"The death of my father in 2014 gave me a whole new purpose to my talking to some girl in my poems. Now, I gave life a serious reality filled with his truths and the hopes of true love that give Good Works a Holy purpose that I found in my college falling for a girl as well as the other two I fell for while working with Best Buy. Only I used the need for the institutional use by them to give them better numbers by me a moral and inhuman side that opposed the Good of "the Worker". Market, government, and power was to be egalitarian, not hierarchical. For me, my late-father represents this moral evolution as he believed in the writings of such writers as Noam Chomsky. I took Marvin Gaye's approach though. Made the Holy Bible the foundation of all of my soul searching while respecting the equity of an ideal relationship, taught to me by my late-father towards a just and caring minority he supported in the world."

John Patrick Acevedo, a graduate of Boston University with a background in Public Relations and Sociology, has spent over two decades crafting his poetic voice and philosophy.

After retiring from a top sales career with Best Buy, Acevedo has dedicated himself to the study and expression of spiritual and social dynamics, coining the term "Holy Bible Sociology" to describe his unique synthesis of Biblical principles and modern social critiques.

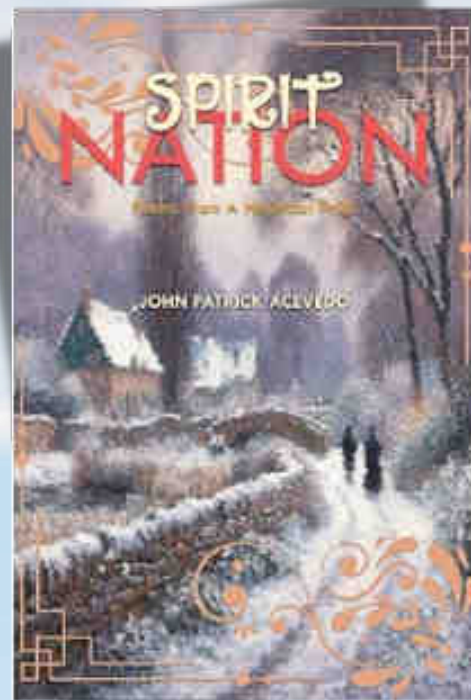

His writing, which examines the human condition through the lens of "give and take," has been shaped by his experiences in Puerto Rico, where he lives and actively promotes his work in libraries and bookstores.

“ Spirit Nation: Poems From A Heretical Faith ”

In Spirit Nation, Acevedo offers a compelling interpretation of the Old and New Testaments, dividing them by two opposing forces: war and peace. He argues that the struggle between the “hate of the mind” and the “pride of the soul” in the Old Testament is balanced by the “lust of the body” and “love of the heart” in the New Testament. Through these dichotomies, Acevedo suggests that pride, love, malice, and charity are integral to the human experience, serving as pathways toward self-knowledge and spiritual resilience. His poetry speaks to the interplay between the human soul and societal expectations, with themes that resonate in both religious and secular realms.

Acevedo’s poems often explore the concept of “Spirit Nation” as a higher ideal, transcending the confines of national identity. His words challenge readers to reflect on the balance between individual accountability and the larger societal forces of market and government, posing questions about compassion, faith, and our responsibilities to one another.

“Spirit Nation’ is about the Logos, Pathos, and Ethos that my life, love, and work have given me and taken from me,” Acevedo explains. “It’s a book of truths, exploring the world of ‘have and have-nots’ and the push-pull relationship between ‘The Worker’ and Market. I hope to foster a ‘family of faith’ beyond geographic and political boundaries, rooted in the fundamental mysteries of both the Old and New Testaments.”

“ She Yawns Before Dawn”

What makes her beauty so dangerous is when she yawns before dawn to belong.
What makes justice for the many wrong is that only cons can fawn over one bond.

It's inverse weakness between pride and hate before love and lust.
It's reciprocal strength between love and lust after pride and hate.

