1

Remove the two lower bolts that secure the front bumper cover .

2

Once the 2 lower bolts are removed proceed to removing the hood & front end cover.

3

Once the front cover has been removed, begin to line up your grille with the front bumper.

IMPORTANT: Grille may need to be flexed a bit to contour to the factory grille.

4

Ensure the lower tab sits flush with the inner edge of the grille. You may need an extra hand to help flex the grille to the contour of the factory front end so the tab sits flush.

- 5 Now that the grille is lined up, begin to mark the bottom holes first. Next mark the top holes.

Note: Use 1/2 inch long bolts for the bottom.

- 6 After the 4 holes are marked use a 13/64 inch drill bit to drill the bottom holes first.

Note: Take your time as you are going to have to drill at a slight angle and don't want to drill a bigger hole than needed.

- 7 After the 2 bottom holes have been drilled through, we found it's easier to bolt the bottom grille in before drilling the top holes so you can get a more accurate measurement and fitment when lining up the grille. Proceed to drilling the top 2 holes. Note: Take caution when drilling top holes. Use 3/4 long bolts for the top.

8

Now that the grille is installed and all the nuts and bolts are secured begin to re-install the front end back onto the Ryker and ensure everything is secured.

Enjoy your new grille!
