We just had our April meeting, which again was an in person meeting and was held at the Cradle of Aviation. Turnout was good. However with proxies we just had a bare minimum for a meeting. So please if you cannot attend please send those proxies in. The board is working on a By Law requirement for minimum attendance requirements to have a working meeting. This should help us in the future so we will have the numbers for working meeting. Once the By Laws committee does their work, the revised by laws will be brought before our membership for a vote.

Spring is here; finally I started work outside on our railway. The first order of business was to get our gold fish pond up and running. In late fall I remove water pumps for water falls and filters. And in their place install air pump to supply oxygen for fish. In the spring it's the reverse. However nothing is ever that simple or easy! For starters I had to leak proof a seal on an ultraviolet light that was tripping the GFI. That went well. However to hook up the pipes was another matter. I couldn't stop some joints from leaking. I worked on that leak problem over three hours. I never know how the fish survived the winter until I clear the water. Sometimes that takes over a week. Good news, the gold fish survived their 11th winter in our pond. Next project is to weed so I can locate the road bed, after that finish the new water falls I started last fall. Now that's after other must do house projects.

Other news, the Railroad Museum in Riverhead is redoing the Freeman rail road. They intend to do new track configurations, with three running loops. LIGRS is donating (8) pieces of 5 ft. track, this should help for smoother operation. The water feature has been up graded. Currently all track has been removed. Our club has been given two weekends to run our trains on the Freeman rail road. To all members especially those that don't have working layouts this is a great opportunity to run your trains so bring your trains out and run. Please see club calendar for days.

Sometime in early May they are having a cement slab poured. They will then setup their large tent on it. Just maybe, on one our scheduled run days, we can have an auction/yard/tag sale under the tent?

May meeting will be held at George & Connie Stamataides' home in Flanders. His home is just about a mile past (east) of the Long Island famous land mark the BIG DUCK. I want to thank George and Connie for hosting this meeting at last minute. They just finished renovating their home. Landscaping and a patio are to be completed this coming week. At this time George does not have a running railroad, however some members will be bring projects they are working on to the meeting for members to see and discuss.

Our hosts will be have available a traditional early breakfast, following the meeting a light BBQ and Veggies, all this on a beautiful setting overlooking the Great Peconic Bay.

Meeting will be rain or shine. George has a large two car garage that opens on both ends. So come out for our first out door meeting of 2021 to enjoy fellowship with other members. I am looking very much to seeing you all.

I hope you don't have to use a proxy but in the event you cannot make this meeting please send in your proxy!

Please, if you intend be at the May meeting George would very much appreciate RSVP 718 -908 -0655

Today's question; what to you want the Club (LIGRS) to be or do? This is the first club I ever joined so I don't know what other clubs do or their members expect. There are other train clubs on the island. I believe that in most of them their membership has to do some kind of active club project participation. For instance, laying track, maintenance or constructing buildings. As far as I know all have a home base, we don't. Maybe someday we will. I'll admit I'm doing what the club has been doing in past, it worked, so if isn't broken don't fix it. Is this the wrong attitude! To rectify this, I would like members' feedback as to what they want out of club so that I can move club in that direction. So please, if you have any suggestions or questions about what I have written or have suggestions about what the club should be or what you want out of the club please contact a board member or myself, E-mail, snail mail or by phone. Remember for the club to continue and do better we need the help of all members. Those past members that may be reading this monthly news bulletin are welcome to comment and are welcome to rejoin. I want to know what I and the board can do to make your experience in the club better and more enjoyable. If anyone wants to talk with Ray, he told me members can reach him by calling or e-mailing at 516.681.3976 DRRAYSHELTON@ATT.NET

God bless and please stay safe.

Please, if you intend be at the May meeting George would very much appreciate an RSVP at 718.908.0655 in order to plan the food

Organic Gardening Reprint by Bob Weschler

GARDENING CHORES FOR MAY & JUNE;

This is a marvelous time of year for the enthusiast who's in the process of planning, creating, or expanding his or her garden railway ... not that those of us with established railways can't always find room for one or 2 more plants. Many alpiners and some of the perennials, as well as those faithful annuals are in bloom.

