"I can't say enough about Croaker Percussion products... the sheer innovation, quality, and versatile sound(s) of these hand made instruments makes them a worthy addition to your percussion ensemble"

Chris Carr

Owner, Bucks County Drum Company

Founded in 2015, Croaker Percussion is dedicated to creating quality, handcrafted percussion instruments with superior sound qualities and unmatched craftsmanship. Based in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, Croaker works with university professors and local artists to develop and refine its acoustic percussion instruments, always looking to improve, innovate and invent. Each Croaker product is hand made in the USA by one of our Master Craftsmen in our workshop. Through each phase, beginning with materials selection and ending with the final finishing and tuning, the instruments are meticulously looked after and cared for.

Originally a cajon specialist dedicated to developing a cajon with a clean, high quality sound, Croaker expanded its product line in 2017 when it released the Wojik Brush Box, a new product designed to enhance brushing sounds in a portable wooden acoustic instrument.

Croaker's Cajon and Brush Box products are available with Patent Pending Bendid Strings™ technology to provide a snare sound effect through the unique installation of guitar strings. In our Cajon products, Bendid Strings technology virtually eliminates the unwanted snare sounds when playing the bass notes, providing superior sound quality. In our Brush Box products, Bendid Strings allows the box to be played similar to a snare drum using brushes and wooden rod style sticks while eliminating snare buzz created from surrounding instruments.

Croaker products can be found across the country, from small open-mic nights and listening rooms to large festivals and mega-church performances in the hands of amateur and professional musicians alike.

"Fabulous, incredible tone. Love in every box! I've turned many a percussionist on to Croaker products, now they're all believers too."
