Ex-IDF intel chief: In a revived nuke deal, Iran will be much closer to bomb

Amos Yadlin blasts former Netanyahu gov't for pushing Trump to leave JCPOA, without drawing up plan for what Israel would do if Tehran advanced enrichment in retaliation

By TOI staff Today, 9:21 pm

Director-General of the National Security Studies (INSS) Amos Yadlin speaks at the Annual International Conference of the Institute for National Security Studies, in Tel Aviv, on January 29, 2020. (Tomer Neuberger/Flash90)

The former head of Israel's Military Intelligence warned Friday that Iran's breakout time to a nuclear bomb will be much shorter if there is a return to the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action, as a result of the progress Tehran made in enriching uranium since former president Donald Trump vacated the agreement in 2018 at Israel's behest.

Amos Yadlin told Channel 12 Tehran will be just two months away from a nuclear bomb under a renewed deal. Yadlin may have actually been referring to the time Iran would need to produce enough weapons-grade plutonium for a nuclear bomb. Experts have previously estimated that constructing a weapon would take another 18-24 months after enough material is amassed.

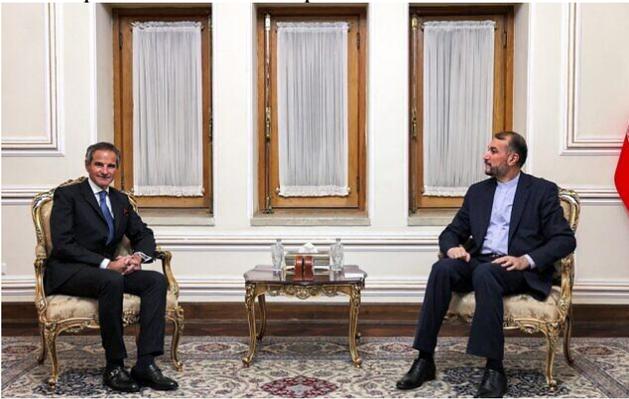

Yadlin blasted the previous Israeli government headed by Benjamin Netanyahu for encouraging then Trump to withdraw from the JCPOA without planning for how Iran would subsequently respond.

Yadlin — who served as head of the IDF Military Intelligence Unit from 2006 to 2010 and was Israel's defense attaché in Washington for two years before that — made the comments days before world powers were set to renew talks in Vienna aimed at reviving the JCPOA. The former Air Force general did not sound particularly optimistic.

"The problem started in 2018. If someone fell asleep on guard duty in 2015 [when the deal was signed], then they left the watchtower entirely in 2018," Yadlin said. "Because when Israel convinced Trump to leave the agreement — the Iranians are not suckers. It was clear that either they would leave the agreement or they would violate it, and there should've been a plan formulated for what we would do then.

"What happened in 2018, the Iranians advanced toward a bomb... they continued with their enrichment... to 60%. They have today three tons of enriched uranium, and most dangerously, they developed advanced nuclear centrifuges."

"Now, even if we return to the 2015 agreement, it's not the same agreement. It doesn't keep Iran a year away from a bomb [as it was before the JCPOA was signed], rather only two months from a bomb," he continued. "And that is what is the most serious, that when the Iranians moved down this path, neither Trump nor Israel prepared a plan for how to stop them."

While the Biden administration maintains that it is reserving every option if talks in Vienna fail to result in a return to the JCPOA, Washington has avoided publicly verbalizing that those options include a military strike.

Yadlin maintained that the US has effectively taken the military option off the table and thus arrives in Vienna at a much weaker position.

The Biden administration is determined to return to the JCPOA, but whether that happens will be up to Iran, not the US, Yadlin argued, as Iran has been the one dragging negotiations on for seven months.

Moreover, Israel's say is very limited at the moment because the IDF's military strike capabilities are not what they once were, he said. But after years of neglect, he added, the military finally received a budget to update those plans and once it does so, Israel's ability to influence the nuclear talks will expand.

The former military intelligence chief speculated that there are three possible scenarios moving forward: There could be a return to the agreement, the tail end of which would be bad for Israel, he said; there could be a failure to reach an agreement, resulting in a crisis between the US and Iran; or there will be some sort of drawn-out period where the sides will go back and forth in negotiations, all while Iran continues advancing toward a nuclear weapon.

None of the options are great for Israel, Yadlin lamented. <https://www.timesofisrael.com/ex-idf-intel-chief-in-a-revived-nuke-deal-iran-will-be-much-closer-to-bomb/> [This is a most depressing report and gives good insights into how close we are to an international war. – rdb]

Soldier injured as IDF, Palestinians clash in West Bank

Three different clashes between Palestinians and IDF forces throughout Friday left one soldier lightly injured.

One IDF soldier was lightly injured as IDF forces and Palestinian rioters clashed in several West Bank locations on Friday, Walla reported.

The soldier was injured after a stun grenade was thrown in his direction by Palestinians during clashes in Hebron.

The soldier was evacuated to Hadassah-University Medical Center in Jerusalem for treatment.

Near Kalkiliya, Palestinian rioters reportedly threw rocks and Molotov cocktails towards IDF soldiers. In addition, some 130 Palestinians clashed with IDF soldiers near the evacuated Evyatar outpost, throwing rocks towards soldiers and burning tires.

Black Friday has come to Israel — Can Israelis manage?

Turn on the radio, open up the newspapers, and all you hear these days are advertisements for Black Friday sales.

By HERB KEINON Published: NOVEMBER 25, 2021 22:59

Growing up in a middle-class home in Middle America, there were certain things that I thought that everybody had.

A dishwasher, for instance. A garbage disposal. A dryer. Two cars. A basketball hoop in the driveway. A driveway. A walk-in closet in the master bedroom. Two or more televisions. An electric can opener. Even an electric knife.

These were staples in the homes of all my friends, and just seemed basic to modern living.

Until I moved to Israel nearly four decades ago.

In the early 1980s, only hotels here had dishwashers; the sun dried the clothes; only the super-wealthy in Savyon had walk-in closets; and there wasn't much entertaining fare to watch on one television, let alone on two. Long lines formed as Israelis look to find Black Friday bargains, November 27, 2020 (credit: AVSHALOM SASSONI/ MAARIV)

Yet everybody managed.

At first I was flummoxed. Life without a dishwasher – how could that be? One car per family – how do folks manage? No walk-in closet – where do people put all their stuff?

“Don't worry,” I was assured. “You'll get used to it. You'll also learn to manage.”

As I did.

I learned how to scrub dishes by hand; how to dump food scraps into the trash can and not down the sink to be pulverized by a garbage disposal; how to open tin cans manually. I also learned that one doesn't have to eat in a restaurant once a week. Things that I thought were indispensable, were – alas – very dispensable after all.

Living without the creature comforts I grew up with, I fashioned myself a veritable Henry David Thoreau living the simple life in a Jewish Walden Pond. I was charmed by what I thought was the country's refreshing lack of materialism, and proud of my ability to "rough it."

BUT THAT was all before Black Friday.

Turn on the radio, open up the newspapers, and all you hear these days are advertisements for Black Friday sales. But go into any random Israeli store offering one of these sales, ask what gives, why in the world there are sales on the Friday after the fourth Thursday in November – Black Friday – and chances are the salespeople will have no clue.

Why? Because Black Friday fits into Israel about as much as Cinco de Mayo, Juneteenth or even Thanksgiving, the American holiday to which Black Friday is connected. There is no connection. It's not indigenous to these parts.

These are days that mark events meaningful to other peoples, in other lands, in other cultures. Not here.

Black Friday in America is the day after Thanksgiving, marking the start of the American shopping season that extends from Thanksgiving to Christmas. Urban legend has it that the name has to do with shop owners who – because millions of Americans begin their Christmas shopping on this day – go from the red, or operating at a loss, to finally showing a profit, or being in the black.

