

The problem is not in the answer
But in the question that you pose
Not the urgency of your manner
But the arrogance that it shows
You press and press in accusation
Demanding guilt in what I say
The truth is something you abandon
To pat your back and win your day

2020