Promises

Open Residential Shelter: Nurturing,
Structured Treatment Environment
for Boys and Girls Ages 10 to 20.

Safe Children
Strong Families
Bright Futures

What is Promises?

The Crisis Center's open residential program, Promises, provides a nurturing, structured treatment environment for boys and girls, ages 10 to 20. Our focus is on the youths' needs and progress on their identified goals. The Crisis Center's program prepares youth to return home, to foster care, or on a path to independence.

Cooperation

Promises cooperates with recommendations from the referring placement agency to achieve youths' success.

Promises serves youth who have one or more of the following diagnosis:

- Oppositional Defiance Disorder
- Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder
- Adjustment Disorder
- Anxiety Disorder
- Attention Deficit Disorder
- Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder
- Bipolar Disorder

Other diagnoses are considered on a case-by-case basis.

Inappropriate referrals are youth who may be sexually aggressive, for whom nursing care is required, whose IQ is below 65, or who are in need of locked, secure care. The program does not accept youth with pending or previous felony charges.

Supervision

Boys and girls are supervised 24 hours a day, by caring, knowledgeable, and professional residential staff who provide practical assistance.

Counseling Team

The Crisis Center's licensed, master level counselors address youths' behavioral, social and emotional concerns to help them through difficult or traumatic life events.
