This homeowner is a hobby baker and badly needed more convenience and organization than her old kitchen provided. The new kitchen now has a 41 square foot quartz kitchen countertop (portico cream) that sits on top of a navy stained island and provides plenty of space to get the job done.

During this remodel, these homeowners decided to invest in an induction cooktop. The perimeter cabinets are quartersawn oak and stained with a flagstone gray stain. When asked what they would have done differently, they replied why mess with perfection?
