

ROYAL CARIBBEAN CRUISE

An aerial, high-angle view looking down into the multi-level atrium of a cruise ship. The structure is symmetrical, with curved balconies on both sides, each featuring glass railings and small round tables. A central walkway, covered by a series of glass and metal roof sections, runs down the middle. The walkway is flanked by greenery and small trees. People can be seen walking on the balconies and the central path. The overall atmosphere is bright and modern.