She yawns before dawn as I sit and pray for the completion of God's work delayed.
For the girl stayed in bed all night thinking
I would return her praise instead of my desire to control what had kept me away from the acceptance of God's answer to one of my prayers that I had censored.

Because the one who helped me to change was the very one who hurt me by surrendering to the streets and vendors that she and I exchanged... after losing tender freedom and impatience to the finishing of parades.

-Unabridged excerpt from poem entitled “She Yawns Before Dawn”

“Bottomless Toothpaste Flats in Bruges (A Poet's Memoir)”

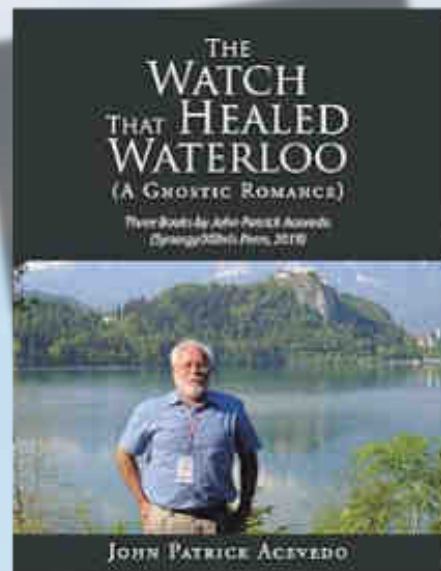

As a fan of mainstream Singer and Songwriter music John Patrick Acevedo has become an expert in the dualistic creative process and passion involved in art.

“The Watch That Healed Waterloo (A Gnostic Romance)”

If you want to be the man of your good old days, your life can't ease in haste or love dancing back in time forever though. Because a rabbit is not Easter, there are no politics to John Patrick's poetry except the misconception that weakness draws pathos, or even dogmatic logos, instead of ethos.

Because autonomous strength almost always ends with someone having to say 'no hard feelings' instead of placing more value on the fact that meaningful talk is often pathos and, hence, logos or politically derived conversation. He wants his readers to feel his joys and sorrows, not to simply translate them into pity or envy.

“Napoleonic Culminations (A Holy Bible Sociology)”

Napoleonic Culminations (A Holy Bible Sociology) speaks of the four elements of human nature — wind, water, earth and fire — and the duality of man. This book of poetic verses and lines is inspired by the women who helped the author develop as a person and the power of God living that kept him walking along the right path.

Additionally, the poems talk about accepting love, accepting one’s needs and working faith out.

We're Watching Her Show: (For Bathroom Sails of the Starched Collar) is an eclectic collection of poems that explores the theme of “give and take”. Here, John Patrick Acevedo explores his own writing with a degree of sadness and a degree of bliss. The poems reflect his journey from loss, sadness and acceptance.

“Healing w/o Patient Suffering (for Virginal Sole Distinction)”

An ascetic romantic, John Patrick Acevedo began his quest for God and love while he was a freshman at Clemson University. As he showed up rather nervously to his very first college course, he was quite stunned to see a beautiful professor, Amanda Dyer, who would prove to be instrumental to his writing. During his sophomore year at Boston University, he started to “write poetry that was exactly the same as the Holy Bible.” It was only after graduating after Boston, however, that he committed to writing poetry.

In his latest installment of poetry in Healing w/o Patient Suffering (for Virginal Sole Distinction), the poet discusses the spirit or karma from an animal magnetic dimension of human nature and how it is actually the passion of the sociological aspects of autonomy and choice.

“ The Lord, The Mafia, and The Government ”

Carmine's main purpose in writing this book at this time is to show that the government was the same thirty-six years ago as it is today. What the government officials did to him all those years ago compared to what they are executing against the President today is similar. In his opinion, his experience shows that no matter what candidate is running for a political position, if the opposition doesn't approve of him or her, then the government will destroy that person. To Carmine, it's like history repeating itself, and he hopes that his book will open your eyes.