But what does that have to do with Shekem Electric, Mahsanei Hashmal or Hamashbir Lazarchan? Black Friday in Israel makes about as much sense as the Piggly Wiggly, a supermarket chain in the American South, slashing its prices before Passover because Israeli Jews do a tremendous amount of food shopping a week before that holiday. MORE - <https://www.jpost.com/opinion/black-friday-has-come-to-israel-can-israelis-manage-687030> [Long but excellent article that gives some interesting insights into life in Israel. – rdb]

Hamas urges Hebron unrest in reaction to Israeli president's planned Hanukkah visit
With Herzog set to light candles at Tomb of Patriarchs, terror group warns Israel 'fully responsible for repercussions'; Israeli left also plans protests against move

By TOI staff Today, 6:44 pm

The Hamas terror group on Friday warned that President Isaac Herzog's plan to celebrate the first night of Hanukkah on Sunday at a shrine in the West Bank city of Hebron was "a provocation" and "a flagrant violation" of the site's sanctity, while calling on Palestinians to confront Israeli forces at the scene.

Several Israeli left-wing groups also lambasted the president's planned visit to the Tomb of the Patriarchs and urged protests against it.

Hamas in a statement said that "the occupation bears full responsibility for the repercussions of this attack" on the site, known to Muslims as the Ibrahimi Mosque.

The Tomb of the Patriarchs, considered the second holiest site in Judaism after the Western Wall in Jerusalem, is believed to have been used as a burial plot by the Biblical patriarch Abraham. It is considered holy to both Jews and Muslims and is used for prayers by worshipers of both faiths, but has been a major flashpoint for violence.

"We call on the masses of our people in the West Bank and our people in the city of Hebron to confront this provocative step and to confront the attack on the Ibrahimi Mosque," Hamas said.

The terror group also urged unrest in Jerusalem's Old City in response to plans to hold a candle-lighting ceremony at the Western Wall, claiming the site belongs to Islam.

Israeli organizations Peace Now, Breaking the Silence, Crime Minister, Mothers Against Violence and others said the visit by the president to Hebron "legitimizes the apartheid regime and non-stop violence by settlers under which the Palestinian residents of the city live."

They asserted that Herzog was giving a tailwind to "Jewish terror supporters and to the great injustice taking place there on a daily basis," accusing the president of prostrating himself before the right to curry its favor.

[This is totally asinine! These people are supposed to be Jewish and Israel but have no concept that by Hamas promoting this position they are simply claiming the Tomb as ONLY Islamic and not Jewish, the same as they do with the Temple Mount.

The Scriptures are clear. Abraham, the patriarch of the Jewish people Bought and paid for that area. It is Jewish and not Islamic a group of late comers to the region. – rdb]

Peace Now added that “it is inconceivable that the president, who should be a unifying figure, is choosing of all places to light a candle at the site that has become the bastion of Kahanism and a symbol of oppression and violence.”

Herzog’s office announced the event at the Tomb of the Patriarchs site on Wednesday. The president hails from the left and is a former leader of the Labor party.

Left-wing Meretz lawmakers Mossi Raz, Gaby Lasky and Michal Rozin criticized the decision in a statement, saying: “The president needs to be a unifying figure. Control of Hebron and the occupied territories, in particular, is in sharp political dispute. Out of all the settlements, the settlement in Hebron at the Tomb of the Patriarchs is the most outrageous.”

Hebron, in the southern West Bank, is the largest city in the West Bank and home to about 1,000 settlers who live under heavy military protection among more than 200,000 Palestinians. [They don’t mention that immediately adjacent to Hebron is Kiriath Arba a Jewish town of thousands of people. – rdb]

The city is mostly controlled by the Palestinian Authority, but the holy site and adjacent areas are controlled by Israel.

Meretz is a member of Prime Minister Naftali Bennett’s governing coalition, an unwieldy amalgam that includes the dovish party led by Health Minister Nitzan Horowitz, the Islamist Ra’am faction, the centrist Yesh Atid, Labor and Blue and White parties, and the right-wing Yamina, Yisrael Beytenu and New Hope parties.

The Tomb of the Patriarchs is frequented by Jews during Shabbat and holidays and often under military protection. It, and the nearby area, have been the site of numerous attacks and attempted attacks against Israelis.

It is also the site of one of the worst incidents of settler violence against Palestinians, the 1994 massacre carried out by far-right extremist Baruch Goldstein, who opened fire during prayers, killing 29 people and wounding more than 100. <https://www.timesofisrael.com/hamas-urges-hebron-unrest-in-reaction-to-israeli-presidents-planned-hanukkah-visit/>

Ultra-Orthodox leader’s grave desecrated, prompting outrage

Worshippers find Rabbi Aharon Yehudah Leib Steinman’s gravestone in Bnei Brak damaged ahead of the 4th anniversary of his death; officials condemn ‘heinous’ vandalism

The gravestone of Rabbi Aharon Yehudah Leib Steinman, who was a top leader of the Lithuanian ultra-Orthodox Jewish community, was vandalized overnight Thursday-Friday, ahead of the fourth anniversary of his death.

There were no immediate details on who perpetrated the vandalism, but Haredi news site Kikar HaShabbat said worshippers who arrived to pray at the gravesite in Bnei Brak on Friday morning saw “extremists” fleeing the scene.

It has a name: New COVID variant causing global alarm dubbed 'Omicron'

WHO designates strain as 'a highly transmissible variant of concern,' giving it Greek letter like previous major variants such as Delta, as scientists race to understand risks

By Agencies and TOI staff Today, 8:33 pm

The World Health Organization on Friday declared the recently discovered B.1.1.529 strain of COVID-19 to be a variant of concern, renaming it Omicron.

"Based on the evidence presented indicative of a detrimental change in COVID-19 epidemiology... the WHO has designated B.1.1.529 as a variant of concern, named Omicron," the UN health agency said in a statement.

The WHO classified the strain as a highly transmissible virus of concern, the same category that includes the Delta variant, the world's most prevalent. The panel said early evidence suggests an increased risk of reinfection.

Health experts have said the strain is the most concerning since Delta. Omicron, like Delta before it, is a letter in the Greek alphabet.

The announcement Friday from the United Nations health agency marks the first time in months that WHO has classified a COVID-19 variant as a variant of concern.

The discovery of the new variant sent a chill through much of the world Friday as nations raced to halt air travel, markets fell sharply and scientists held emergency meetings to weigh the exact risks, which were largely unknown.

Medical experts, including the World Health Organization, warned against any overreaction before the variant that originated in southern Africa was better understood. But a jittery world feared the worst nearly two years after COVID-19 emerged and triggered a pandemic that has killed more than 5 million people around the globe. [When you have 2 years of fear porn by the globalists who terrorize the world so that they can perpetrate their Great Reset on the entire world, you have people who will immediately react to a new added development. – rdb]

“We must move quickly and at the earliest possible moment,” British Health Secretary Sajid Javid told lawmakers.

There was no immediate indication whether the variant was more transmissible or causes more severe disease. As with other variants, some infected people display no symptoms, South African experts said.

Even though some of the genetic changes appear worrisome, it was unclear if the new variant would pose a significant public health threat. Some previous variants, like the beta variant, initially concerned scientists but did not spread very far. [That is not the impression you are getting from the worlds leaders. – rdb]

The 27-nation European Union imposed a temporary ban on air travel from southern Africa, and stocks tumbled in Asia, Europe and the United States. The Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped more than 1,000 points. The S&P 500 index was down 2.3%, on pace for its worst day since February. The price of oil plunged nearly 12%.

“The last thing we need is to bring in a new variant that will cause even more problems,” German Health Minister Jens Spahn said. The member nations of the EU have experienced a massive spike in cases recently.

EU Commission President Ursula von der Leyen said flights will have to “be suspended until we have a clear understanding about the danger posed by this new variant, and travelers returning from this region should respect strict quarantine rules.” <https://www.timesofisrael.com/it-has-a-name-new-covid-variant-of-concern-dubbed-omicron/> [The truly sad aspect of this is that Dr. Malone stated well over a year ago that by imposing “vaccinations” (aka JABS) on people during a pandemic you automatically enhance the development of variant stains which are oftentimes much more virulent and resistant than the initial strain. Israel bars travel from most of Africa to curb new COVID variant, Omicron

Bennett says government ‘preparing for every scenario’ after 4 four possible cases of highly mutated B.1.1.529 variant detected in country, but no current plans for lockdown

By TOI staff Today, 3:40 pm Updated at 5:28 pm

Prime Minister Naftali Bennett on Friday ordered most of Africa labeled “red,” heavily restricting entry from the region, following the emergence of a new, highly mutated coronavirus variant in South Africa that has already made its way to Israel.

