From the Desk of Chief Lewis

Just an update about our transition to the NERIS system. NERIS is replacing the old NFIRS incident reporting system. Our transition is underway, and we are working on the next steps. Our next step is to load users into the NERIS system.

Officers and acting officers (the report writers) will have Super User roles. This will allow certain editing abilities within NERIS. Everyone else will have User roles. This will allow everyone to log into NERIS and view our data.

If everything stays on track, I'm anticipating an official switchover date of 1 Sep to make the switch from NFIRS to NERIS. Stay tuned for more info on this. In the meantime, please feel free to continue playing around in the New Fire Incidents module on ESO. Right now, it is set up as a training environment and will remain that way until we officially switch over.

If you have any questions about NERIS or the transition, please let me know.