The messenger of God told Carmine to inform you, the reader, to open up your eyes and pay attention to what they are doing to this president! This book is about Carmine's gift from God, how he used it, and how he still uses it to help people today! Carmine has had an opportunity to have met some of the most powerful top Mafia chieftains of days past and officials in politics with the underlying ways of the government.

To the Reader

When I was considering writing my story, I had to decide whether I wanted to tell a fictional story or just record factual events. In order to get the American people to be enlightened to the reality surrounding President Donald Trump, I decided to tell the true facts in a story form. Everything you read is accurate and can be verified using FACT CHECK except the beginning chapters about my life as a young man.

Americans need to take the rose-colored glasses off and realize that our government has been corrupt long before President Trump took office. He was elected to clean out the Washington swamp, and he seems to be accomplishing that task quite well. In my opinion, the only reason elected officials are fighting so hard to eliminate and discredit him is because he is exposing their crimes to the American people. Who can grasp that the corrupt politicians never planned on “fixing” our governmental system? They care about lining their own pockets with American dollars! They create laws, but they only apply to other Americans, not them. Why don't they have the same set of rules to live by that the rest of us citizens do? Why don't they live with our income limits and insurance premiums?

One of my reasons for telling this story is that I feel the need to make the American people aware of the crooked business practices of our government bending existing laws or creating new laws that have been going on for at least 40 years. Is our government corrupt? Does our government create a list of people to eliminate? Do they create situations to set those people up as guilty? My interest and support in writing this book is to show support and the truth in the support of President Donald Trump.

My second reason for writing this story is to tell the world about my Jesus and my gift. I believe I was in prison for a specific reason and that was to be anointed to help people. Sometimes the world is talking so loudly that we can't hear the voice of God. Is God real? Can a mere man really talk to God? Can a Mafia man really experience God's love and change his life? Can a former Mafia man really receive forgiveness and a heavenly gift from his God?

Names have been changed, or I chose to only use first names, to protect people from recognizing themselves. Many of my co-conspirators are dead by the date of this publication. What's tomorrow going to bring? Read my book and you may gain good direction. I am just a normal man, a believer; it happened to me and maybe I can lead you to my Lord. I want to invite you to track my adventures in my search for the answers. Stop by my church anytime...God does, maybe you can meet! Please follow my life and learn of the path I chose to follow.

Prelude: The Takeaways — It Was All Purpose-Driven

A Purposeful Life is a testimony of God's sovereign hand at work through hardship, transition, obedience, and endurance. Looking back across every season, one truth stands clear: nothing was wasted. Every trial, delay, and refinement was purpose-driven, orchestrated by God to shape faith, character, and calling.

From humble beginnings, my early life became the foundation of resilience and trust in God. Raised in a Christian home, I learned values of love, humility, endurance, and gratitude that carried me through poverty, danger, and sacrifice. Hardship did not produce bitterness; it cultivated courage. I learned early that challenges are not meant to defeat us but to prepare us.

As life unfolded, God's definition of "better" often arrived through unexpected and stretching paths. Education, professional opportunities, and service in underserved communities revealed that provision and protection walk hand in hand with calling. Political upheaval, career changes, and personal missteps never removed God's presence. Transitions were not disruptions but classrooms of faith, where obedience matured and trust deepened.

Seasons of joy were often intertwined with testing. Marriage, motherhood, and career growth brought both blessing and strain, yet God's provision consistently arrived ahead of need. His healing—physical, emotional, and spiritual—testified to His nearness. Even under systems resistant to faith, His favor opened doors no human effort could secure.

The most refining chapters were forged in fire. Betrayal, injustice, and danger became the furnace where forgiveness was learned and faith purified. In isolation, God taught me to hear His voice clearly, to love beyond betrayal, and to stand unshaken in truth. Endurance was not passive; it was obedient perseverance. God proved Himself the righteous Judge, turning injustice into testimony and pain into purpose.

