1. Adoption

Investment.

- Morgan Stanley (MS) is piloting cryptocurrency trading on E*TRADE, charging a 50-basis-point fee as it expands digital asset access for retail investors.
- Charles Schwab (SCHW) has started rolling out spot Bitcoin and Ethereum trading for U.S. retail customers, signaling growing mainstream adoption of crypto services among major brokerage firms.
  - ProChain- Our focus is on adoption by institutional investors. Nevertheless, we're happy to see retail investors getting additional access to cryptocurrency investments.

Currency and Use.

- Securitize and Computershare announced a partnership to help U.S. issuers support tokenized shares, advancing the integration of blockchain infrastructure into traditional equity ownership and transfer systems.
- At the same time, BlackRock and JPMorgan Chase are expanding tokenized money market offerings on blockchain networks, with BlackRock filing for two new funds and JPMorgan launching a second fund on Ethereum aimed at supporting stablecoin reserve management.
  - ProChain- The Real World Asset (RWA) applications of public blockchain and cryptocurrency are generally boring (not headline grabbing), but makeup incredible amounts/value and continue to stack up.

2. Regulation and Legal

- The bipartisan momentum behind the U.S. crypto market structure bill, the CLARITY Act, continues to build as the Senate Banking Committee advanced the legislation in a 15–9 vote while lawmakers and the White House negotiate stablecoin yield rules and ethics provisions ahead of a targeted summer timeline.
- Meanwhile, tokenized finance infrastructure is accelerating rapidly:
  - Securitize received approval from FINRA for tokenized securities custody and underwriting.
  - DTCC is preparing a July rollout of blockchain-based settlement pilots with participation from firms including BlackRock and Circle.

3. Public Companies

- Gemini (GEMI) reported substantial year-over-year revenue growth and released its first prediction market performance metrics, driving a sharp rise in its shares.

- The results highlight growing institutional and retail interest in crypto-native financial products beyond spot trading, including event-based prediction markets and derivatives infrastructure.
