Locksley also announced results of a holistic review of mineral potential outside of the known high-grade REE mineralisation within the Mojave Project, California. The holistic review identified six (6) rock-chip samples grading >0.5% Sb, including the two samples grading 11.2% Sb and 8.3% Sb. The samples were collected from the historic Desert Antimony Mine, located on the North blocks, during a previous reconnaissance sampling for REE's. In addition, four (4) samples returned copper >0.5%, including one sample assaying 4.12% Cu to the south-east of the Desert Antimony Mine.

Locksley also stated over the last 12 months, the Company completed three surface sampling programs, resulting in a total of 223 rock-chip samples and 43 stream sediment samples collected throughout the Mojave Project. As part of the holistic multi commodity review, the Company also revealed significant antimony and copper mineralisation at the Mojave Project. The high-grade antimony was represented by historic underground mine workings on quartz-stibnite (Sb2S3) veins, whilst the copper anomalism has a gold-silver-bismuth association suggesting of a felsic intrusive related source.

As reported from the 223 rock-chip samples, six samples returned antinomy grades of above 0.8% Sb. Two samples returned assay results of 1.3% and 1.4% Sb, while the best grades returned two rock-chip samples at:

- 11.2% Sb
- 8.33% Sb

The samples were all located near a historic antimony mine located in the northern portion of the North Block. See Figure 2 & 3.

The strike of historic workings at the Desert Antimony Mine is 230m south-west - north-east, open along strike and to the Company's knowledge has not been drilled. Observations onsite also suggested that there may be multiple parallel quartz stibnite-veins that have been mined from underground and opens the possibility of additional sub-parallel mineralised veins.

STRATEGIC REVIEW OF TOTTENHAM COPPER PROJECT

Subsequent to the end of the quarter, Locksley was pleased to announce the launch of a strategic review of its Tottenham Copper Project in Central NSW. The project spans a 470km<sup>2</sup> area across four exploration licences within the highly prospective Lachlan Fold Belt and Cobar Girilambone district, a region renowned for world-class copper deposits.

As reported, the key areas of focus include resource expansion opportunities and exploration and drilling programs. The review will also explore pathways to commercialize the project, including the potential for copper oxide operations.

Locksley will also assess the possibility of leveraging nearby processing infrastructure to reduce start-up costs and accelerate production timelines.
