

This kitchen had simply worn out, the thermofoil cabinets were peeling, the backsplash was dark and dated, the tile on the floor was breaking. The only components that were saved were the appliances and the freestanding island. They needed much more storage and after years of "putting up with it" they finally have a dream come true. The main design challenge was working within the same footprint but increasing storage. Conestoga custom inset cabinetry was used with the design utilizing stack on cabinetry to the ceiling with beautiful glass and LED lights in the uppers in a shaker style. The doors to the kitchen were removed and the pantry was converted to a barn door to allow for greatly increased efficiency and the amazing barn door that ties in with the island. The team updated all the lighting including LED cans, very cool island pendants and LED under cabinet lighting. We installed all new tile floors which flow into the sunroom where we added a reclaimed beam. The homeowners' favorite features are the abundance of space saving organizers. Now all of their spices, appliances, pots and pans have a home. The extra deep appliance garage to the left of the stove has doors that self-store in recessed pockets. But the most amazing organizers are the specialty blind corner organizers – which transform the most unusable corner space into a storage dream. The white cabinets & farmhouse sink were accented with honed black honed natural soapstone paired perfectly with an Annie Selke Artisanal subway tile that completes the farmhouse look with a handmade crackle finish. In the Family room we added matching cabinetry for a "built-in" look and completed a fireplace makeover to remove the colonial accents and replace them with a style more fitting to the home. We hope you enjoy and appreciate the transformation of this kitchen and style of this home.
