In Silken Waters, the second installment of the Legends of the Vale series, Leslie Anne Lee immerses readers in a world where magic and destiny intertwine. The story follows Dagsbrún and Anda, two outcasts from opposing realms—elf and vampire—who must unite to confront a looming darkness threatening their world. As they navigate treacherous waters and unravel ancient secrets, their journey becomes one of self-discovery, resilience, and the transformative power of unity. Lee masterfully blends fantasy, mystery, and romance, crafting a tale that explores themes of identity, redemption, and the enduring strength found in unexpected alliances.

"The Rock and the Wind"

Set against the rugged beauty of Maine's coastline, The Rock and the Wind by Leslie Anne Lee is a poignant tale of love, resilience, and self-discovery.

In a time when marriage defined a woman's identity, a small-town girl faces a heart-wrenching choice between two men: one offering security and the other adventure. As she navigates societal expectations and personal desires, the story delves into the expansive capacity of the human heart to love and endure. Through richly drawn characters and evocative prose, Lee crafts a narrative that celebrates the transformative power of love and the courage to follow one's heart.

The story follows Audrey, a woman who escapes her painful past in rural Wyoming to seek a new life in New York City. There, she encounters the enigmatic Mr. C., who endeavors to help her break down the emotional barriers she's constructed. As Audrey grapples with her inner demons, the novel delves into themes of memory, identity, and healing, offering a compelling portrayal of a survivor's journey toward self-discovery and hope.

