

Basic Tech Info to Connect to On-line Worship Services:

One thing that has helped me in my computer learning is to treat learning “computer” like learning a new language – sometimes confusing and frustrating, but getting easier with practice. Also, there is very little that you can do wrong that will “break” your equipment or your programs. Think of small children who keep touching links until something works out☺

If you are not already “computerized”, the easiest way to get connected is with a tablet, of any brand. Also, you do not need to purchase the most expensive one, as even a basic model will allow you to access the internet, the church’s YouTube videos, email, and connecting via Zoom or Skype.

If you are already “on-line” here is how to connect to our Sunday services:

Make sure your computer has a speaker, and make sure the volume is at a level that is comfortable for you.

Go to our website - www.christevangelicallutheran.com, and you will see a line that begins “This Sunday’s worship...” Click on the line, and it will take you to a page with a picture for each Sunday’s service. Click on the picture, and it will take you to the same picture with a white triangle on it; click on the triangle and the service will begin.

You can sit and watch the service as is, or a nicer way to watch the service is on your TV. If you have a newer TV, you will have on it Applications or “Apps”. Included in them will be the YouTube App. Click on that and go to the Search function (top left). There will be a keyboard there. Spell out “Christ Lutheran Kelowna”, and click on it. A number of images will come up on the screen, including a round one on the bottom left. Click on the round one, and you will be in our own YouTube channel. You will see all the services listed, and you can click through to whichever one you want to watch, including ones you have missed.

If you would like to connect into a church meeting such as Bible Study or Coffee Hour, you can do that using Zoom, which can be accessed by computer or telephone.

You do not need a Zoom account to use Zoom, but you will want to install the Zoom app on your tablet or computer.

You will be sent an email with the Zoom connecting codes. You put them into the app, and then will be given a prompt to “connect with audio”. Click on that. Then, you will see your face on the screen, and another prompt, “connect with computer video”, click on that, and you will be in the Zoom meeting. The host will guide you through the next steps.

All the best with it, and don’t be afraid to ask for more help if you need it!
