

Breakdown of the rotation system at each location.

Yanity Indoors

Yanity Gym has three general rotation courts and one challenge court. M-W all levels can attend open play (though, they must know the rules, scoring, etc.). Thursday is beginner day and Friday is for Intermediate/Adv. players. Yanity Gym uses a whiteboard for rotation. Players sign their name in groups of four and rotate onto the court when available. There is also a section on the whiteboard for challenge court players...they sign up in groups of two.

Yanity Outdoors

The three courts on the basketball side are general rotation courts for all levels. Players stack their paddles in groups of four on the bleachers and follow a four on four off rotation. The courts on the tennis side are challenge courts. One is an all level challenge court and the other is an advanced challenge court. Players place their paddles in groups of two on the fence.

Ridgefield High School

RHS has three general rotation courts and one challenge court. The three general courts adhere to a 4 on 4 off rotation and players stack their paddles on the fence. The players on the challenge court stack their paddles in groups of two on the fence near their court.

Rec Center

The rec center has three general rotation courts and one challenge court. Players stack their paddles in groups of 4 behind the court they wish to play on...there is an understanding that the back two courts are for beginner - intermediate players and the two front courts are for high intermediate - advanced players. For the challenge court, players stack their paddles in groups of two on the bleachers behind the challenge court.
