Featured Author

Geoffrey Waugh

A brief biography of a controversial hero, Jesus, the Messiah (Christ), focusing on his life and ministry around three Passover Festivals. He became famous for loving and helping people, especially the outcasts and ignored ones like half-casts, prostitutes, cheats, and sinners. Why would such a popular young leader create both loyal followers and intense opposition that led to his brutal torture and public execution? His life story is now the world's best seller in Bibles in over 700 languages and portions translated into over 1400 different languages. We date our diaries and calendars from the time of his birth, celebrated globally every Christmas.

The same book with two titles is The Amazing Life of Jesus and The Life of Jesus, a Maincrest Media Award Winner.

"A Relational Fellowship: Pursuing a Covenant Relationship with God"

God laid the foundation of human existence in the fabric of relationships with vertical and lateral components for survival and well-being. The vertical component establishes a spiritual connection with God, the Creator, to energize the lateral to form living paradigms for appropriate human development and maintenance rules, obligations, and responsibilities. When both components perform optimally, transforming a relationship is a doddle. This book explains established principles of all human relationships and provides profound insights to enrich a journey with God and to awaken freshness in relationships with fellow men. Therefore, whether vertically or laterally, human relationships are designed to be a two-way street, requiring reciprocal obligation or joint action. In "A Relational Fellowship: Pursuing a Covenant Relationship with God," the author inspires the reader to embrace new birth as the sovereign act of God's grace that breaks the grip of sin on the believer to release him from human depravity so that he could share in God's nature to serve Him acceptably and profitably.

The author conveys that a relational fellowship with God goes beyond believing in Him to being in accord with Christ in all viewpoints, interests, desires, and conduct. In conclusion, without the freedom of choosing to relate genuinely with God, love would not be genuine, would be deficient of its genuine juicy sweetness of fellowship, would be emptied of its genuine warm comfort of companionship and would be devoid of its trustworthiness in the union.

A United States Marine Veteran and dedicated career registered nurse of over 33 years, Randy has seamlessly transitioned from serving his country and caring for patients to weaving compelling narratives that captivate the imagination. His love for writing historical, Christian fiction is deeply rooted in his fascination with Old Testament history.

Randy's unique ability to develop compelling characters and intricate themes, all grounded in biblical facts, ensures that his readers are in for a thrilling and enlightening experience. Randy calls Tulsa, Oklahoma, his home – a place where his diverse interests and talents come together, creating a life rich in creativity, faith, and family.

"Beyond the Banks"

After narrowly escaping Pharaoh and his unrelenting army through the Red Sea, Acts and the Israelite nation venture deeper into the desert, learning to trust in the Lord's provision and guidance. With each step, the true test of their faith begins.

Newly forged relationships grow, and courage is tested. Prepare for a journey of heart-pounding battles, spiritual enlightenment, and a testament to the enduring fight between good and evil as the Israelites confront not only the harsh realities of their journey but also the supernatural forces that both guide and threaten them.

The eldest of three boys born in the British West Indies. My foremost passion is writing; I have been doing so since my early teens. I have written three books, with a fourth being this, Yard Wars, and a fifth on the way this year. My writings concentrate on positive situations and contain no foul language or adult situations. A sampling of this theme is available for free download as an audio postcard from my site, phzed.com.

"Yard Wars"

This piece is a story set in the American southwest, in the yard of a man named Oscar, though it is primarily concerned with the yard's occupants: ants and lizards. Oscar destroys the fire ants' mound in his yard, committing insect genocide.

A hero emerges among the fire ants and enlists the help and friendship of the Gila monsters living in the yard. They agree to help rebuild the mound and potentially get revenge on Oscar. Eventually, they get their wish, and Oscar is taken off in an ambulance. The other enemy of both ants and lizards, the cat Virgil, is killed by the ambulance.

Helen Fernald

Helen Fernald is a grief recovery author who teaches the therapeutic art of letter writing as a way to not only find peace and renewed hope but also a loving connection after loss. After losing her mother suddenly when Helen was only forty, she felt heartbroken. Then she began writing to her mother. By befriending her own grief, she was able to reconnect with her mother in a deep and loving way.

“Love, Helen: Letters to My Mother: Creating a Loving Connection after Loss”

Love, Helen is the story of Helen’s journey while slowly cleaning out the closet of her heart following the death of her beloved mother. She wasn’t prepared to lose her. She did the only thing she knew how to do. She kept busy, swallowing every feeling. Then she ended up in the hospital and was forced to stop. While recovering, she began to write these letters. Her heart broke wide open; the flood of blocked emotions poured out. Finally Helen was able to accept her mother’s death. It is her deepest hope these letters will bring a sense of peace to the reader.

Marlene Burling

Marlene Burling is a widow, a resident of Batavia, NY. She was a pastor's wife, married for 51 years, has 3 children, 10 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Besides "Breaking Through the Clouds," she has written "Grandma, Tell Me the Easter Story," two 365-day devotionals: "A Morning Walk with God," and "Daily Walks with God." She writes a weekly blog on Monday mornings on her website (marleneburling.com) and on face book. She has developed a workshop for widows, "There's Life after Loss," and is co-leader of "Grief Share," at her church, Grace Baptist Church, in Batavia NY.

"Breaking Through the Clouds"

Marlene's desire for her book, "Breaking Through the Clouds" is to share her story and let her readers see how God worked in her life and how He can do the same for them. From all she has learned after many years of walking in the Christian faith through devastating losses, grief, heartaches, and disappointments she hopes to help others overcome life's obstacles through trust in God.

This volume is an inspirational work intended to guide readers both to and in the Christian faith.

