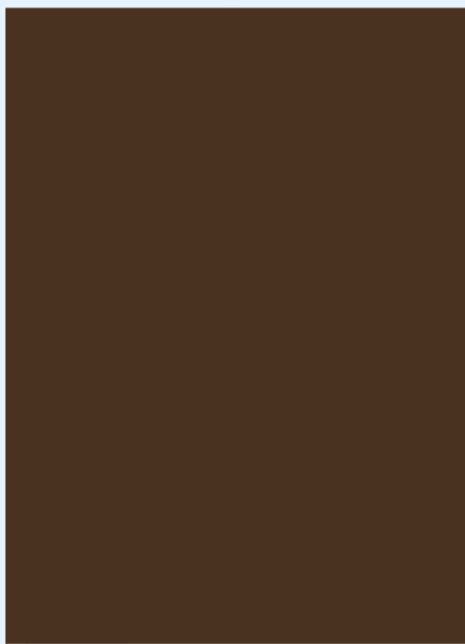

What should teaching be?

What skills, capabilities, knowledge and understanding should teachers have and be able to show in today's classroom? What forms of teaching should exist in the school of tomorrow?

What is cheating?

What, exactly, is cheating? Does spellcheck count as cheating? What about checking in with a parent? Let's dive into the possibilities and pitfalls of chat we call cheating in an AI world.

Why assess?

What is assessment? What is it for? How might we redesign assessment tasks to check for understanding and skills in a meaningful and valuable way to students? And how might we harness AI to help make assessment a great experience for everyone?

If these questions provoke thoughts, contact us for more.

www.nextwordnow.com