More From the Middle East

Erdogan on Israel, Iran, and the Kurds.

Recep Tayyip Erdogan has firm views on Israel: he doesn't like the Jewish State and wishes it would disappear. He is convinced it practices "apartheid" at home and "genocide" abroad. He has fantasized about creating, and heading, a pan-Islamic army that would be able to defeat the IDF so that "From the river to the sea, Palestine will be free" which is the thinly-disguised call for Israel to disappear entirely, to be replaced by a State of "Palestine." Erdogan has watched with alarm Israel's swift battering of Iran, a display of advanced weaponry, spectacular intelligence, and a brilliant and brave soldiery, made up of both battle-hardened professionals and reservists. But he is not entirely displeased at the weakening of the Islamic Republic. He wants Iran weakened, but not enough to lead to the regime's collapse; that could mean Iranian Kurds would gain full autonomy. More on this can be found here: "As Israel becomes a dominant force in the Middle East, where does Turkey stand? – analysis," by Amichai Stein, Jerusalem Post, April 27, 2026. ### Israel's Economy and Financial Markets Are Booming – Even as Conflict Rages in the Middle East.

Despite the war with Iran which began in February 2026, and the ongoing conflict since October 2023, the Israeli economy and financial markets are thriving and showing impressive resilience, with better-than-expected performance compared to developed countries. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) estimates that Israel's economy will grow by 3.5% this year compared to 2.3% in the US and 1.3% in the EU. This means that Israel's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) is expected to outperform all G7 countries in 2026. (cnbc.com 4/30)

Hezbollah Underground Tunnel Dismantled.

IDF soldiers with more than 24 tons of explosives destroyed the Hezbollah tunnel measuring more than 140 meters long. Inside the tunnel were living quarters, operational shafts, and numerous weapons. The tunnel had recently been used by Hezbollah terrorists to advance attack plans. (beholdisrael.com 4/30)

Testing of QFS (Quantum Funds System) Started at the First of the Year in Several Countries.

Test countries were selected for their strategic positioning and political alignment with those fighting against the global Cabal with testing centers for QFS across Asia, Eastern Europe, South Africa, and parts of South America, with underground facilities equipped to handle trials with live quantum computers. These countries have seen gradual integration into the QFS under real-world conditions feeding data into the quantum ledger, proving the system's invulnerability and transparency. The nations involved in the tests have experienced seamless, instantaneous transactions, which bypass traditional banking routes and keep funds secure. Insiders reveal that the QFS is now handling over 100 million real-time transactions daily within these regions and involve everything from personal payments to government spending, trade agreements, and international transfers. Each movement of money and recorded transaction, has been documented and tracked, providing a complete financial history in one of the most secure ledgers in history. There are already 13 quantum satellites in low Earth orbit, working solely for QFS to maintain an impenetrable connection that prevents any potential hacking. They come from highly classified military contractors and secret space programs, assets that have been quietly developed for this very purpose. Every transaction in this quantum network, ensures absolute security and zero vulnerability to interception. (glennbeck telegram 5/3)

As It Was In The Days Of Lot (Genesis 19)

A new festival announcement out of Israel is drawing attention and sparking debate far beyond the region. Set to take place June 1–4, 2026, the event dubbed "Pride Land" is being promoted as the largest LGBTQ festival ever held in the Middle East. Coordinating this "festival" is Aaron Cohen of the tribe of Levi who plans to transform the area surrounding the Dead Sea, the area believed to be ancient Sodom and Gomorrah, into a multi-day celebration featuring music, cultural events, and community gatherings with both nightlife and performances, but also family-friendly zones with activities designed for younger attendees. Organizers say their goal is to create a "multigenerational" experience combining entertainment with art, relaxation spaces and workshops. As the festival approaches, it's likely the debate will only intensify, highlighting not just cultural differences, but deeper disagreements over values, tradition, and how modern events intersect with historically and religiously significant locations. For now, Pride Land is shaping up to be more than just a festival, it's becoming a flashpoint in a much larger global conversation.

Though the nation of Israel still operates under God's Covenant with Abraham, the rebellious and unrepentant will suffer greatly during the Tribulation. The repentant remnant who worship Jesus as their Messiah will be preserved and protected during the coming terror and destruction. ### God's Law Wins in the Lone Star State.