The government’s coronavirus cabinet will also hold an emergency meeting on Saturday evening to discuss possible new restrictions, including in the education system where health officials fear the outbreak could be most prominent.

Bennett, at a press conference, said the country will bar travel from all Sub-Saharan African countries for now. He said the government was “preparing for every scenario” concerning the new strain, and recommended Israelis generally avoid travel abroad. But he said there were no immediate plans for a lockdown.

By Friday afternoon health officials said they believed four cases of the new B.1.1.529 variant had been found in Israel. The variant was later named as Omicron by the WHO.

The list of “red” countries had been empty for some six weeks, as no country had fallen into the Health Ministry’s criteria. But on Thursday evening, South Africa, Lesotho, Botswana, Zimbabwe, Mozambique, Namibia and Eswatini were added to the list.

“All African countries... with the exception of North Africa are red-listed, and all Israelis returning from these countries must adhere to a scrupulous quarantine,” including those who arrived in the past two weeks, Bennett added.

Returning Israelis — including those who are fully vaccinated — from any of the countries now considered “red” will be required to isolate at a state-run quarantine hotel for a week and will be released after receiving two negative PCR virus tests, Bennett said. Returnees who refuse to be tested will be required to isolate for two weeks at a state-run quarantine hotel.

In a Channel 12 interview later on Friday, the government’s coronavirus czar Salman Zarka said he recommended expanding the no-fly list to additional countries outside of Africa.

“We will look at other countries, especially countries that serve as connection hubs for passengers coming from Africa, such as Turkey, perhaps,” he said.

Zarka went even further urging Israelis to remain at home, in a remark reminiscent of the earlier waves of the virus.

“I recommend that Israelis remain at home, be sure to wear a mask, not go into crowded spaces and most importantly go and get vaccinated,” he said.

The government has instructed the Israel Defense Forces’ Home Front Command to locate all those who arrived from relevant African countries over the past week, and to instruct them to immediately self-isolate. Home Front Command soldiers will also conduct home virus tests, the prime minister said.

Bennett said he ordered the government to purchase 10 million PCR test kits designed to better detect the variant.

He also instructed authorities to accelerate the process of sampling sewage throughout the country to detect if the new strain is widely spreading in Israel.

“ We are at a worrying point,” Bennett said at the press conference on Friday after announcing the government’s plan to combat the new variant. The variant “is so concerning that after dozens or hundreds of strains under examination, it led the Health Ministry and epidemiologists in Israel and around the world to raise red flags.” [If the JABBS are so effective which is what Fauci and the CDC and FDA and Big Pharm groups tried to imply then Israel should have NO PROBLEMS. But then They all lied to everyone and the JAB is a useless Genetic altering treatment for money making and ultimately human control. – rdb]p

At the press conference, Health Minister Nitzan Horowitz called on Israelis who had recently returned from countries now on the “red” list to immediately get tested.

“We’ve been on the lookout for such variants and took into account that another one could arise,” Horowitz said. He said samples from incoming travelers at Ben Gurion Airport would be tested for the new variant.

Dr. Sharon Alroy-Preis, the Health Ministry’s head of public services, noted that vaccinated individuals who have contracted the new variant appear to generally have a mild illness only.

Earlier on Friday, at a meeting with Horowitz and experts, Bennett said that the government’s “overriding principle at the moment is to take quick and strong action, now, especially regarding entry to – and exit from – Israel, until the situation becomes clearer.”

“When it does, we will decide what we are doing,” he added.

“We are currently at the threshold of an emergency situation. I ask everyone to be prepared and to fully join in the work around the clock,” Bennett told the meeting’s participants, in comments released to the media by the Prime Minister’s Office.

“The new variant is more contagious, at a much quicker pace than the Delta strain,” Bennett said, adding that authorities are following data from South Africa to learn more about it, including whether it is resistant to existing vaccines.

“The good news is that the State of Israel has woken up early. The first in the world [to do so], and all of our systems are ready,” Bennett said.

The premier acknowledged that there might be an economic price to some of the steps the government could take to curb the new variant, but that authorities will help those impacted by the restrictions.

Health Ministry officials asked Bennett during the meeting to impose new restrictions on all arrivals to Israel, requiring them to take an additional COVID test on the third day of their stay in the country, according to the Walla news site.

The first case of the strain was detected in Israel after a person arrived from Malawi, the Health Ministry announced earlier on Friday.

Three others are suspected of also being infected with the new strain, Bennett said. He added that there are likely more cases that are undetected in the country.

A woman suspected of being infected with the variant took a bus from central Israel to the southern city of Eilat, where she works at a hotel, law enforcement officials said. Police located her there and sent her to be tested further and questioned by medical officials.

The new COVID-19 variant was said Thursday by scientists in South Africa to have “a very high number of mutations,” and it was blamed for an “exponential” surge in infections there. The number of daily infections in Africa’s hardest-hit country has increased tenfold since the start of the month.

In Israel, Health Ministry data on Friday showed that 524 people had been diagnosed the previous day, with the number representing 0.69 percent of the over 82,000 tests conducted.

There were 166 hospitalized individuals, of whom 120 were in serious condition. Data showed nearly 85 percent of serious cases are among unvaccinated individuals. <https://www.timesofisrael.com/israel-bars-travel-from-most-of-africa-in-effort-against-worrying-new-covid-strain/>

S. African expert downplays threat from Omicron: ‘We won’t have a severe epidemic’

Jewish virologist Barry Schoub, who advises the government, says data so far indicates vaccines protect against severe illness from new COVID variant

By TOI staff Today, 10:50 pm

Prof. Barry Schoub, a top adviser to South Africa's government on COVID-19 vaccines (YouTube video screenshot)

A top adviser to the South African government on the coronavirus pandemic said Friday that while the new Omicron variant of the virus — first documented in his country — was worrying, he did not believe the strain would lead to a major new wave of serious illness.

Jewish virologist Barry Schoub, the head of South Africa’s Ministerial Advisory Committee on COVID-19 vaccines, told Israel’s Channel 12 news that based on initial data from cases in South Africa, it seemed the vaccine would still protect most people from severe COVID-19.

“I think what we can be pretty comfortable... that the vaccine will still prevent serious disease,” he said. “That I think we are pretty sure about. How effective it will be in preventing milder disease — that we’ve still got to understand.”

Other scientists have said it is still too early to tell how well the current vaccines protect against the Omicron strain.

“It’s unlikely that it’s going to cause more severe disease,” Schoub said. “Certainly what we’ve been seeing up to now... the great majority of the patients have been mild. In fact, there hasn’t been a very substantial increase in hospital admissions so far.”

People with masks at a shopping mall in Johannesburg, South Africa, Friday Nov. 26, 2021 (AP Photo/Denis Farrell)

While Schoub stressed that it was still “early days” in relation to the variant, he added that he thought the new wave of infections in his country “is going to be a lot less severe. There’s a lot more immunity, more people are vaccinated. We’re not going to have a severe epidemic.”

Schoub’s position was far more mellow than that of other health experts around the world, who have reacted with alarm to Omicron, which has more mutations to its spike proteins than any previous strain of the SARS-CoV-2 virus.

Numerous nations have reacted by severely restricting travel from Africa — Israel among them.

Israel’s Prime Minister Naftali Bennett issued a dire warning of a potential “emergency situation” in the country, should Omicron prove highly contagious as well as capable of breaking through immunity protection.

Israel’s coronavirus cabinet will also hold an emergency meeting on Saturday evening to discuss possible new restrictions, including in the education system where health officials fear the outbreak could be most prominent.

Iranian regime kills protestors in central city of Isfahan

Isfahan, Iran's third-largest city, has been the site of protests over water shortages in recent weeks, with hundreds of protestors on the streets.

By BENJAMIN WEINTHAL, REUTERS Published: NOVEMBER 26, 2021 20:12 Updated: NOVEMBER 26, 2021 20:39

Security forces for the Islamic Republic of Iran targeted farmers with gunfire and tear gas in the central city of Isfahan on Thursday and Friday, due to ongoing peaceful protests in the region.