Deciduous shrubs are bursting with delicate young leaves and the new, brilliant green needles on the conifers are contrasting with the old one. Choosing plants for the new or established railway is fun, but it can also be challenging. Try to make selections that have small leaves, flowers or needles and are slow growing as well. These choices will enhance the realism of your railway because the plants will be more "in scale". In addition, the smaller plants will keep maintenance to a minimum. Although the varieties seem endless, here are some suggestions;

PERENNIAL GROUND-COVERS AND CREEPERS;

Thyme - many varieties love to creep over rocks & walls (and over the tracks too, if neglected) have tiny, fragrant leaves with white or pink flowers. Many if not most can be used in cooking too. Sedum - many interesting varieties with different leaf textures & colors, + an assortment of flower colors & sizes. Be forewarned however, many tend to be aggressive. I like Sedum Nevii with its tiny gray leaves & white flowers. Its' very low growing & hardy and loves to grow between rocks & bricks, and will pop up almost anywhere. (Give a call, I'd be happy to share some with you ... and Bob Gibney will too.)

Irish Moss & Scotch Moss - nice around buildings in your town.

Creeping Veronica - BE SELECTIVE! Some are aggressive. Most have blue flowers & tiny leaves.

Creeping Phlox - small, needle-like leaves. Flowers are white, pink, or blue, even striped.

Creeping Myrtle - (Vinca Minor, Periwinkle) Rather small leaves with blue flowers. This is a "vine-y" plants which spread by sending out roots from its runners.

MINIATURE SHRUBS & TREES;

NOTE; When it comes to plants, the term "Dwarf" is relative - it simply means the plant is smaller than the original. If a full-sized sequoia is 125 feet high for example, the dwarf variety could be only 30 feet tall. So when buying "Dwarf" plants, it's always best to ask how large it will get, as well as how long it will take to get that large. A Dwarf which grows to 4 feet tall in 10 years is surely slow growing and could easily be kept smaller by pruning. A "Miniature" on-the-other-hand, usually stays small and is an excellent candidate for a garden railway. It's still best however, to ask how large it gets & how long it takes to get that large.

Miniature Rhododendrons - tiny leaves & lavender flowers. Example; Rhododendron Impeditum.

Miniature Boxwood - Evergreen, slow growing. Example: "Morris Midget".

Miniature Elm - Deciduous, twigs & branches easily seen in winter. Easily forms into a scale "tree" with very little pruning (one of my favorites. Example: Ulmus Parviflora Hokkaido.

Miniature Roses - Choose only the tiniest varieties. Like all roses, some extra care is required.

Miniature Cotoneaster - Tiny Leaves, red berries & very slow growing.

DWARF/MINIATURE CONIFERS; (See above note on "Dwarves" vs. Miniatures".)

Dwarf Hinoki Cypress (Chameacyparis "Kama-sif-erus") - There are cultivars of many kinds, many growth habits, and colors, as well as color combinations. In my opinion, this is "The Queen of Dwarfs" & is a must in the garden railway. Easily shaped in scale 'trees'.

Blue Star Juniper - beautiful silver-blue

Miniature Birds Nest Spruce - tiny, dark green needles on a plant with a flat, oval shape.

Dwarf Irish Juniper - a narrow column of gray-green needles.

Miniature Cryptomeria - many varieties in different shapes. Some with tiny needles & many with larger ones.

Dwarf Alberta Spruce - This is listed last for a reason. It is always my LAST choice for a garden railway. It's oh so common in so many, many railways. With so many other superior choices, why bother? There is however, a MINIATURE variety which should be quite acceptable.

ANNUALS, CONTINUOUS BLOOM; Sweet Alyssum - white or purple flowers, small leaves. Self seeding.

Lobelia - Small leaves and flowers in many different colors.

Dwarf Marigold - Yellow, orange or variegated flowers with delicate leaves. Can be pruned to keep small.

PERENNIALS;

Miniature Hosta - Good for shady areas.

Miniature Chrysanthemum - Require full sun.

Daphne - Though some grow very large, many stay small. Be certain to get a slow-growing variety. Flowers are VERY fragrant & some even bloom in winter.

Miniature Hens & Chicks (Sempervivians) - Great around & between rocks.

Numerous Alpines - Many in the Buttercup, Daisy, Aster, Rose, Saxifrage Pink, Primrose & Thrift families. Heath & Heather - Many varieties have tiny leaves & flowers. Some stay small, usually the spreading (prostrate) varieties. Usually bloom either in the late fall or early spring.

Coreopsis - Narrow leaves, many have yellow flowers, or yellow with red 'eyes'.

Lou Cortese brought the model that he is working on for a new turntable to be used in our modular displays. He and Tom Rizzo were discussing the next steps towards making it functional.
