

THERE'S REASON

It's grey... when the sun goes away
But the clouds will soon pass
And your world will shine so brightly
So rightly

It's cold... when no warmth is returned
But the heat of your heart
And your passion starts igniting
Burn brightly

You will see. You bring about your destiny
While you sit and you wait, you're just marching to your fate
There's reason. Keep breathing
You will rise, wiping sleep from cloudless eyes
While you march to your fate, you will see your destiny awake
There's reason. Keep breathing
There's reason. Keep breathing

There's hate... in this world filled with pain
But you won't let it fill you
Solider on and continue, unfighting
So rightly
There's pain... there's no growth without strain
But the scars that you wear
Haven't stopped you from caring, quietly
You're mighty

You will see. You bring about your destiny
While you sit and you wait, you're just marching to your fate
There's reason. Keep breathing
You will rise, wiping sleep from cloudless eyes
While you march to your fate, you will see your destiny awake
There's reason. Keep breathing
There's reason. Keep breathing

You will see. You bring about your destiny
While you sit and you wait, you're just marching to your fate
There's reason. Keep breathing
You will rise, wiping sleep from cloudless eyes
While you march to your fate, you will see your destiny awake
There's reason. Keep breathing
There's reason. Keep breathing

There's fear... bringing light to what's held dear
Moving hearts to seek peace
Gives reason to breathe through what's frightening
Enlightening
'Cause it's grey when the sun goes away
But the clouds will soon pass
And the world will soon shine
So brightly