The protest held was against water shortages and at times the legitimacy of the theocratic state. Photographs on Twitter appear to show the murders of at least two Iranians.

"Horrible images of my compatriots in the Iranian city of Isfahan being slaughtered by ruthless Ayatollah regime's thugs & security apparatus for peacefully protesting against the regime! This older woman was shot in cold blood on the streets. Are you seeing this @StateDept ?," tweeted Karmel Melamed, an Iranian-American journalist.

"It wasn't hooligans or thugs who shot at me. It was the security forces," said a bloodied farmer in video footage posted by the Iranian-American journalist Masih Alinejad.

She tweeted that "For years Islamic Republic blamed hooligans for attacks on people. He is one of the many eyewitnesses who say the security forces are behind the attacks. We need international media."

Alinejad added in a second tweet that "This is what happening in Iran right now. People took to the streets in Isfahan for a peaceful protest but they are being violently suppressed by the regime. West is busy getting a nuclear deal. You must warn the Islamic Republic that there will be consequences for such brutality."

Iranian dissidents ignited Twitter with the hashtag #BloodFriday in Isfahan. The regime pulled the plug on internet connections in Isfahan, according to Iranian human rights experts.

Alinejad showed dramatic pictures of severely injured protestors and a security official firing shots at the farmers.

The prominent Iranian blogger and free speech activist Hossein Ronaghi tweeted: "Protesters in Esfahan have been targeted in the face by shrapnel shots. IR agents suppress people of Esfahan using ammunition."

Security forces set the protesting farmers' tents ablaze, as a result of demonstrations that started in Isfahan on November 8. The Jerusalem Post reported on Sunday about thousands protesting in Isfahan, showing video footage of demonstrators booing when the speaker wishes health for Ali Khamenei. Footage also showed protestors chanting slogans against the clerics who rule Iran.

Isfahan, Iran's third-largest city, has been the site of protests over water shortages. Protests have been held in the dried-up riverbed of the Zayandeh Rud, the largest river in the region. The regime-controlled news agency Fars said demonstrators threw rocks and set fire to a police motorcycle and an ambulance.

"They are in groups of 40-50 on streets around Khaju Bridge and are estimated at around 300," Fars said.

Hundreds of protestors clashed with police in Isfahan, according to Iranian news agencies and social media posts, after officers fired tear gas at demonstrators backing farmers demanding water for crops.

Overnight, farmers holding a two-week-long peaceful sit-in to protest against water shortages in the drought-stricken region were dispersed by unidentified men who set fire to their tents. Social media posts said they were security forces while state media said they were “thugs”. State media earlier said farmers had agreed to leave after reaching a deal with authorities.

The farmers in Isfahan province have for years protested against the diversion of water from the Zayandeh Rud to supply other areas, leaving their farms dry and threatening their livelihoods. A pipeline carrying water to Yazd province has been repeatedly damaged, according to Iranian media.

The US organization Iranian Americans for Liberty urged the Biden administration and Congress to show solidarity with the farmers. "We call on President Joe Biden, Secretary Antony Blinken, and all members of Congress to stand with the Iranian people. Diplomacy with the world's leading sponsor of terrorism is never going to produce a favorable result that benefits the American people or the Iranian people. Diplomacy with the Islamic Republic was destined to fail from day one." MORE - <https://www.jpost.com/middle-east/iranian-regime-kills-protestors-in-central-city-of-isfahan-687098>

In dig at US, Iranian militia unveils George Floyd video game

Black man killed by Minneapolis cop is hero of mobile game where players must overcome obstacles and side-step enemies across 30 levels

By AFP Today, 6:49 pm

TEHRAN — Iran's Basij militia has unveiled a video game whose hero is George Floyd, the Black man who was murdered by a white police officer in the US last year.

In the “Nejat-e-Azadi” (Defend Freedom) 3D game, developed by the Basij's IT department, the player must overcome obstacles and side-step enemies across 30 levels of difficulty.

Iran's Saheb News, which is close to the Basij — a volunteer Islamic militia loyal to the establishment — said the game was presented Tuesday during a digital production conference it held in Tehran.

The killing of 46-year-old Floyd in May 2020 sparked America's biggest demonstrations for racial justice in decades.

Minneapolis police officer Derek Chauvin, a 45-year-old white man, was sentenced to more than 22 years in prison for killing Floyd by kneeling on his neck for nearly 10 minutes.

He and three colleagues had arrested Floyd on suspicion of having passed a fake $20 bill in a store in Minneapolis. They handcuffed him and pinned him to the ground in the street.

Iran's Basij has unveiled a new mobile video game about saving George Floyd from being murdered by police.

The game, entitled "Save the Freedom", will supposedly contain 30 levels that gradually increase in difficulty, with variables such as enemy waves and weather conditions. pic.twitter.com/0XtT7eAnaK

“Today, the only place where the United States can still present its defeats as victories is on the internet,” Basij head Gholamreza Soleimani, who was present for the event, was quoted as saying.

There are at least 32 million gamers among Iran's population of over 80 million, according to a report from the Iran Computer and Video Games Foundation. <https://www.timesofisrael.com/iranian-militia-unveils-george-floyd-video-game-in-dig-at-us/>

Former general practitioner: Medical proof that the Corona vaccination is ‘murder’

We should stop vaccinating, said former British general practitioner Vernon Coleman. "Any doctor or nurse who continues to administer mRNA vaccines will ultimately be struck off the register and arrested."

Published: November 25, 2021, 3:31 pm

Coleman refers to a study published this month in the journal Circulation revealing that the mRNA vaccines may be responsible for thrombosis, cardiomyopathy, and other vascular disorders.

“We always knew that these ‘vaccinations’ were experimental. Now we have evidence of a link between the vaccines and the disease,” said Coleman. “Now we have the evidence to stop vaccination programs.”

Some 566 patients, aged 28 to 97 years, took part in the study. The vaccine was found to cause inflammation of the endothelium, a layer of cells on the inside of the heart, blood and lymph vessels, at least two and a half months after the second dose. The jab also allowed the T-cells to enter the heart muscle.

“We should at least stop the ‘vaccinations’ until long-term studies are completed,” Coleman added. That message should appear on all front pages in the media, he said.

“I’ve been saying for a year that this thing is an experiment to kill and harm. If the experiment is not stopped now, we will know for sure that it is not a medical treatment, but murder.” <https://freewestmedia.com/2021/11/25/former-general-practitioner-medical-proof-that-the-corona-vaccination-is-murder/>

Lethal Injection; Frontline E.R. Doctor Gives Chilling Account of Unusual Vaccine-Induced Illness

By Mike Whitney Global Research, November 23, 2021

Americans are scared to death.... People are walking off the job, not because they want to lose their jobs, but they don't want to die from the vaccine! ... They say, 'Listen, I don't want to die. That's the reason I'm not taking the vaccine.' It's that clear.” Dr. Peter McCullough

A report in the U.K. Telegraph explains how the Covid-19 vaccine has led to a sharp rise in excess deaths. Here's an excerpt from the article:

“Nearly 10,000 more people than usual have died in the past four months from non-Covid reasons, as experts called for an urgent government inquiry into whether the deaths were preventable....

Latest figures from the Office for National Statistics showed that England and Wales registered 20,823 more deaths than the five-year average in the past 18 weeks. Only 11,531 deaths involved Covid.” (“Alarm grows as mortuaries fill with thousands of extra non-Covid deaths”, UK Telegraph)

Mortality is rising because more people are dying. And more people are dying because more people have been vaccinated. There's a link between rising mortality and the Covid-19 vaccine. Naturally, the media wants to shift responsibility for the fatalities to “delayed treatments” and “the lack of preventable care”. But this is just a diversion. The primary cause of death is the injection of a toxic pathogen into the bloodstreams of roughly 70% of the population. That's what's causing the clotting, the bleeding, the pulmonary embolisms, the heart attacks, the strokes, and the premature deaths. It's the vaccine. Here's more “Weekly figures for the week ending November 5 showed that there were 1,659 more deaths than would normally be expected at this time of year. Of those, 700 were not caused by Covid.

The excess is likely to grow as more deaths are registered in the coming weeks.

Data from the UK Health Security Agency show there have been thousands more deaths than the five-year average in heart failure, heart disease, circulatory conditions and diabetes since the summer.