Calling became clearest while walking through fire. Serving displaced and vulnerable women revealed that ministry is lived out through compassionate action. Obedience gave birth to organizations, advocacy, and reform that crossed borders, removed barriers, and enabled lasting success. Though the cost was high, God's provision was faithful and His purpose enduring.

One of the clearest fruits of endurance is seen in my children. Raised in prayer, discipline, humility, and dependence on God, they grew into faith-centered adults living solid middle-class lives while serving Him. Today they contribute as engineers—including a space engineer—an architect, and a director of finance for one of the Fortune Five companies. Their success reflects God's faithfulness across generations.

Ultimately, A Purposeful Life declares this truth: when a life is surrendered to God, every season—fire and favor alike—becomes a vessel of purpose. Obedience yields impact, endurance brings reward, and faith turns scars into testimonies that bless generations.

- Plan to help others – In addition to only setting goals for self-care, intentionally make plans to consistently help others.
- Financial management – Practice “telling your money where to go” so that it won’t “take you where you don’t want to go ”Look Forward to Changing Lives “one touch at a time”.

I've spent most of my life in Michigan. As a child, my brother Mike and I would dig up rocks and use dad's hammer to break them open to see what goodies God had given us. It escalated from there. I loved reading books on rocks and gems. Eventually, it led me (or rather God led me) to work in the Fine Jewelry Department.

I would watch Jay King on HSN because he would tell all about the gemstones and where they were from. I took notes and before I knew it I had 30 pages of information. My friend suggested I include the healing properties too. I NEVER thought it would become what it has. I've been making jewelry for thirty (30) years and 1075 pieces later. I'm always amazed at God's healing, I know I shouldn't be. He gave us these things to help us, and I thank Him everyday. I hope you find this manual as interesting as I have writing it.

“ Healing with Gemstones ”

Description of Book: Healing with Gemstones is a compiled manual that shows you that gemstones can be used to assist your healing. God told us He's given us everything we need to heal ourselves. The gems aren't to replace medicine, necessarily, but to assist with healing. Every chemical on this planet is in our bodies, and when we start having problems (pain, etc.), it's usually because, as we age our bodies start losing some of the chemicals, wearing the gems put the chemicals back in our bodies slowly and gently.

There are four (4) sections to the book: Section one (1) is the ailments and the gemstones that will help. Section two (2) is the gemstone and their countries of origin. Section three (3) is Chakra's and Shaman stones and Section four (4) Healing for our pets. I hope you find this interesting and helpful.

CONVERSATIONS WITH MY PASTOR-"HOLY SPIRIT" (First Session)

“Hello, pastor. Thanks for seeing me.”

“Of course,” pastor said with a welcoming smile. “I’m always here to support the folks in my Church. What can I do for you?”

“I have an issue with the Church that I need to get off my chest. Actually, there are two issues involved that relate to the same subject.”

“Go on. I’m listening.” His smile turned into a noncommittal slash across his face.

“I don’t think the Church correctly understands the nature of God. Specifically, the Godhead.”

“That’s a suspiciously big issue!” His mouth turned downward into a frown. “Are you sure you’re on the right track? I wouldn’t expect a lay person to be concerned about theological matters. You realize, don’t you, that our understanding of God has been settled for well over a millennium. This would be a bad time to try and change things, particularly since there are too many Churches that are going off the rails these days, sliding down a slippery slope. I hope you’re not down on Paul. He told us that Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever. Look it up. It’s in Hebrews 13:8.”

“I don’t have anything to say against that. I don’t have any issue with Scripture itself, provided that we’re talking about the original manuscript. But in one very important area, I believe that the original Scripture was tampered with.”

“Actually, I have a question of my own. Do you have a degree from an accredited seminary?”

“Well, no, but. . .”

“Have you even attended a seminary?”

“No, but. . .”

