VACCINATION

This has been a subject considered since the beginning of organized Naturopathy. Our founder Dr. Benedict Lust lectured frequently about it, pointing out not only the filthy ingredients of vaccines and the corruption of public health officials in adjusting statistics to make vaccines appear effective, but also the power of inoculations to make latent disease patterns appear. He quoted William Osler, MD, who wrote Principles and Practice of Medicine, required reading for medical students for over a century. Osler wrote:

“Influence of vaccination upon other diseases: A quiescent malady may be lighted into activity by vaccination. This has happened with congenital syphilis, occasionally with tuberculosis.”

It was a common conversation among doctors of all stripes in the 20th Century that they rarely saw a case of cancer in an unvaccinated patient. Autism reared its head later in the century, with much evidence pointing to vaccines, which were known to cause other neurological damage. In the 21st Century, with the massive number of sudden deaths, myocarditis, monster thrombi, and accelerated “turbo” cancers only just being revealed as caused by the vaccines for SARS-CoV-2, being diplomatic about vaccines is no longer an option. It is conventional for those in prominent positions to temper their statements about vaccines by saying, “We are not against all vaccines, just voicing concerns about ____.” There are those naturopathic factions that seek favor with corporate mainstream medicine and parrot the same opinions, in order to appear “science based” and up to date. They disregard the issue of vaccines not being tested for safety and efficacy (the true scientific path) as they take what they feel is the winning side.

It is no dishonor to us that we hold to our long-held values as naturopaths, as common sense will tell one that vaccines are anathema to natural medicine. None of the childhood vaccines has been tested against an inert placebo and the entire ever-expanding schedule has never been tested for safety.

As we see the “evidence based” data before us on the dangers of these vaccines, we oppose them not simply on the grounds of holding to a century-old philosophy, but on the grounds that compulsory vaccination is un-American. And we are the American Naturopathic Association.