The number of deaths in private homes is also 40.9 per cent above the five-year average, with 964 excess deaths recorded in the most recent week, which runs up to November 5.” (“Alarm grows as mortuaries fill with thousands of extra non-Covid deaths”, UK Telegraph)

The sudden surge in mortality is not a meaningless blip on the radar. It's a red flag indicating a significant break in the five-year trend. Something has gone terribly wrong. Mass vaccination was supposed to reduce the number of cases, hospitalizations and deaths. Instead, the fatalities continue to rise.

Why?

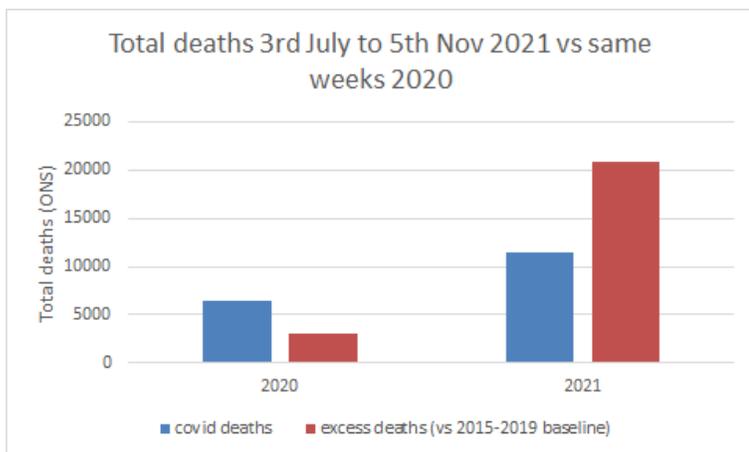

chart followed by a brief comment by diagnostic pathologist, Dr Claire Craig:

The answer to that question can be found in the data itself. As the author admits, there has been a sharp uptick in heart failure, heart disease, circulatory conditions and strokes. (Diabetes is the outlier) These are precisely the ailments one would expect to see if one had just injected millions of people with a clot-generating biologic that triggers a violent immune response that attacks the inner lining of the blood vessels inflicting severe damage to the body's critical infrastructure. So, yes, all-cause mortality is up, and it is certain to climb even higher as more people are vaccinated and gradually succumb to the (frequently) delayed effects of a hybrid concoction that is the cornerstone of a malign plan to dramatically reduce global population. Check out this

Dr Clare Craig @ClareCraigPath

“Since summer there have been twice as many covid deaths, but seven times as many excess deaths as last year.” (Twitter)

And here’s another blurb from Craig:

“If you start at week 22 and add up all the deaths since for each year, then something very abnormal is happening this year among 15-19 yr old males.”

So, not only are more people dying, but the demographic has shifted downwards as younger and younger people are drawn into the vaccine vortex. Simply put, the number of young people dying from vaccine-inflicted cardiac arrest and myocarditis continues to increase with no end in sight.

Not surprisingly, all-cause mortality is higher among the vaccinated than the unvaccinated which, again, makes it easier to trace the problem back to its root, a cytotoxic “poison-death shot” that suppresses the innate immune system, damages vital organs and shaves years off the lives of normal, healthy people.

Perhaps, you’ve seen one of the many short videos of fit, young athletes who suddenly have dropped dead on the field of play or been rushed to hospital shortly after getting injected. If not, here’s a link to two of them. (Athletes collapse following vaccination: See here and here)

According to Israeli Real-Time News, there has been a “500% increase in deaths of players in 2021... Since December, 183 professional athletes and coaches have suddenly collapsed! 108 of them died!” “500% increase in the deaths” of athletes?!? What are we to make of this?

For starters; the Covid-19 vaccine is not a medication. It is the essential component in the elitist plan for industrial-scale extermination. It is designed to inflict severe physical injury on the people who take it. It’s shocking that people are so deep in denial that can’t see what’s going on right before their eyes. (Please, watch the video clips of the athletes. These are the fittest people on the planet and, yet, they are being struck down by the mystery substance in the vaccine.) Here’s how South African doctor Shankara Chetty summed it up in a recent video posted on Bitchute:

“The pathogen that is causing all the deaths from the illness is the spike protein. And the spike protein is what the vaccine is supposed to make in your body. ...Spike protein is one of the most contrived poisons that man has ever made. And, the aim of this toxin, is to kill billions of people without anyone noticing it. So it is a poison with an agenda.” (“South African Physician Dr. Shankara Chetty Talks about “The Bigger Plan”, Bitchute)

There it is in a nutshell. And Chetty is not alone in linking the vaccine to the agenda of the globalist elites who plan to use the cover of a pandemic to implement their “population management” scheme. Former Pfizer vice president, Mike Yeadon, offered a similar view just days ago on his website. He said:

“We are in the midst of the biggest depopulation program the world has ever seen, where most of humanity are acting as useful idiots to it and to their own demise.” MUCH MUCH MORE -

<https://www.globalresearch.ca/lethal-injection-frontline-doctor-gives-chilling-account-unusual-vaccine-induced-illness/5762307> [Folks these are not made up statistics. These are real number from physicians who are waking up to the realities of what is actually transpiring in the world today. While the “proximity” to the JAB may be more distant than we have seen in a lot of the VEARS reports the numbers are telling a most disturbing story of the delayed effects of these JABs and the problems occurring as a result of the spike proteins dreadful effects on our vascular and immune systems. – rdb]

New York ER Closes As Employees Refuse To Comply With Vaccine Mandate

Workers were given an ultimatum to either get vaccinated or be banned from coming to work

Published 14 hours ago on 26 November, 2021 Steve Watson

An emergency room in a hospital in New York ceased operation as staff walked out, refusing to go along with the COVID vaccine mandate.

A statement released by the Mount Sinai South Nassau hospital notes that workers were given an ultimatum to either get vaccinated or be banned from coming to work.

A significant number of staff chose the latter, leading to the ER in Long Beach to shut down.

A Long Island emergency room was forced to close due to a nursing shortage as New York's rule barring unvaccinated medical staff took effect. Mount Sinai South Nassau closed its free-standing ER & directed cases to the ER on its main campus 5 miles away <https://t.co/oxXXLjWBcK>

— delthia ricks (@DelthiaRicks) November 23, 2021

“The Emergency Department in Long Beach operated by Mount Sinai South Nassau, will be closed temporarily as of 3 PM today due to nursing staff shortages,” the statement announced.

It continues, “The staffing shortage and closure of the LBED is a result of the Hospital’s compliance with the NYSDOH’s mandate... requiring the suspension of all staff working under temporary religious exemptions who could not show proof today of receiving a first dose of COVID-19 vaccination or a valid medical exemption from receiving it.”

“We regret having to take this step but the safety of our patients is always our No. 1 priority,” the statement continues, adding “This closure should not be interpreted as anything beyond what it is – a temporary measure designed to relieve current staffing challenges in our Emergency Department.”

Reports have suggested that the ER is set to reopen after the shortages were resolved, however the incident highlights the impact that enforced vaccination is having on health services.

Presumably those workers who continue to refuse to comply with the mandate will simply be replaced by new workers who will.

There is a positive update on an emergency room on Long Island that closed earlier this week due to a staffing shortage. On Thursday, Gov. Hochul announced the ER at Mount Sinai South Nassau in Long Beach will reopen Friday at 7 a.m. <https://t.co/jo8B9lNsNI>

— CBS New York (@CBSNewYork) November 26, 2021

The vaccine mandate for health workers was announced in August by the New York State Department of Health, with religious exemptions on the whole not being granted.

The latest closure of this emergency room comes as nurses and officials at the Children’s hospital where all the kids injured in the horrific Waukesha car attack were taken revealed that treatment is being hampered by a staff shortage brought on by the COVID vaccine mandate.

Quebec revokes vaccination requirement for health workers

Over 12 000 health care workers had refused vaccination despite government pressure. But because of bottlenecks at treatment centres, the provincial government of Quebec has now relented.

Published: November 22, 2021, 9:29 am

Quebec City

Resistance pays off: In early November, the government of the Canadian province of Quebec announced that it would halt compulsory vaccination for health care workers.

