Mon Morning

Hi Jack:

Mom sure was glad she didn't come out to go with us Sat nite. Because she wouldn't have been home then to get your call. She's glad you're o.k. and she said you sounded so near. I'm supposed to serve on the jury Jack and I'm down here at City hall sitting around waiting for my name to be called. I'm trying to get out of it. Hope it works. as they only pay you 3.00 per day. and that aint so good. One of the girls at Bingham knows a man that works here, or at least he's a friend of her father. So they're trying to get me. excused. I should know if it works by noon.

She said the only trouble is that the defence workers get first choice, so maybe it won't work. Well! here's hoping anyway. There's about 30 people in this room all here for the same thing. Only about 6 men the rest are mostly older women. Just a few younger ones. Catharine left about 4 bells yesterday afternoon, she wanted to stop to see some of the friends out in Brooklyn yet. And the weather was so bad it snowed but not about 2 inches and it surely was a sloppy day, it was wet about half water & half snow. She was afraid it would freeze and then she would be out of luck. Today is Joe's birthday and Jean called up last night and invited us out for supper. I'm too.

So we're all going, its too bad you cant be there Jack you always enjoyed these meals too. and well miss you a lot.

I'm glad your meals are good at camp tho. Ma said you gained 8 lbs, is that right?

We're having 40 his devotion at ~~this~~ Church this week; so mom + I went last nite and we went to Confession and to communion this morning. I offered it up for Gerald and you. So you should come back home safely to us some day.

Well! Jack here it is 11:15 and I'm getting tired of just sitting here but thats all there is to do until they call your name.

I hope they call Mune and say that I'm excused. Kinda tough losing that money right before Xmas too. Well! Jack take good care of yourself and write to us & tell us how you're getting along in the Army. I hear you're in charge of 15 men - Right? pretty good I'll say -

Bye-bye.

Your Sis
