Fall Planting, 1996

FALL BLOOMERS — Kathleen Boyce of Belmont said it's a dirty job beautifying Belmont with these pansies, but said it's worth the effort. Kathleen and her garden club, Town and Country, spruce up the city twice a year planting flowers. (Staff Photo)

Special Project

Working with Page and Belmont Central Elementary Schools
Planting flowers in clay pots with kindergarten age students.

FIRST THINGS FIRST — Town and Country member Kim Rivera gets down to basics when she instructs kindergartners on how to plant a potted flower, "First you need a pot!" (Staff Photo)