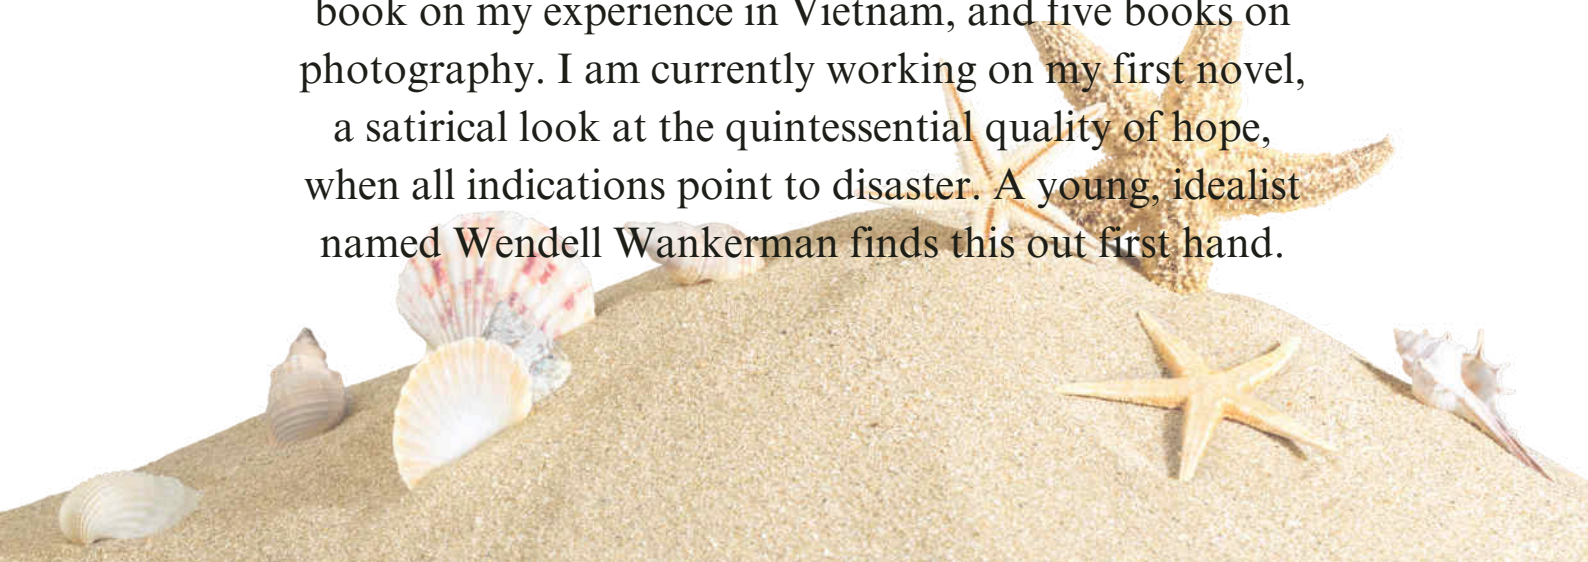

My first publication came about in 1961, when I was thirteen, having my aphorism about silverware and knights published in Boy's Life Magazine. That began further explorations into writing, which began with my foray into writing poetry. A number of my poems have been published in various literary magazines and anthologies.

My publications consist of fourteen books, including books of poetry, a travel guide into Mexico, a historical memoir of my late mother that I compiled and edited, a book on my experience in Vietnam, and five books on photography. I am currently working on my first novel, a satirical look at the quintessential quality of hope, when all indications point to disaster. A young, idealist named Wendell Wankerman finds this out first hand.

“Marinating in Dream Sauce”

“Marinating in Dream Sauce” is a satirical memoir. An accounting of one young man who would have needed schooling on being a Hay Seed. Clueless. The satire has to do with what people do with the clueless. Oh, it’s a romp. If it isn’t you. But it is always fun to watch. The story covers escaping into the service at first chance and lessons picked up with that adventure. When I was told I would be getting married... what came out of my mouth was “Okay”. Learning continued through that adventure and single parenthood. Lessons abounded. So many in fact. The point of Lesson has to do with becoming a fully cognitive individual capable of thinking. And that’s an art form.

Dream sauce has always been the providence of those individuals willing to walk on uncertain ground, figuratively speaking, try things that normally elicit a gasp from mainstream types, just to see where that might lead. A real dreamer savors the tantalizing flavors of a thick dream sauce as Don Juan savored the succulence of female flesh in the thralls of passion. Speaking for myself, the dream sauce I gorged on to satiate my burning desires was adventure. The adventures I dreamed up didn't all work out according to the original script, yet the adventures remain an endearing legacy of some spicy moments that make up a pretty terrific life, for the most part. I don't dote on painful memories. I'm just the storyteller. What I should tell you about the story that follows is simply, sit back and enjoy the flavor of a dream sauce recipe that has become known as Uncle Bert's Surprise.....

Susan Calvin retired from active flying on 22 January 1994, after 27 years, due to spinal injuries resulting from long term exposure to the stresses and strains of helicopter operations. It's an unfortunate fact that combat flying and giving flight instruction in Hueys eventually takes its toll. After retiring, Susan remained in the Ft. Rucker area for a time until receiving word that her mother was battling cancer. She returned home to Independence to help care for her mother until her mother's passing. She remains in Independence where she has established a new life surrounded by great neighbors and friends. As a result of writing this book she has had to reveal her status to those neighbors and friends.

In every case, she has been warmly accepted. One neighbor, upon reading her manuscript, gave her a beautiful bouquet of flowers as a "thank you" for sharing her story with them. Susan considers such neighbors and friends a special blessing.

"Changeling: The Unremarkable Story of My Remarkable Life"

This is the story of a child that was wrongly born male, and through revelation realized nature had made a serious mistake. It chronicles the struggles of dealing with a great and terrible secret, thinking there was no way out of the dilemma of being born the wrong sex. Trying to find a cure, that child tried many ways to conform to her biology, only to find out all her attempts were in vain.

Then, after many long years of frustration, quite by accident, a door was opened. Call it fate, or divine intervention, that child, now an adult, was able to crossover the strange and mysterious void between the sexes and emerge a new and beautiful female creature; a Changeling. Finally mind, spirit, soul, and body were in agreement, and a wonderful new life journey began. Like the ugly, repulsive caterpillar that abandons its life to become a beautiful, wondrous butterfly, I have lived, died, and come back as the whole woman I was meant to be.