They say everything's bigger in Texas ... including copies of the Ten Commandments (20-by-16 inches, minimum) that got the OK from a federal appeals court to make a mandatory appearance in every public school. In a 9-8 decision, the 5th Circuit Court found that a law calling for the Decalogue's display in schools does not tell churches or synagogues or mosques what to believe or how to worship, it punishes no one, nor it does not require religious teaching. In addition, the ruling found the Ten Commandments displays are not "engines of coercive indoctrination." The decision comes after the American Civil Liberties Union and the Americans United for Separation of Church and State, and others, sued, claiming the new law violates the First Amendment and the Free Exercise Clause. Their Answer: Not So. (wnd.com 4/29)

Reading Time Is Quality Time. On several occasions, Jesus challenged His audience with questions starting with "Have you not read" (Matthew 12:3, 5; 19:4; 22:31). If you are looking to answer in the affirmative, you can start reading to your children from the Bible and answering their questions following the path of Mothers in the Old Testament who rehearsed God's laws to their young. According to neuropsychologist Laura Phillips, "Just exposure to words is the single most important thing that you can do to help build the language pathways in your child's brain. Reading and exposure to words helps kids maximize their language and cognitive capacity" (Child Mind Institute, 12/12/25). Studies have found that children whose parents read to them daily may enter kindergarten having heard, potentially, more than a million words more than a child whose parents did not. Further, "the more words that are in a child's language world, the more words they will learn, and the stronger their language skills are when they reach kindergarten, the more prepared they are to be able to read, and the better they read, the more likely they will graduate from high school" (PBS.org, 6/24/14). Lay aside the electronics and read the Bible and wholesome paper books. Reading to children promotes their cognitive development, enhances their preparation for academic success, increases their ability to concentrate, and teaches them discipline (All For Kids 3/11/25). ### Jobless Claims Fall to Lowest Level

Since 1969. Applications for U.S. unemployment benefits fell last week to the lowest level since September 6, 1969, underscoring the continued strength of the labor market despite recent corporate layoff announcements.

What is America's Place in Bible Prophecy?

All major nations will be a part of the "world" of the End Times. If the United States still exists at that time, it would be included in the prophecies of the future global economy, world government, and world religion. However, there are no definite prophecies in the Bible about the United States per se. In none of the prophecies of the end times, including that of the Battle of Gog and Magog in Ezekiel 38-39, and the Battle of Armageddon in the Book of Revelation, do we find the United States listed specifically. Thus, we have come to the conclusion the United States is not a major factor in the prophetic scenario. So, the question we must ask is "Why?"

One of the reasons for this may be simply because the United States did not exist in Biblical times, so God did not lead the Biblical authors to write about a nation that was not to be founded for thousands of years in the future. That is a possibility. Yet, as powerful and influential as our nation is, we must explore other possibilities as well. 1) The United States may have been destroyed and eliminated as a result of an act of war or terrorism. 2) The United States may decline into a second-rate nation and no longer be a major power player in the end times, maybe the result of war or financial decline. 3) The United States may be led by someone in the last days who refuses to come to the aid of the nation of Israel in her most desperate hour. 4) The United States, no longer able to "go it alone" on the world scene, may be compelled to join forces with the Antichrist and become a part of his revived Roman Empire.

Another important point to consider is the effect of the Rapture of the Church. If there really are millions of genuinely Born-Again Christians in America (only God knows the number), the effect of the Rapture could be to immediately force the United States into second-rate status among the nations of the world. The loss of millions of people in America would have a catastrophic effect on the world economy, and on the balance of military and political power in the world. The world would be left in chaos. There would be an immediate cry for someone to lead America and the world out of confusion and despair and back to peace and prosperity. The Bible tells us that such a call will be answered by the Antichrist. As well, consider the effect the Rapture would have on other nations of the world. The Church, the Body of Christ, exists in every nation. But in America particular, the loss of just several million people would place the nation in total chaos and confusion. So, after the Rapture, we can certainly understand how a great world leader could come on the scene and become a world dictator, trying to stabilize the global economy and bring peace, change and stability for the future. In such a scenario, the United States would become a follower rather than a leader. Thus, any prophecies concerning the Antichrist and his kingdom also become pertinent to America as this nation comes under his umbrella, so to speak, in the end times.
