

Paul Poilievre and conservatives 'vote of no confidence' motion seem dead on arrival as other parties balk at idea

By Peter Uduehi

Paul Poilievre, at least for now, stands to lose on his desire to end the current Liberal government of Justin Trudeau through a vote-of-no-confidence motion.

Speaking to reporters recently, NDP leader Jagmeet Singh, whose party has been the main cushion for the Liberal's minority government for the past three years, says the NDP will not be voting for the Conservative Progressive (CP) leader Paul Poilievre's upcoming vote of no confidence motion in parliament.

"The NDP," Mr Singh says, "is here to work for people and not to play the Poilievre conservative politicking. This is why we're going to vote against the Poilievre conservative motion," he told reporters, adding: "the conservative plan is to cut pharmacare, cut healthcare, cut pensions and cut the dental care plan. Our plan is to stop Pierre Polievre and his conservative cuts."

The NDP leader stressed his party's position has always been to "bolster our healthcare system, improve access to dental care, improve pensions, and that decision is important to the future of our country, the future of the middle class.

So we will not listen to Pierre Polievre and his conservatives" on the motion to bring down the current Trudeau government. Asked why he disagrees with the no-confidence motion, even though he believes the Liberals don't deserve another chance at forming the next government, Singh said he's opposed to it because he doesn't trust the conservatives. "If you think things are bad now, they'd be worse under the conservatives," he said.

The Bloc Quebecois, the third largest party in the House of Commons—but whose number did not rush to form an alliance with the Liberals for their minority government after the last general election—has also said they will not support the impending vote of no confidence motion. The NDP is the fourth largest party in parliament with 25 MPs. The Bloc have 33 MPs, but the NDP was enough to keep the Liberals (who needed only 13 more members) in power.

News Analysis: Columnist Andrew Okosun argues that Nigeria's government under Bola Tinubu has not delivered for the people

The regression of Bola Tinubu

By Andrew Okosun Special to the African World News
September 14, 2024

The federal govt led by President Bola Asiwaju Tinubu (PBAT) is busy making monetary policies that their actions are opposed to. What are the ways, and the optimal way out of this dilemma?

In the heart of Nigeria's challenges, where corruption, insecurity, and governance failures loom large, there emerges a clarion call for transformation. Let us heed this call, for within it lies the seeds of hope and progress.

The Epistocratic Challenge: A Call for Change: Obasesam Okoi and MaryAnne Iwara, in their insightful analysis, highlight the systemic risks plaguing Nigeria: election fraud, terrorist attacks, herder-farmer conflicts, armed banditry, ethnic and religious militias, injustice, disregard for rule of law by persons in positions of authority, and ...

Adiel and I were in Downtown Toronto recently for a fundraising event for 100 Strong Foundation, an organization mentoring and empowering young black boys in the GTA. It was great to meet with Donovan Bailey, a Canadian sports legend and to hear the words of wisdom he shared with all of us. I also had the opportunity to meet some of our clients and to connect with many others in our community. It was a great evening and I encourage you to check out the great work 100 Strong Foundation is doing and to support this work. Enjoy this issue where I share some valuable insights. Please remember to share this with everyone in your network: 1. Experience a Smooth Sail to Success...

I'm so excited to share Hallie's new business venture, Tutoring Lighthouse, as she seeks to illuminate the passion in others through her love for education. Tutoring Lighthouse is a business that prioritizes personalized and interactive learning so students everywhere can excel in their academic studies. If you would like to become involved with Tutoring Lighthouse, either as a student or a tutor, visit tutoringlighthouse.com and/or email info.tutoringlighthouse@gmail.com. Hallie is passionate about education, she's an experienced tutor, an author and a great public speaker! I'm so proud of her body of work and can't wait to see the young lives she will impact with her love for learning.

2. Personal Tax Planning Considerations

With just three and a half months till the end of the year, now is the time to start planning on how to minimize your 2024 personal tax liability. Start by estimating your personal tax liability now to determine how much taxes you will be paying in 2024. With this information, you can consider strategies to minimize taxes such as contributing to your RRSP or increasing your contributions; deferring income; splitting income; transferring securities with unrealized gains between accounts; etc. More specific strategies to follow in the coming weeks. And I suggest you consult your Tax Specialist for more insights on your personal situation.

My Weekly Financial Tips! Financial freedom in Canada

3. Why Most People Struggle Financially

I strongly believe that you don't need a 6-figure salary to create financial freedom. And for this reason, I believe financial freedom is attainable for most people. However, only a few achieve it. Why? It's because most people lack fundamental knowledge and a proven path to follow. This is why I wrote the book, Tax-Efficient Wealth, to provide you with an easy-to-implement blueprint that will enable you to build and grow your wealth in a tax-efficient manner. After reading this book:

You will have a solid knowledge of the key wealth drivers to build wealth and uncover the money mindset required to win the money game.