Nita Brady is the Founder/Director of Beyond the Walls, and Beyond the Walls for Kids, support groups for adults and children with incarcerated and/or addicted family members. She has also worked extensively with youth in juvenile detention for nearly 25 years, empowering them to make better choices. She has a retired Regional Staff development educator who worked for a large hospital and its affiliates for over 20 years. She is the author of seven award-winning books for children and teens.

“Jenny’s Journey”

Jenny’s journey is the story of a girl who has had tragic loss and difficult circumstances, making her vulnerable to making a regrettable choice – which leads to an unintended and dramatic outcome. Many lessons are learned, and the ending is unforgettable. Key questions are included to help parents, teachers, counselors, and youth workers facilitate discussions on how to navigate through peer pressure, make good decisions, and use good coping skills.

I was born in Hull in the UK in 1950. Having graduated in English Literature at Leeds University, I worked in public libraries for 20 years before moving into local government for various authorities in the north east of England where I was the liaison officer between councillors, voluntary and government agencies and the community.

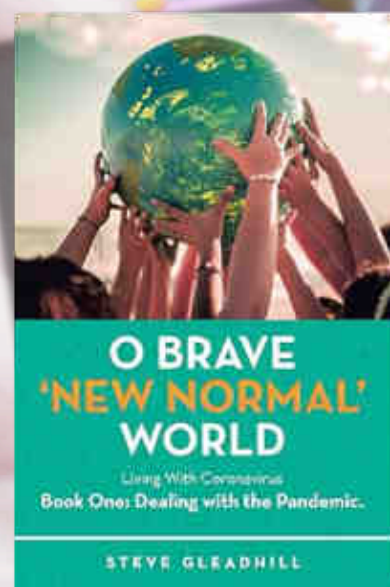

My final job was as Partnership Manager where I managed 40 staff that covered area working, community safety and health and drug action issues. I was also a visiting lecturer at the University of Northumbria, where I gave talks on health and regeneration, partnership working and community engagement.

“O Brave ‘New Normal’ World: Living With Coronavirus Book One: Dealing with the Pandemic”

This is the first of four books on coronavirus.

This particular volume examines the fallout from the initial ‘onslaught’ that affected not only our health but all aspects of our daily lives including our perception of our leaders and our institutions. It outlines the various ways we tried to control the spread of the virus and manage the financial consequences that emanated from the crisis. Lastly, it documents the variants and the subsequent waves that shattered our illusion that we had overcome the worst by the spring and summer of 2020.

"The Orchestrators"

The year is 2360. A half million humans, having survived global warming and the "Race Wars", are exhibiting loss of memory from mind-altering drugs created by world leaders known as the Orchestrators. By slowing aging processes, the drugs were ideal for prolonged space travel. Henry Shannon is the newest Orchestrator leading a mission to Jupiter in hopes of finding an inhabitable moon.

After discovering that the moons are uninhabitable, Henry and his passengers return to Earth which bears little resemblance to the planet they remembered, having been repopulated by humans as Tunnel People because of their subterranean lifestyle. Their leader, Lillian Goodman, has somehow altered the Tunnel People who now have advanced technologies and apparent immortality. As Henry unravels the nefarious means employed by Lillian Goodman to create this Utopian state, he discovers why these new humans remain desperately dependent on his passengers for maintaining their immortal status, and must decide whether to cooperate or resist and face his own mortality.

“CORPORATE POWER and OLIGARCHY, How Our Democracy Can Prevail Over Authoritarianism and Fascism”

Today’s national politics are highly polarized, with one of our two major political parties dysfunctional with internal conflicts and public confidence in government and the Supreme Court in decline. The electorate has become increasingly diverse, with a white supremacy movement inciting further division and hate crimes across the country while some on the right still believe Trump’s Big Lie that the 2020 presidential election was stolen. The democratic process has been damaged over many years by the growing power of corporate money in the election process. Supreme Court rulings have allowed unfettered amounts of political donations to politicians under the guise of ‘free speech’ so campaign money from billionaires now plays a major role in who gets elected.