At the beginning of November no fewer than 12 805 employees in the provincial health care system were still unvaccinated. Health Minister Christian Dubé expressed his astonishment that such a high number had refused to be vaccinated. But fully vaccinated people are just as likely to pass the virus on to others, obliterating the need for vaccines and health passes.

The government therefore revised its course not of its own free will, but out of necessity as it was left with no choice against the steadfastness of unjabbed health workers.

However, from now on, unvaccinated persons have to be tested regularly and lose the right to their “retention bonus”, a payment for employees who stay with the company up to a certain point in time. Newly hired employees are still required to be vaccinated.

Quebec health authorities would otherwise have had to risk serious difficulties in basic medical and nursing care. <https://freewestmedia.com/2021/11/22/quebec-revokes-vaccination-requirement-for-health-workers/>

Hostile individual' killed by US military base guards

27 Nov, 2021 01:46 / Updated 1 hour ago

An individual toting a knife was shot and killed outside a Marine Corps recruiting center in San Diego, California, the military has confirmed, saying the person ignored commands to stay in their car and showed “hostile intent.”

The violent encounter unfolded in the space of just a few minutes at the entrance of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego around noon local time on Friday, military officials said, noting that the attacker, who has yet to be identified, first approached the gate in a vehicle and later emerged with a blade.

“Base personnel issued verbal commands to stop the vehicle at which point the individual exited their vehicle and approached with a knife and hostile intent,” First Lieutenant Joshua Collins, who is stationed at the depot, told Fox News in a statement.

After several warnings the individual was shot by base personnel. Emergency services were called and the individual was pronounced dead at the scene at 12:16 pm.

GOP accuses Garland of politicizing Department of Justice

He's sicced FBI on parents, attacked election integrity, promoted abortion

By Bob Unruh Published November 26, 2021 at 11:32am

The Department of Justice is one of the federal agencies that is suspected of going completely political against then-candidate Donald Trump before he was elected president.

After all, evidence now shows how there were many serious "mistakes" as some of the individuals who worked there worked to create a case of "Russia collusion" against Trump, a claim that has since been debunked.

Advertisement - story continues below

In fact, the facts reveal it was Hillary Clinton who reportedly orchestrated the claim in order to distract the American public's attention from her actions of posting national secrets on an unsecure and private email system.

Now it could be getting worse than even that, according to Republicans.

In fact, they charge that Attorney General Merrick Garland has turned the Department of Justice into a political machine. The Washington Examiner explained Rep. Jim Jordan, R-Ohio, said in an interview about Garland's school boards memo, "My gut tells me that the main focus was this was politics. And that's what the Justice Department has been under Garland.

"Joe Biden criticizes the Georgia election law, a few months later they sue Georgia. Joe Biden criticizes the Texas pro-life law. Eight days later, they sue Texas. Joe Biden's White House is working with the National School Boards Association ... and, five days later, he issues the memorandum," he charged.

The opinion was joined by Sen. Chuck Grassley, the ranking member on the Senate Judiciary Committee, who told Garland, "You've politicized the department in ways it shouldn't be."

Garland claimed earlier this year after his appointment that he would pursue "policies that protect the independent of the department from partisan influence..." but Republicans charge he's doing the opposite.

One issue that has developed is Garland's orders to the FBI to pursue parents opposing leftist agendas in their public schools.

Garland issued that order just after the National School Boards Association suggested that those parents be considered to have committed "a form of domestic terrorism..."

Garland admitted the DOJ and White House had communicated on the letter, and NSBA emails reveal it was lobbying the White House.

House Republicans have charged the FBI is using "counterterrorism tools" against parents, even though the FBI claimed the bureau isn't in the business of investigating parents.

The Examiner reported, "GOP lawmakers and concerned parents have also raised concerns about possible conflicts of interest for the attorney general because his son-in-law, Alexander 'Xan' Tanner, is the co-founder of the education company Panorama Education ."

On other subjects, while Garland claims the department stands by the conclusions that fired FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe lied under oath to investigators, Garland reversed the firing and paid a lawsuit settlement to McCabe.

Advertisement - story continues below

The about-face gave McCabe some $200,000 in missed pension payments plus another $539,000 in attorney's fees and Grassley called the result "beyond incredible," the Examiner reported.

"You allowed a disgraced former FBI official off the hook," he said.

Then the DOJ claimed that President Trump's tax records must be released to Congress, a demand by Democrats have made for years, prompting his lawyers to move to block that based on its political motivations.

Biden also said he'd like the DOJ to prosecute anyone who resists subpoenas from House Speaker Nancy Pelosi's partisan Jan. 6 committee, in a clash with the DOJ claim that it would be making "independent decisions."

Advertisement - story continues below

The Examiner said then there's the controversy over Ashley Biden's diary.

"The FBI has conducted searches of at least two New York locations tied to the conservative investigative group Project Veritas and also searched the home of its founder James O'Keefe, reportedly in connection with the alleged theft of a diary belonging to Ashley Biden, the youngest daughter of the president," the report said.

O'Keefe said his organization was offered the diary, but he turned it over to law enforcement.

Just days after the FBI raid, the New York Times had obtained "sensitive conversations between Project Veritas operatives and their lawyers," and published some before being ordered by a judge to stop.

Advertisement - story continues below

Then the DOJ has threatened, and in fact sued, states over election integrity efforts, which were prompted by evidence of wrongdoing during the 2020 presidential count.

Garland complained that one state law was created "with the purpose of denying or abridging the right of black" voters, prompting Georgia Gov.. Brian Kemp to accuse Garland of "weaponizing the U.S. Department of Justice to carry out their far-left agenda that undermines election integrity and empowers federal government overreach in our democracy."

Also the DOJ took action against Texas when Biden insisted his appointees "see what steps the federal government can take to ensure that women in Texas have access to safe and legal abortions." <https://www.wnd.com/2021/11/gop-accuses-garland-politicizing-department-justice/>

State sued for demanding companies put gays on boards

Requirement creates quotas for those choosing alternative sexual lifestyles

By Bob Unruh Published November 26, 2021 at 3:55pm

Officials in California, whose agenda for their own version of "equity" and "fairness" apparently includes the idea that they can control the companies that operate in their state, are demanding that those corporations appoint gays to their boards.

And the state is getting sued for that.

Investigative reporter Matthew Vadum has documented at The Epoch Times how a think tank has filed a federal civil rights complaint against the state.

It's in response to a new state law that demands quotas on the boards of public corporations based on race and sexual orientation.

The legal challenge comes from the National Center for Public Policy Research and is pending in federal court in the Eastern District of California, the report said.

The defendant is Shirley Weber, who was, Vadum reported, "a radical left-wing academic before entering politics" and now is secretary of state there.

The NCPPR is a pro-free market research and shareholder advocacy organization and is working with the Pacific Legal Foundation in the dispute over the new law that "perpetuates discrimination by treating people based on their immutable characteristics, and not as individuals."

The foundation reported the state is demanding "people of certain races or sexual orientations" be installed on boards.

"California's quota doesn't remedy discrimination, it perpetuates it," said Anastasia Boden, senior attorney at Pacific Legal Foundation. "This law forces shareholders to cast votes based on immutable characteristics that people were born into. The government should treat people as individuals, not based on immutable characteristics."

The foundation earlier sued the state over its "woman quota" on boards and won a preliminary victory at the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said shareholders have standing to challenge the requirements.

The new law adds quotas for members based on race and sexual orientation.

Gov. Gavin Newsom signed the law, claiming it was to advance "racial justice."

The problem is "these diversity quotas apply to all businesses across every industry in perpetuity, regardless of whether there is any specific evidence of discrimination," the NCPPR said.

Such laws, "which dole out benefits and impose burdens on the basis of race, sex, and sexual orientation, are unconstitutional," it said.

PLF lawyer Daniel Ortner told the Times, "What's happening is the state of California has decided that they can intervene and force private companies to impose race quotas and sex quotas and all kinds of quotas."

