Beware of the fake bands

Most of the wedding bands you see on the internet are not real. The 'band' is nothing more than a temp agency.

The band – in name only- uses a pool of random musicians (mostly inexperienced players) and assemble these players for your event. It could be the first time they have met one another, let alone play together.

None of the musicians you see or hear on these websites will be at your event. They use stock photos and demos recorded by studio musicians. The same photos and recordings can be seen on multiple websites across the country.

Not only will you deal with me throughout the entire process, but I will also perform at your wedding.