Trends over the last 40 plus years include rising income and wealth inequities, decline of the middle class, and growth of social media with spread of disinformation. This book offers a unique perspective on how oligarchy (power invested in a few or a dominant class) has enveloped our government and country; how oligarchs defend their power as it grows; how wealth influences elections in their favor; and how citizens, in addition to voting in the 2024 elections, can support steps to strengthen our democracy so that we can hold together as one country for the common good.

Sheldon Greene

Sheldon Greene's seven novels explore universal themes like the end of ideology. Ranging from fact-based history to flights of imagination, he explores diverse subjects such as, Jewish influence on pre-Colombian culture, Germany after World War II, the impact of the Holocaust on creativity, and the dissolution of the United States. Lost and Found, The Seed Apple and The Lev Effect, share a common narrator.

Greene was appointed Warden of Insurance of the State of Ohio at age 23. A public interest lawyer, he pursued seminal issues— such as the United States' flawed health delivery system, the impact of illegal immigration on the economy, renewable energy, and public land policies— decades before they achieved national attention. He is an executive in a wind energy development company and has been actively engaged in renewable energy for over 25 years. He advocates the formulation of a God concept derived from the life process. He has developed personal guidelines for a balanced, seamless life with spiritual, intellectual, social, and creative dimensions.

In The Lev Effect, Sheldon Greene “wisely explores the salutary power of faith, which protagonist Mendel calls a “kind of spiritual walker for the psychologically disabled” in this profoundly funny meditation on how one can find strength in religion.” Kirkus “This author’s style will sing to your soul. I strongly recommend you read this, absorbing its hauntingly beautiful melody in its message.” Book Review Crew When the Bolton Jewish Community converts a disused retirement home to a boarding school, hires a Russian refugee to direct it and the retirees as staff, the small town of Bolton, Pennsylvania celebrates the change.

When the director admits a Palestinian boy, schedules Palestine National Day and a fundraiser for a Catholic homeless shelter, the family that endowed the retirement home sues to regain their trust fund. Some think he is a fraud, others believe that he is Jesus Christ. The Lev Effect, is the sequel to the critically-acclaimed novel, Lost and Found.

A Reflective Journey of a Loved One's Passing by: CK Brashares

I remember coming home from a particularly tough day when mom was especially obstinate about whatever we were trying to do for her that day. I pulled into my driveway, turned off the truck, and just sat there for a few minutes leaning back in my seat with my head against the headrest. I let out a sigh as my gaze went to the sky. I was struck by how the sky felt expansive and peaceful yet how small I was in comparison. It struck me oddly that I felt this feeling and I wondered what it meant. Then the epiphany hit me. Since the day I had found out my mother's days were numbered, I gradually diminished, day by day, becoming more compact/emotionally shut down to get through this period. I realized that I could no longer diminish myself any further. The expansiveness of the sky highlighted for me my feeling of smallness. Also, I could no longer hide from the feelings that came with the eventuality of my mother's passing. I had to open and face those feelings and go through the pain of her loss.

Our Sweetness, and Our Hope ... by: Father Ronald Ramson

In Put Your Hands into Hers, author Rev. Ronald Ramson, offers an in-depth look at Mary, the mother of Jesus, a woman who has exemplified a mother's love, hope, and inspiration. What is your relationship to Mary? Do you see her as your mother...as your queen? Jesus gave Mary to us as our spiritual mother from the wood of the cross. He said, "Here is your mother." (John 19:27). With snippets of Ramson's life included Put Your Hands into Hers offers interesting, informative, and inspirational insight into Mary's humanity and femininity.