Fake, Faux, Floundering Government Shames Our Founders

By Sidney Secular/November 26th, 2021

Most of the FedGov functions and agencies that existed before the "election insurrection" of 2020 did so without legal authority. That occurrence ended all illusion that we are legally and properly governed. The phonies now only have the power of force, blackmail, false narratives, psychological warfare and the overriding[4] and almighty fear factor—real, imagined or artificial—and induced by artifices. Per the Constitution, the FedGov is only given the functions enumerated; that of defense, foreign relations, the currency and the postal service. Most government departments and agencies constitute usurpations of functions reserved for the states. Some examples of this are the Departments of Education, Energy, Agriculture, Labor, Health and Human Services, Housing and Urban Development, Transportation, et al. All laws and regulations relating to and emanating from these agencies are bogus.

National politics are influenced or dominated by Gov't "boorocrats," elected officials, the CFR, and increasingly by corporate entities. Both major parties and the powers-that-shouldn't-be are party to this national execution of the limited confederation type of gov't. created by our founders. The "respectable" right and the RINOs are the most culpable because they were capable of thrusting aside the leftist tsunami that is drowning us. The so-called Election Insurrection was a terrible tragedy and a tyrannical treason (though not by the demonstrators), but it wakes up the sheeple by scaring the hell out of them and may be the catalyst to stimulate a return to proper representative government. Major reform without the usual political compromises, throwing out – and properly punishing – the malefactors, and restructuring the system are the only solutions short of a real revolution or secession.

The following are some steps that must be taken if we are to stamp out the current system:

- 1) Declare a moratorium on all immigration indefinitely and stop the illegal invasions. Limit future immigration to First World (white) countries. Give no amnesties, end chain migration, returning to the true constitutional meaning of “anchor babies,” and adopt measures forcing recent arrivals to return to their countries of origin;
- 2) Use anti-trust laws to break up major international internet and social media companies to prevent development of monopolies and discourage mergers that create monopolies. Consider converting certain of those enterprises into public utilities to prevent their censorship of internet traffic and unpopular opinion;
- 3) Provide incentives for development of small or alternative media companies;
- 4) Remove government officials, bureaucrats and judges who violate their oath to be faithful to the Constitution or refuse to enforce valid laws;
- 5) Restrict political donations to individual constituents and set a reasonable limit to the amounts donated;
- 6) Transfer all public benefit programs to the states except for Social Security and Medicare;
- 7) Eliminate the usurious Federal Reserve System and return control of money creation to the Congress as stipulated in the Constitution;
- 8) Restrict the number of consecutive terms of senators to 2; and 4 for representatives;
- 9) Eliminate special programs including healthcare and pensions for elected officials. Allow them to only use those plans available to the average citizen including 401(k) plans; forbid former government employees from accepting employment with ANY business involved with lobbying the government after they leave office.;
- 10) Investigate violations of federal laws by any and all elected officials and government employees and charge them with crimes as warranted; there should be NO statute of limitations for crimes committed while a member of the government. Disallow immunity to government employees who can be charged with improprieties. Failure to prosecute wrongdoing by other officials when called for will be cause for termination;
- 11) “The American Dream” of home ownership must be safeguarded and kept sacrosanct by making it unlawful for any corporation or entity other than individual citizens to purchase single family homes other than to refit and refurbish them for individual sales;
- 12) Disallow rezoning schemes to breakup or disturb established communities for the benefit of social, economic or racial classes or for social engineering goals;
- 13) Eliminate mandatory personal health restrictions and mandates including the present COVID related restrictions or mandates including the use of masks, forced physical separation distances, quarantines, lockdowns, denial of rights of assembly and travel and mandatory so-called vaccines;
- 14) Eliminate perpetual immunity of drug manufacturers –including the manufacture of so-called “vaccines—from lawsuits or damages their products as the result of product usage;
- 15) Eliminate all law, regulations, restrictions and programs based upon race including but not limited to affirmative action and forced diversity programs and critical race theory education/indoctrination programs;
- 16) Eliminate all ongoing programs that support non-citizens. While charitable gifts to those countries and people suffering from an “Act of God” (earthquakes, volcanoes etc.) are in keeping with America’s generosity, we can’t support the entire world indefinitely;
- 17) Eliminate federal support for all programs arising in a foreign country including refugee resettlement programs. It is not America’s business to support or oppose programs originating in a foreign nation – and that is especially so of Israel. Indeed, all aid to that country should cease given our own present financial situation. America should not be Israel’s cash cow.
- 18) States will give vouchers to parents so children can be sent to the schools of their choice. Where there is sufficient proof, parents who homeschool should be given tax breaks and minor financial assistance if needed. Homeschooling programs should be developed AT THE STATE OR COMMUNITY LEVEL. People without children will not be taxed to support public schools;
- 19) Military adventures that are not approved by Congress after full hearings with proof presented of their use to this country will cease. NATO will return jurisdiction/ownership over the Norfolk Naval Base to the US. US Military bases around the world will gradually be turned over to the host countries or phased out. The budgets supporting overseas military operations will gradually be turned over to the US Corps of Engineers to complete urgent infrastructure projects as these are implemented; The order and selection of such projects will be determined by technical experts and not politicians,
- 20) All foreign aid supported by the taxpayers will cease save in emergency situations and those will be limited to no more than two months response.
- 21) All highly questionable and politically motivated “environmental” programs will be eliminated unless there is proof that a particular program is of value to the nation. All “climate control” programs – including fossil fuel programs that are to be eliminated by the Green New Deal and other such socialist schemes will be reinstated or continued;

22) Federal support for our military including injured, sick and homeless vets will be enhanced and enforced.

Commie Politicians Deny Your Right To Self-Defense

By Andrew Wallace | November 26th, 2021

There is a lot to be learned from the Kyle Rittenhouse Trial and ALL of the compromised prosecutors in communist (commie) cities. This is one of the canaries in the coal mine. If the commies should deny us the right to self-defense and police protection, you can expect them to try and ban firearms next.

Kyle Ritterhouse should never have been charged in the first place (prior to investigations), much less tried in court. This could only happen under commie rule by ignoring the Constitution.

In the middle of a commie-ruled state, under constant media threats, prosecutorial misconduct, misinformation, lies, and unconstitutional statements, the jury had the courage to find Kyle Ritterhouse not guilty of all charges. They effectively repudiated the unconstitutional conduct of the prosecutor, and all levels of commie government, including Biden, “THE USURPER” and the narrative of fake media. Those Jurors are modern day Heroes with real courage.

When it happened, fake media reported this event as a “Mostly Peaceful Protest”, when in fact it was a riot with burning, looting, and destruction.

At the time of the riots that destroyed Kenosha, the Governor, Mayor and Prosecutor did nothing to stop it for political purposes (To hell with the people and our Constitution!). Under the Constitution, these commie officials and supporting anti-American corporate officials should have been jailed.

The Kenosha police were nowhere to be seen. Police maintain that they didn’t have the manpower to stop the destruction. That is a damn lie! With proper police power, they could have stopped it quickly, but political superiors wanted the destruction for political and business objectives. A few rioters might have been sacrificed to save the city, a fair trade. Remember that the large anti-American corporations were paying the thugs to burn out their small business competitors.

This crime and destruction will continue in commie cities until such time as the people feel empowered, without any reservations,, to shoot criminals on sight who threaten their lives and property. This mindset was effective for thousands of years until the onset of the ignorant, gutless, and privileged snowflakes, who profited from the courage of our honored dead.

I addressed this issue of unleashing the power of the people in an “open letter article” in August, 2020, titled: Fl. Gov. DeSantis Allowing Denial of Florida Constitutional Rights. (published by NewsWithViews.com). The issue in this article was to empower people to exercise Constitutional rights to PREVENT riots when the authorities could only STOP them AFTER the looting, burning, and destruction. In this article, I also pointed out several cases of commie prosecutorial misconduct around the country.

In Florida, the Constitution gives people the right to defend themselves and their property, but people are afraid to exercise that right because the compromised prosecutors will charge them for not submitting to physical harm or hurting the criminal, (just like Kyle Ritterhouse). Following are relevant words from the Florida State Constitution:

Article One, Section Two of the Florida Constitution states: ”Basic rights.—All natural persons, female and male alike, are equal before the law and have inalienable rights, among which are the right to enjoy and defend life and liberty, to pursue happiness, to be rewarded for industry, and to acquire, possess and protect property.”

I will not travel to commie cities because it is neither safe nor prudent. If attacked, and you defend yourself and harm a criminal, you will be charged and financially destroyed by a mostly-corrupt commie political system. There is a damn good reason why people are leaving commie cities in droves.

