Definition

Numbness is simply the partial or complete loss of sensation. (Psora/ Syphilis)

Numbness is frequently accompanied by several alterations in sensation, like feeling of pins/needles, burning or tingling. Numbness can occur along a single nerve, or may be bilateral and symmetrically. (Psora/ Syphilis)

Numbness renders a person unable to feel light touch, pain, temperature, or vibration as well as loss of position sense, balance, coordination, and difficulty in walking.

The term numbness is quite different from abnormal sensations like tingling, prickling, pins-and-needles sensation, paralyzed feeling or weakness of a limb. The presence of other symptoms depends on cause of numbness.

If numbness is chronic, mainly in the feet, it can lead to other problems. It may cause difficulty in walking and driving and may lead to fall easily. Infections, foot sores and injuries may remain unnoticed because loss of pain sense, delaying treatment.

Pathophysiology

Sensory receptors send a signal along the following pathway-

- Sensory nerves to the spinal cord
- Spinal cord to the brain stem
- Brain stem to the cerebral region where the information is processed
- and for some parts of the body, the numbness pathway includes plexus or cauda equina

Causes

- Reduced or blocked blood supply to nerves in the body as in vasculitis and brain stroke
- Damaged part of the pathway for sensation, as a result of injuries or hereditary disorders like neuropathies or Friedreich's ataxia
- Compression of or a part of the numbness pathway
- Infection of nerve, as in leprosy, HIV, Lyme disease etc.
- Neuritis or demyelination as in multiple sclerosis or Guillain-Barré syndrome
- Metabolic abnormalities, as in diabetes, vitamin B12 deficiency, arsenic poisoning or chemotherapy
- Repetition of specific movements over and over on nerves, causing swelling, as in carpal tunnel syndrome or remaining in one position too long, as when people sit with their legs crossed for a long time
- Rupture or herniation of a disk in the spine, osteoarthritis, or spinal stenosis
- Tumor, injury, hematoma or abscess in or near the spinal cord

Evaluation

A thorough systemic examination is needed.

Warning signs

- Numbness with sudden onset
- Suddenly or rapid onset of weakness
- Numbness or weakness that rapidly spreads up or down the body, extending to other parts of the body
- Dyspnea
- Numbness in the thighs, buttocks, genitals, and saddle area with incontinence of urine and stool
- Numbness on both sides below a specific level of the body
- Numbness of an entire limb
- Loss of sensation in the face and torso

Diagnosis

Area involved	Probable diagnosis
Part of a limb	Peripheral nerve or sometimes spinal nerve root malfunction
Arm and leg on the same side of the body	Brain malfunction
Both sides of the body below a specific level of the body	Spinal cord malfunction
Both sides, mainly in the hands and feet	Simultaneous malfunction of many peripheral nerves throughout the body (polyneuropathy)

Some Causes and Features of Numbness

Cause	Common Features	Tests
Numbness in both limbs on one side of the body
Lesions above the brain stem such as- <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Stroke • Tumor • Multiple sclerosis • Degenerative brain disorders 	Loss of sensation on the same side of the face and body and loss of the ability to recognize items by touch. Usually weakness, loss of coordination, and other symptoms indicating malfunction of the nervous system.	MRI or CT of the brain
Lesions affecting the upper part of the brain stem, such as <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Stroke • Tumors 	Loss of sensation on the same side of the face and body Often double vision	MRI or CT of the brain
Lesions of the lower part of the brain stem, such as <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Stroke • Tumors • Degenerative brain disorders 	Loss of sensation on one side of the face and on the opposite side of the body Often vision problems and difficulty chewing, swallowing, and speaking	MRI of the brain
Numbness in the limbs or torso on both sides
Lesions along the width of the spinal cord, such as <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Compression of the spinal cord by injuries, tumors, ruptured or herniated disk, hematomas, or abscesses • Acute transverse myelitis (sudden inflammation of the spinal cord) 	Loss of sensation and usually weakness below a certain level of the body No loss of sensation in the face Usually retention of urine, incontinence bowel and bladder and/or reduced sexual response, including erectile dysfunction in men	MRI of the spinal cord
Cauda equina syndrome, caused by pressure, by- <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A ruptured or herniated disk • Spread of cancer to the spine 	Numbness mainly in the thighs, buttocks, bladder, genitals, and the saddle area Usually pain in the lower back Often retention of urine, loss of bowel and bladder control, and/or reduced sexual response, including erectile dysfunction in men	MRI of the spinal cord
Polyneuropathies (simultaneous malfunction of many peripheral nerves throughout the body), as may result from <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use of certain drugs • Diabetes • Chronic kidney disease • Metabolic disorders, such as diabetes, uremia, and vitamin B 12 deficiency • Infections, such as HIV infection or Lyme disease 	Numbness and abnormal sensations in about the same areas on both sides of the body, mainly in the feet and hands Sometimes weakness and loss of reflexes	Nerve conduction studies and electromyography Other tests depending on the disorder suspected
Lesions causing nerves inflammation and loss of myelin sheath, such as <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Multiple sclerosis 	Often weakness and clumsiness Sometimes changes in vision or speech	MRI of the brain and spinal cord Spinal tap to examine cerebrospinal fluid
Numbness in part of one limb
Lesions of spinal nerve roots such as <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A ruptured or herniated disk 	Pain that <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sometimes shoots down an arm or a leg • May feel like an electric shock 	Clinical examination MRI or CT of the spinal cord Nerve conduction studies and electromyography

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Collapsed vertebrae due to arthritis or osteoporosis 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> May be worsened by moving the spine, coughing, or doing a Valsalva maneuver (forcefully trying to exhale without letting air escape through the nose or mouth) Often weakness and/or reduced or absent reflexes in the area supplied by the nerve root
Lesions affecting nerve plexus <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Thoracic outlet compression syndrome An injury such as a stabbing Cancer spreading to organs near a plexus Brachial neuritis 	Numbness, pain, and/or weakness in a relatively large area of a limb	Nerve conduction studies and electromyography MRI unless the cause is an injury or brachial neuritis is suspected
Mononeuropathy (malfunction of one peripheral nerve), as occurs in <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Carpal tunnel syndrome Peroneal nerve palsy 	Numbness with or without pain Often weakness and reduced or absent reflexes in an area supplied by one nerve	Clinical examination Nerve conduction studies and electromyography

Treatment

It is based on the removal of causa occasionalis and correction of the condition causing numbness. Prevention of injuries and physiotherapy add to fasten the recovery.