My first job was teaching students with learning disabilities. This experience is where my passion for teaching children to read was born. After raising my three children, I went back to work to continue teaching children how to read for seventeen years.

I developed a passion to help as many children learn to read as I could, so they would have a fair chance at life. In writing children's books that encourage children to be brave in the face of their common childhood fears, I hope to continue helping children to experience the world through a love of reading.

"What Should Cookie Do? Thunderstorms"

Cookie is afraid of thunder! Her mom and dad tell her ways that she can be brave during storms. She tries them out, and soon she realizes that being brave actually works! I bet your little person will become brave if they try them too... ; The dark can be very scary! Cookie is afraid of the dark, too! Thankfully she remembers what her mom and dad told her about how to be brave. She gave it a try and it worked!!

Davida Coleman

Davida Coleman first stepped into the literary world with her debut book, As It Was in the Beginning, So Shall It Be in the End, seven years ago. An accomplished poet, artist, and community advocate, she is dedicated to uplifting and healing others. Although born in New York, she now resides on the West Coast, where she serves her community by working with youth and leading Soul One, LLC, an organization focused on holistic healing in mind, body, and spirit. A devoted mother of three and a former foster parent, Coleman views her service to the community as a reflection of her faith and commitment to making a difference in the lives of others.

“What Does Your Heaven Look Like Vol #1 ”

Inspired by the global grief experienced during COVID-19, “What Does Your Heaven Look Like?” serves as a heartfelt tribute to those who transitioned alone, their loved ones unable to be by their side. Through a series of thought-provoking questions, Coleman encourages readers to ponder their own beliefs about the afterlife and their expectations of a final resting place.

This book is more than a meditation on loss—it is a call to honor those who have passed and to embrace the idea that every ending marks a new beginning. Coleman’s words remind us that no labor of love is ever in vain and that our departed loved ones continue to live on in memory and spirit.

Mark K. Olsen was raised in a conservative Baptist home in Northern Minnesota. After graduating from the university with a Master's degree in English, he was drafted into the army and sent to Viet Nam. This experience propelled him into a deeper study of the secret teachings of Christ. He has been an educator and author in California for over fifty years, appearing numerous times on television and podcasts.

"The Layman's Guide to Experiences in God-Realization"

This memoir begins by discussing how to grow closer to Christ, by describing several mystical practices that are used by believers all over the world. Subsequently, it presents seventy spiritual experiences, from everyday miracles to out-of-body experiences, visions, and dreams. It presents the esoteric (hidden) view of spirituality, describing the growth of soul, salvation, the levels of heaven, and the eventual destiny of all souls. It is written in everyday English that makes deep concepts understandable, and is full of humor and the common problems that everyone faces in their spiritual journey.

Agitu Wodajo

Agitu Wodajo has more than thirty years of extensive experience in women empowerment, healthcare, community/economic development and social policy. She holds diplomas in community nursing and as a pediatric nurse practitioner, a Bachelor of arts in human services, an executive master of public affairs, as a Bush Leadership Fellow, and a PhD in Christian Leadership. She has received awards and recognitions from Metropolitan State University, the governor of Minnesota, the Department of Homeland Security, and KARE 11 News for her commitment to bringing about a positive change in the immigrant communities of the Twin Cities metro area.

"A Purposeful Life"

A Purposeful Life is my personal story detailing my experience growing up in the 60s in Ethiopia, studying and working in both Ethiopia and the United States, traveling the world, and serving others while raising five well accomplished godly children as a single mom. The memoir walks readers through my various tribulations revealing to them the power of faith, perseverance, and optimism that led me through the depth of adversity inspiring me to find and heed my call to empower underprivileged women to bring a positive change to their family lives and their communities.

“I Will Be With You: God's Favorite Promise”

God's promise of being with us should not be viewed as one pledge of many. Rather, it should be recognized as His favorite promise.

God explicitly makes the promise to several individuals throughout the Bible—and Scripture reveals many examples of God being with an individual or demonstrating His presence. Referring to the promise as “a gem that has stayed hidden in plain sight,” this author calls on readers to claim the promise for themselves. He notes that when God promises, “I will be with you,” he means everyone, including the person you see when you look in the mirror.

A Reflective Journey of a Loved One's Passing by: CK Brashares

I remember coming home from a particularly tough day when mom was especially obstinate about whatever we were trying to do for her that day. I pulled into my driveway, turned off the truck, and just sat there for a few minutes leaning back in my seat with my head against the headrest. I let out a sigh as my gaze went to the sky. I was struck by how the sky felt expansive and peaceful yet how small I was in comparison. It struck me oddly that I felt this feeling and I wondered what it meant. Then the epiphany hit me. Since the day I had found out my mother's days were numbered, I gradually diminished, day by day, becoming more compact/emotionally shut down to get through this period. I realized that I could no longer diminish myself any further. The expansiveness of the sky highlighted for me my feeling of smallness. Also, I could no longer hide from the feelings that came with the eventuality of my mother's passing. I had to open and face those feelings and go through the pain of her loss.

What If? by: Loni Hunley

In this world, chaos certainly seems to reign. World events and news leave many of us anxious and searching for help to navigate it all and worrying about what it all means for the future. If this is you as well, the Lord has the answers you seek. Are you curious about the Bible and what it says?

Have you ever asked yourself, is the Bible really applicable to the world today? In What If? we will look at the possibility of what life could be like if we lived according to God's plan and directions for our lives. Come, join me on a journey of God's Word. Together, we will walk through "What if" questions and explore the answers that the Lord is eager to provide.
