McAdams NJTL is part of a National USTA Foundation network of NJTL (National Junior Tennis & Learning) organizations that provide free or low cost tennis and education programs within cities and communities.

Our Mission:

Our mission is to promote tennis and leadership in the Multicultural Community as a means to achieve higher education, fitness and camaraderie. We strive to mentor and develop youth in our programs and guide them in a direction toward higher education. Our motto is "Developing Citizens for Tomorrow"

Our History:

McAdams NJTL was founded in 2009 as McAdams Community Tennis Foundation. McAdams Community Tennis Foundation was awarded 501(C)(3) status by the IRS in 2009. The McAdams Foundation partnered with the Goose Doughty Tennis Foundation until our friend and mentor Charles 'Goose' Doughty, Jr. passed away in 2013. In 2014 the name was changed to McAdams NJTL (National Junior Tennis & Learning) of Wichita Foundation to be more inclusive to the whole city and surrounding areas and to focus on both tennis and education.

McAdams NJTL introduces tennis to over 100 kids and adults during the spring and summer. Our programs include character building, essay writing and free tennis lessons. Our programs fit all levels of play. We are a member organization of the USTA (United States Tennis Association), a registered Community Tennis Association and NJTL (National Junior Tennis and Learning) chapter with the USTA. In 2010, we received the Outstanding Community Tennis Association award in the USTA Kansas District and the USTA Missouri Valley Section.

Our programs focus on tennis and education. Youth in our free tennis programs are required to write an essay in the USTA Foundation National NJTL Essay Contest. There are 10 winners in this national contest. McAdams NJTL has produced (4) national essay winners over the past eight years and one college scholarship recipient.

Maize Student Wins Essay Contest

August 2017 – National NJTL Essay Contest

*"I have a passion about tennis because you can be competitive, but you also can play for fun. I like being in tournaments even if I don't win I always walk off the court with a smile."

Essay Wins Harrison Trip to U.S. Open - August

A two-page, 300-word essay has won Allyce Harrison a three-day trip to New York City and the U.S. Open. Harrison found out about the essay contest while taking free tennis lessons offered this summer by the McAdams Tennis Club and Foundation. The contest, an annual event sponsored by the United States Tennis Association, nationally awards youth 10 all-expenses paid trips to the U.S. Open each year. Harrison, age 13, won the girls 13-14 division.

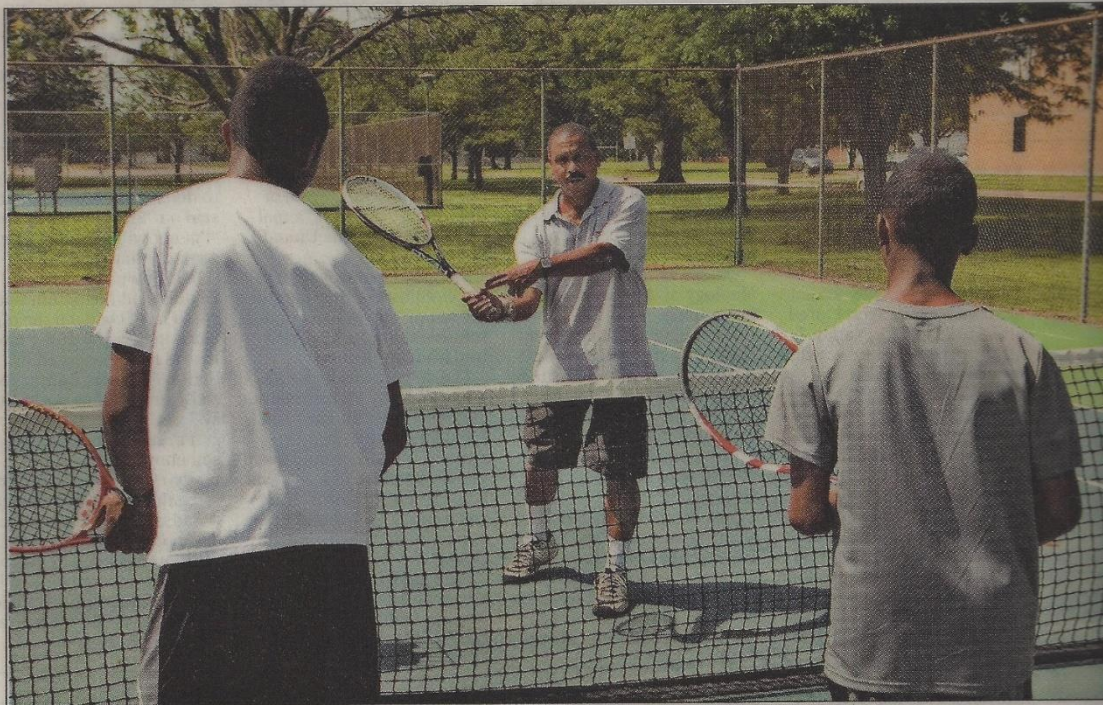

All of the contestants were asked to write an essay on Arthur Ashe's greatest accomplishments off the tennis courts. While in New York, contest winners will participate in Arthur Ashe Day at the U.S. Open. Activities scheduled for the winners while they're in New York include a beach themed party,

Tennis camp continues 50-year-old tradition

Mike Hutmacher/The Wichita Eagle

Tennis instructor Alex Lee, center, is continuing the Goose Doughty Tennis Camp at McAdams Park.

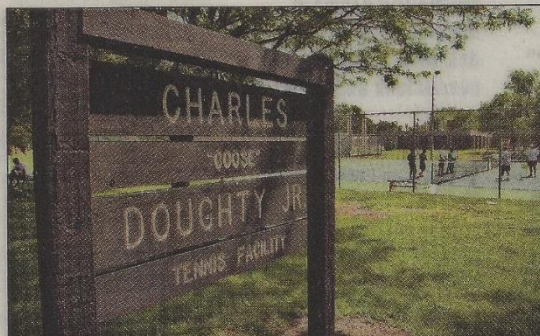

BY NASSIM BENCHABANE
 The Wichita Eagle

When 80-year-old Charles "Goose" Doughty Jr. died in October, the free youth tennis program he ran for 50 years did not die with him.

Alexander Lee is carrying on the tradition his friend started. He's volunteering on the tennis courts at McAdams Park, teaching children from 4 to 18 years old lessons for tennis and life.

About 40 people, including parents who play with their children, regularly attend the camp, which is an alternative for those who can't afford other tennis instruction.

One day at camp last week, Lee hit the ball with 12-year-old Chelese and 11-year-old Shaquoia Williams, whom he refers to as "the Williams sisters" after the star professional tennis players.

Charles "Goose" Doughty Jr., who died in October, imparted tennis skills and life skills to youths attending his camp.

Chelese and Shaquoia couldn't even hit the ball over the net two weeks ago when they started playing, he said.

"We help anybody and everybody who walks up," Lee said.

"That's what Goose always did. Tennis is probably the best sport for developing a kid's athleticism."

Lee, 58, said he met Doughty on the tennis court 35 years ago. Fresh off the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff tennis team at the time, Lee thought he could win against Doughty. "I thought, 'Who's this old guy everybody keeps talking about?'" he said humorously. "Pretty soon my tongue was hanging out. He mopped the floor with me, had me running all over the place.

"Young guys hit hard, but he hit smart."

Doughty was also smart when it came to working with kids, said Lee, who has been involved with the program since 1993. Whenever they weren't playing tennis, Doughty was talking to the children, asking them questions intended to get them thinking about the future.

"He had a subtle way of getting kids to think," Lee said.
