LOGAN

<sup>1</sup> If I speak in the tongues<sup>[a]</sup> of men or of angels, but do not have love, I am only a resounding gong or a clanging cymbal. <sup>2</sup> If I have the gift of prophecy and can fathom all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have a faith that can move mountains, but do not have love, I am nothing. <sup>3</sup> If I give all I possess to the poor and give over my body to hardship that I may boast,<sup>[b]</sup> but do not have love, I gain nothing. <sup>4</sup> Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. <sup>5</sup> It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. <sup>6</sup> Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. <sup>7</sup> It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. <sup>8</sup> Love never fails. But where there are prophecies, they will cease; where there are tongues, they will be stilled; where there is knowledge, it will pass away. <sup>9</sup> For we know in part and we prophesy in part, <sup>10</sup> but when completeness comes, what is in part disappears. <sup>11</sup> When I was a child, I talked like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child. When I became a man, I put the ways of childhood behind me. <sup>12</sup> For now we see only a reflection as in a mirror; then we shall see face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall know fully, even as I am fully known. <sup>13</sup> And now these three remain: faith, hope and love. But the greatest of these is love.

TBC collegians continue to help with SBC registration

TENNESSEE BAPTIST Collegiate Ministries students who volunteered during the 2011 annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention were, from left, Conor Luck, Ashley Yates, Thom Thornton, BCM director, Vanderbilt University, Nashville; Rachel Halliburton, Katie Farley, Krista Halliburton, Will Armour, Logan Luck, Ericka Pennington, Rebekah Hurst, Stan Cavness, BCM director, Dyersburg State Community College, Dyersburg; and Julie Heath, TBC Baptist Collegiate Ministries staff, Brentwood.

PHOENIX — What began simply as a way to introduce some Dyer Baptist Association students to how the Southern Baptist Convention operates has basically changed the way SBC messengers are registered.

In 2004, Stan Cavness, Baptist Collegiate Ministries director at Dyersburg State Community College, Dyersburg, and Joe Wright, director of missions for Dyer Baptist Association, also in Dyersburg, wanted to take a group of college students on a mission trip to the SBC annual meeting in Nashville in 2005, Cavness recalled.

Cavness called Baptist leaders in Nashville and said he had a group wanting to help and asked if there was anything they could do.

He was asked, "Can they operate computers?"

With college students, that was a no-brainer. The students came and quickly established themselves at the registration table.

Cavness noted that SBC registration secretary Jim Wells was so impressed with the work done by the students that he asked Cavness if he could bring a group the next year to Greensboro, N.C.

Cavness then contacted Bill Choate, Tennessee Baptist Convention Baptist Collegiate Ministries coordinator, who thought it would be a good way to get more BCM students involved in the SBC process, Cavness said.

Since then, BCM groups from other state conventions have joined the effort, but the Tennessee group, coordinated by Cavness, has taken the lead in registering at every convention since the 2005 annual meeting.

The students' knowledge of computers has made SBC registration more efficient, Cavness said.

Messengers have told the students how pleased they are with their efficiency and good attitude, he noted.

In addition to students learning about the SBC and helping make registration more efficient, students have an opportunity to work alongside many local senior adult volunteers who help with SBC registration each year, Cavness said. "That has been a nice thing to see," he said.

Krista Halliburton, a student at Dyersburg State and member of Finley Baptist Church, Finley, has helped at registration for four years.

"I enjoy meeting people from all over the country and putting smiles on their faces," she said.

Ericka Pennington, a summer intern for Dyer Association and a student at Union University in Jackson, has been working at registration for five years.

"I enjoy seeing how the convention works. It is really interesting," said Pennington, a member of First Baptist Church, Trimble.

The students make sacrifices to attend. Each Tennessee student had to pay $500 to come to Phoenix this year to help offset flight costs, Cavness said, adding that BCM helps with food and hotel costs.

Wells, who was unable to attend this year because he is undergoing treatment for cancer, told the Baptist and Reflector that having the college students "on the front line in registration has been invaluable because of their expertise and knowledge of computers."

Wells added that working with the college students "has been a real blessing."

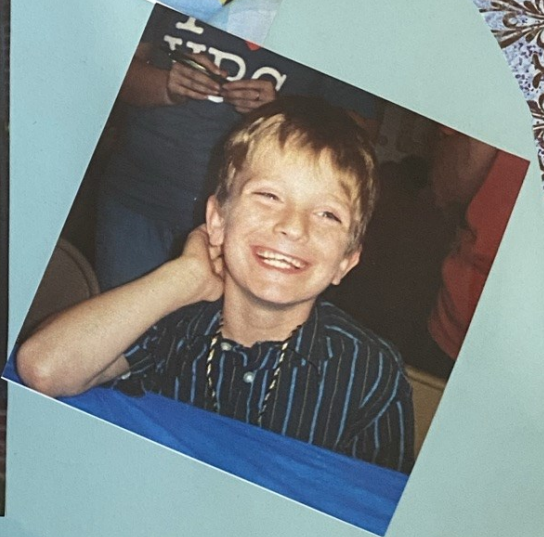

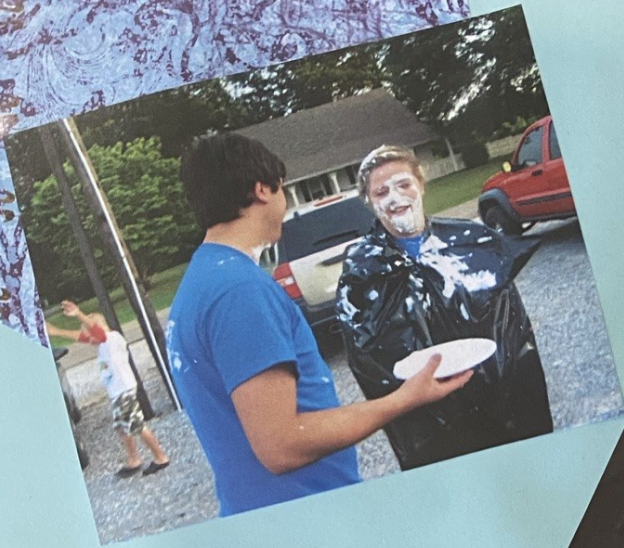

Ted Evans of South Carolina has worked with registration at annual meetings for 20 years.

Using college students has been a "win-win" situation, he said. "They do an extremely good job for the convention and are introduced to the convention.

"I would not want to do registration without them." □