“I’ll listen to you, but you should know that I’m doing so out of politeness to a member of my congregation. So what is it you wish to say?” He looked down at his watch.

“I question the Church’s understanding of the composition, roles and characters of the three Members of the Trinity.”

“How so?”

“In just about every expression of the Christian faith, including both Catholic and Protestant versions, the Holy Spirit is seen as weakly masculine, causing confusion on the various roles attached to each Member of the Godhead, destroying its essence as Family, and violating Moses’ Shema in Deuteronomy 6 that our Trinitarian Godhead is one God. Besides that, the present arrangement weakens the love between God and man.”

“Are you trying to suggest that the Holy Spirit is feminine? I have to tell you, there’s a movement within the fallen Church that tries to claim that God is a woman. Is that what you’re trying to say? If you are, that’s blasphemy.”

“No, I’m not saying that. The Father and Son are masculine, more strongly so than the present arrangement suggests. I’m fully in agreement with the Bible there. In fact, I take to heart what Moses said in Deuteronomy 23:1 and what Paul said in 1 Corinthians 6:9 and 10 about weak masculinity:

“He who is wounded in the stones, or hath his privy member cut off, shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord.”

“Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolators, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.”

“These Scriptural statements effectively take the dual-gender idea of individuals off the table as well. Both Jesus and the divine Father must be strongly and exclusively male. But the Holy Spirit, one of the three, must be female. With that understanding, everything falls into place: the Family nature of the Godhead emphasizes the singularity of God. The Trinitarian nature becomes subordinate to the oneness of Family, allowing the threeness of God to shine in the individual Members of the Godhead, who now possess distinct roles. God the Father is the Will behind Creation; the Holy Spirit is the Means to transform the initiating concepts into reality; and the Son is the Reality itself. Notice in this that the divine Means, following the conceptualization created by the Will, gives birth to the Reality. Simple but profound.”

“But then, why would the Church have been so misguided for so long if what you say is true? I find it hard to believe that such a gross misrepresentation of God as you claim would persist for so very long. The slope into godlessness is becoming steeper, and now you want to give Christianity a big push over the cliff.”

“I don’t find it hard to believe, and just maybe a correct concept of the Holy Spirit would pull Christians away from the cliff instead of pushing them over. By this time, nobody can remember how the misrepresentation came about, so we no longer have the means to challenge the original thinking. But we can make an educated guess. To me it’s obvious. If you read and understand the mindset of the Church Fathers around the time when Constantine legitimized Christianity and the Church held the convention at Nicea, there was a lot of arguing going on about what belonged in Scripture and what didn’t. It got pretty heated, as there were some popular notions that were later considered to be heretic, and there was also the question about which of the many fragments relating to God available at the time should legitimately be included in the canon of Scripture. Another huge issue at the time was the desire of the Church, a Body that was just coming out of severe persecution, to make a distinction between the Church and the degenerate secular society that surrounded them.

The sexual debauchery of the Roman society went way beyond the bounds of proper behavior, and gave the Church the strong desire to separate herself from the prevailing low standards.”

“I’m not so sure that you’re on a tenable path” pastor said with a dismissive shake of his head. “It’s a lot to swallow. I’ll give some thought to the matter and get back with you.”

How do cultural traditions shape the way we love, lead, and live—and how can we break free from the ones that hold us back? On this thought-provoking episode of DAILY SPARK TV, Dr. Angela Chester interviews David Sequeira, Ph.D, author of The Machismo and Marianismo Tango, to explore the complex dance between gender roles, cultural expectations, and personal empowerment.

“The Machismo and Marianismo Tango”

by: David Sequeira, Ph.D

Machismo, the male ideal so specific to Hispanic culture, is complemented by its corollary marianismo, the female ideal. Both are examined in this careful study, along with the Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder that so often accompanies-and, in fact, overhangs-the lives of the women who have survived the abuse that machismo too often inflicts.
