

A Little History

How do Flower Essences work?

To understand how flower essences work requires a recognition that the human being is more than a physical body. We also incorporate a body of mental energy, a body of feelings, and a spiritual body or Self. Flower essences are energetic imprints of the life force of plants which interact with these subtle human bodies, evoking specific qualities within us. The healing process starts with the intention to heal. Flower essences act as agents to bring awareness, understanding, and a newfound ability to break old patterns of thinking and feeling. They remind us that the answers are in attuning to the healing powers of Nature, always in the present moment.

How do I use Flower Essences?

Essences are typically taken orally from a dropper bottle. The standard dosage is four drops under the tongue, between one and four times daily. You can take the drops directly from the bottle, or add them to a glass of water or other liquid. You may also combine several essences by making a dosage bottle yourself. Just select the essences and add four to seven drops of each to a dropper bottle filled with pure water. It is not recommended that you mix more than five essences at a time. There are many other ways of using flower essences, such as in massage oil, misting sprayers, in a cream base, or in baths.
