Bring on the Rain!

Have you ever noticed how each day is different? Our priorities change, our perspective changes, and it's never the same each day. And now I'm wishing for the rain to begin ASAP to wash away the dreadful pollen.

Am I the only one going crazy this day? With so much to do and all the time in a day to do it, why am I so anxious? Will we ever get back to normal? What will normal look like?

So in the meantime I am here to report on our last month of progress at Northeast Georgia Chapter of Quilts for Kids.

The Good News: There were very few sick children in our hospital this month. Only 22 quilts were taken to the nursing staff. They didn't give all of them out.

More Good News: My shelves are full of quilts ready to be given out. In fact they all won't fit on the shelves. So if you have a kit signed out, don't fret about not being able to return it now. We'll get it later.

The Bad News: We're still in crisis mode until this pandemic is over. Continue to practice social distancing and safe practices to keep you and your family safe and healthy. If you need something to do, consider making face mask covers for the professionals who need all our help. Look up Georgia Sewers on Facebook for more information.

All of our chapter activities are cancelled until further notice. We will abide by the local decisions as to when we can reconvene our gatherings. Then we can hug each other and be social!

And by the way, tomorrow is our official anniversary date of the chapter's beginning. We will be 8 years old. Thank you all for such a fine time.

5640 quilts donated to kids so far.

Way to go!

I know this. When this ends—
AND IT WILL—every game will sell out, every restaurant will have a 2-hour wait, every kid will be glad to be in school, everyone will love their job, the stock market will skyrocket, every other house will get TP'd, and we'll all embrace and shake hands. That's gonna be a pretty good day.

Hang in there, World.
