President's Message

Happy
New Year

Happy New Year - and what a year it is turning out to be! But we move on. I for one am looking forward to meeting again in person,
to traveling and getting back to a new normal.
Unfortunately we are not there yet and that has forced us to indefinitely postpone one of our most anticipated events - the 5th Grade Spelling Bee.
But we do have a lot of fun things that we can look forward to.
Let's get started!

~ Kathy

Bluff
by Jane Stanton Hitchcock
January ~ 4:00 PM
Online

One-time socialite Maud Warner polishes up the rags of her once glittering existence and bluffs her way into a signature New York restaurant on a sunny October day. When she walks out again, a man will have been shot. Maud has grown accustomed to being underestimated and invisible to young New York socialites, and she uses her ability to fly under the radar as she pursues celebrity accountant Burt Sklar, the man she believes stole her mother's fortune and left her family in ruins. Her fervent passion for poker has taught Maud that she can turn weakness into strength to take advantage of people who think they are taking advantage of her, and now she has dealt the first card in her high-stakes plan for revenge. One unexpected twist after another follows as Maud plays a deadly game of poker.

Can she win?