I also wrote about this probability in July, 2020, titled: French Style Reign of Terror has Started in America (published by NewsWithViews.com). This article draws comparisons between America and the conditions in France that led to the “Reign of Terror” in the French Revolution. Those conditions are being replicated in America and the results may be worse. First the French killed the Nobles (Parasitic Super Rich Ruling Class, PSRRC), then they killed those they didn’t like, and finally they killed each other in an epic bloodbath. Stalin and Mao followed the same procedure, resulting in 100 to 140 million dead, and I expect “our” commies to do the same.

Communism was a deadly failure for our Pilgrims and has failed throughout history. So far it is destroying all of our cities ruled by commie Democrats. During the fifties when I was in the service, we referred to California as the “Land of Fruits and Nuts”; that was heaven compared to today, when it is a third world commie “Hellhole”.

The commie plan is to intimidate the people to stop resistance, but they went too far resulting in a massive backlash. I am a strong believer that if you confront a man who has nothing to lose, he will fight to the death. Threatened loss of the Constitutional Republic would put many patriots in a similar position of having nothing to lose. Incarceration and torture by faux federal officials after a framed arrest is now considered a death sentence by many who therefore have nothing to lose by resisting. I maintain that ANY small percentage of the more than 50% of the population who are patriots is more than sufficient to carry the day. Remember, a determined Guerilla Force has NEVER been defeated in the field.

I can think of no situation more dangerous than the one we are in right now. We are in this situation because of the greed and failure of so many officials at all levels of government to honor their oaths to the Constitution, culminating in the failure of the United States Supreme Court to even hear the relevant cases.

“America’s Reign of Terror” is at our front door. <https://newswithviews.com/commie-politicians-deny-your-right-to-self-defense/>

Don’t Ask About Empty Shelves, Our Leaders are Too Busy Saving the World

Daniel Greenfield November 25, 2021

While the supply chain crisis left American store shelves bare, Biden went to a UN climate conference to save the world. Saving the world is a whole lot easier than stocking shelves. Ask any teenager.

Saving the world used to be the preoccupation of dilettante intellectuals who could solve all of the problems of the world in their heads, but couldn’t handle the simplest life tasks. The rise of socialism has reduced much of the world to the same grandiose incompetence. The western world has been put into the hands of men and women who can’t get anything done, but promise to change the world.

Like the Soviet Union and other Communist countries, we have become a nation of moral crusaders and misery where goods shortages are papered over with wars against intangible social problems. Public officials no longer solve problems, like ivory tower academics they delve into root causes and produce theories explaining why the problems can’t be solved without changing society and humanity.

It’s as if you invited a plumber to fix your toilet only to lectured about the history of plumbing in ancient Egypt, gender roles, and social expectation while your toilet goes on flooding the floor.

While Democrats go down the rabbit hole of root causes, their cities are overrun with crime and human waste, prices for everything skyrocket, and some goods can no longer be had at any price. Confronted with this reality, they build walls of words, seizing on talking points to convince the public that the problems don’t exist or that they’re actually symptoms of deep social problems going back centuries even though they only date back to last week. Either approach frees them from having to solve them.

Do elites turn socialist as they become more incompetent or do they become more incompetent as they embrace socialism? The chicken and the egg problem that made even formerly prosperous Eastern European and Latin American countries into miserable failed states, that divided the two Koreas between booming industry and mass hunger, is arriving in America with much the same outcome.

American bureaucracy is bigger than ever. The growth of administrators in every field outpaces that of ordinary workers, clients, and products produced. No single decree from a scowling boss in Moscow turned a booming nation of individualists into a timid managerial state with endless rules that apply to every facet of work and everyday life. It was the slow accumulation of individual inertia, cultural safetyism, and crises, real and manufactured, that fossilized into a state of permanent administration.

The hunger of the administrative state for more power and the natural insecurities of its wards gave us everything from the welfare state to universal masking. The shutdowns and mandates of the pandemic are only the latest inevitable development from a system that reacts to every crisis with collective panics that transfer power from the public to unelected bureaucrats. Whatever the details of a crisis, its primary function is to generate more regulations and more overseers to see everyone follows them.

None of these regulations do anything except generate more insecurity and seize more power. Each succeeding generation views unrestricted freedom as an increasingly alien condition. A generation terrified of the Second Amendment birthed a generation terrified of the First Amendment. Each set of restrictions is deemed insufficient by the frightened generation that is raised under their rule.

If you think today’s college students are snowflakes, wait until the children who were raised to fear their own parents as sources of infection and to wear masks everywhere finally come of age.

It’s no great challenge to convince a society of frightened people that the end of the world is near.

Call it the ice age, global warming, climate change, or whatever panic brand replaces them when the marketers and pollsters decide that the current term is insufficiently triggering: to people who have been taught to be afraid of everything the end of the world is an entirely plausible scenario.

Environmentalism, like every root cause crisis, tells us to be afraid of ourselves. The terror of our words, our faces, our thoughts, and our possessions has always haunted the Left. Where visionaries saw possibilities, socialism has only seen threats. Its promises to save the world don't spring from a place of courage, but of fear of others and of the inability of its acolytes to come to grips with real life.

Those who can, do. And those who can't, warn others that doing anything is the root of all evil.

What else could such a worldview bring forth other than the incompetence, corruption, and tyranny that we see all around us. Problems become power grabs and so there's no incentive to solve them, only to make them worse. Leftist ideology rationalizes most problems as inherently unsolvable in the short term, only in some long term utopian eventuality that reboots all of human society around its ideals.

Problems like empty store shelves or crime in the streets are ultimately caused by capitalism, individualism, the nuclear family, and the existence of humanity. There's no solving them without addressing root causes like human nature, civilization, and the survival instinct. Like the USSR, the goal posts for solving even the most mundane problems get moved all the way into infinity.

This arrangement is quite convenient for the bureaucracies, public and private, from which leftist systems and ideologies draw their power. It frees teachers not to teach, companies not to innovate, and officials not to solve problems even as they organize moral crusades against the end of the world.

The true purpose of bureaucracy is always to eliminate competition. The chaos of individualism is collectively managed by stultifying regulations whose goal isn't fixing problems, but preventing surprises. The administrative state can accept the deaths of millions as long as it follows the rules. That's why all the administrators who forced nursing homes to accept coronavirus infected patients were never held responsible for the mass deaths that resulted from their horrifying decisions.

Most were even rewarded.

The pandemic shutdowns weren't motivated by fear of infections, but of unscheduled and uncontrolled infections. The administrative state doesn't mind people dying, as long as they decide who dies.

And who lives.

World leaders fleeing problems at home to talk global warming at the UN's COP26 are leaving behind real challenges that they've given up trying to solve and are saving the world. What makes leaders like Biden or Boris Johnson, Merkel or Trudeau, who have badly screwed up the prosaic problems they were tasked with believe that they can change the climate when they can't do much smaller things?

Western leaders no longer tackle real problems that can be solved, only imaginary ones that can't. Like their socialist forebears they define an overwhelming problem, economic classes, systemic racism, or climate change, and then spend all their time at seminars on how to best tackle its root causes. The solution invariably involves moving money around in ways that favor them and their power base.

This brand of messianic workshopped Communism is even worse than the original because actual Communist regimes at least cared about production while wealthy western leftists outsource production to third world countries so they can spend more time fighting systemic racism or the weather.

Our shortages may be currently less severe than those of a proper Communist dictatorship, but our leaders are even more detached from the basic responsibility of elected officials which is not to "safeguard democracy", but to justify their work to the system and the people who elected them.

With Biden, America skipped past Lenin and Stalin to go right to the Brezhnev era with senescent apparatchiks overseeing the decline of a country and an economy they don't actually understand.

America's elites, bad or good, used to understand how things actually worked. And then they became the products of Ivy League institutions which traded practical skills for abstract theories. Our elites have learned how to lie to us and to rob us, and tell us it's for our own good, and how to retreat into academic theories to avoid dealing with reality. They've learned how to manipulate the artificial systems of bureaucracy and its abstract rule sets, but know next to nothing about the real world.

They're happy to save the world. Just don't ask them where the beef is.
