

The Quantum Field Basics

Susie Mooratoff 2025

The Quantum Field Basics

When we understand that everything is energy, and that energy arises from consciousness, we begin to see that all of reality is consciousness-energy interacting across different dimensions and levels of harmonic sound, frequency, vibration, and matter. From atomic and subatomic particles, to their antiparticle counterparts, and into the multidimensional realms that exist beyond time and space, all is an expression of intelligent order. Consciousness is the organizing principle — it gives energy its pattern, intelligence, movement, and awareness.

This Consciousness is the presence of Divine Intelligence - God, First Source, The Creator. In this sense, the Quantum Field can be understood as Divine Intelligence or Divine Consciousness in motion — a living matrix of infinite potential, constantly responding to our intention, emotion, and frequency.

Science has shown that all matter arises from quantum fields, with particles such as protons, electrons, and neutrons (carrying positive, negative, and neutral charges) and their antiparticle counterparts emerging as excitations within these fields. Their interactions are governed by electromagnetic forces, and energetically, these dynamics may reflect patterns of magnetic attraction, repulsion, or a state of harmonic coherence. Harmonic coherence is essentially what we refer to as the zero point or still point of neutrality accessed through our heart consciousness.

The quantum field of consciousness energy carries no belief systems, trauma, or wounding. It is an essentially neutral field — free of limitation — and therefore holds the potential for infinite creation.

This field is always available to us and is something we are interacting with constantly, whether we are conscious of it or not.

Because this field is conscious and responsive, it reflects our thoughts, emotions, and intentions back to us. For example, if we are consciously — or even unconsciously — feeling genuine gratitude, the field has no choice but to begin organizing experiences in our lives that give us more to feel grateful for.

On the other hand, when we're running negative thought patterns — such as, “I always attract this kind of person or situation in my relationships or recurring themes into my life” — then the quantum field will continue to reflect that belief back to us.

Until we become aware of and shift that inner dialogue, the field will perpetuate similar experiences, not because it's punishing us, but because it is neutral and simply responds to the frequencies we broadcast.

This pure field of Consciousness knows who is working with it. It feels your presence, it knows your thought patterns, and it attunes to what is held within your heart and emotions.

When we consciously engage with this field through the pure intention of the heart, it responds — and this is where miracles can unfold. In that space of alignment, what once seemed impossible can reorganize instantly, not through force, but through resonance.

This Consciousness Field is not distant — it is living, intelligent, and intimate.

It is not accessed through effort, but through alignment, presence, and purity of intent.

In this meeting point, where your hearts true intentions meets the infinite potential of the Quantum Field, reality begins to shift. This is where we co-create with God.

This understanding of how the Quantum Field works is the basis for what we intentionally access during any type of energy healing work, whether it's Quantum Healing, energy alignment, or gridwork.

In these practices, we're not just moving energy — we're interacting with the God Consciousness Field, that responds to our intentions, emotions, and awareness.

The field is intelligent particles and antiparticles as well as virtual particles and virtual antiparticles of energy. So if God is energy and in everything we can see all around us, and the air that we breathe, then the quantum field is also God at the smallest particle and antiparticle level and we can begin to innerstand how everything is ultimately interconnected.