You will have a blueprint and a step-by-step plan to start your journey of building and growing your wealth tax-efficiently.

You will save taxes, have more money, and have the confidence to shatter all your money worries for life.

You can grab a copy of the book here and in this short video, I share what the tax-efficient path to wealth is.

4. Money Is Useless Until It Is Put To Use

Not long ago, I listened to a 10X Workshop by Grant Cardone where he made the comment that money is useless until it is put to use. In many ways, he is right. He goes on to say that he does not save money. Why? According to Grant, saving cash is like saving a legal pad - it's worthless because money, like any paper, is only good when it's used. If you leave money in savings too long, it disappears! One reason for this is inflation, and many of us have experienced the real impact of inflation in recent years with the escalation of prices of everyday goods and services. When prices of the basic necessities go up significantly more than increases in wages, you lose money when you save. So this is what you do with your cash instead of saving it:

Invest in yourself to increase your income

Invest in your business to increase your income

Invest in real assets that produce cash flow

Make sure to take your cash and buy things with it that will make you more cash! He concludes by saying, "Cash is not king. Cash is dead. Cash flow is king!" Do you agree?

5. Leadership By Design

If you have a child in Grade 10, I encourage you to register your child for this great program as the final application deadline of September 23 is quickly approaching. My daughter, who is currently in Grade 12 has been part of this program since Grade 10 and my son, Adiel, recently applied as he just started Grade 10. This Leadership By Design (LBD) program is for academically motivated Black students who are in Grade 10. The

• Pictures supplied by Ken Green

LBD program is about amplifying students' leadership skills. LBD seeks to inspire and equip students to pursue future leadership opportunities whereby they become decisions makers who are well positioned to shape the future of their communities, workplaces and country. This program is FREE and offers students leadership skills, mentorship, skill-building workshops, career exploration, STEM program with UofT, Summer enrichment programs, meetings at university locations, scholarships and many more. To learn more and to apply, simply reach out to Ken.

informed choices, and capable leaders steer the ship of state with wisdom¹.

These are not mere shadows; they are the stark realities faced by our nation. The failure of governance to address these issues is a glaring indictment of our current system.

The Charter of Accountability and Good Governance

To navigate this treacherous terrain, we must forge a new path—a charter of accountability, good governance, and systems that exhibit zero-tolerance for corruption. Let us inscribe within it the following principles:

1. Citizen-Centric Leadership: Our leaders must recognize that they serve the people and practice the servant leadership model. Their duty lies in attending to the legitimate expectations and needs of the citizens. The public good must always triumph over personal interests. Such leaders will abhor unrealistic padding and extra-ordinary expenditure of public funds.

2. Transparency and Responsiveness: The opacity of governance breeds distrust. Let us throw open the doors, allowing light to disinfect our institutions. Responsive leaders listen to the pulse of the people, adapting policies to their needs.

3. Rule of Law and Human Rights: Justice is the cornerstone of good governance. Upholding the rule of law ensures that no one is above justice, and human rights are inviolable. Let us champion these ideals¹.

4. Education and Voter Capability: Our voters need enlightenment. An epistocratic system—one founded on the pedigree of leaders and the education of voters—can break the chains of ignorance. Educated voters make

The Optimal Way Forward

1. Institutional Strengthening: Bolster our institutions—the Independent Corrupt Practices and Other Related Offences Commission (ICPC), the Economic and Financial Crimes Commission (EFCC), and the Code of Conduct Bureau (CCB). These guardians of integrity must be fortified to combat corruption and malfeasance.

2. Holistic Policy Reform: Policies are the lifeblood of governance. Let us craft policies that empower, uplift, and protect. A robust policy framework, rooted in economic growth and development, will be our compass.

3. Unity and Collective Action: We stand stronger together. Citizens, civil society, and the private sector must unite. Our collective voice can shake the foundations of corruption and demand accountability.

The Call Echoes

Nigeria, our beloved land, awaits her redemption. Let us heed the call for change, for within it lies our destiny. Rise, fellow Nigerians, rise! The dawn of a new era beckons, and together, we shall forge a legacy of good governance, justice, and prosperity.

"It is impossible to enjoy the fruits of effort without first making the effort." — Margaret Thatcher

Let our effort be unwavering, our resolve unyielding. For Nigeria, for our children, for generations yet unborn—let us be the architects of transformation.
