PUBLICITY

Marilyn Caldoni.

40 horses were moved. A recurring theme were the quilts she started for boyfriends who disappeared before the quilts were done. Now Lily makes really small quilts. Lily Marie Amaru worked in the lingerie garment business 57 years. She began her presentation with all of us on our feet applauding, to ensure herself a standing ovation. Photos of her double-knit patchwork skirt and bee-hive hairdo brought back memories. Lily began her family soon after her sewing career, and moved to Angeles Oaks near Bib Bear from Ohio. She worked for Bernina many decades. Lily showed many quilts made with her wave ruler, her own invention, of which she has sold thousands. "Get and idea and follow through" is her theme.

PRESIDENT'S CHALLENGE MODIFIED

QUOTE OF THE DAY:

Fabric is my paint and needle is my pencil.

Loud murmurings and complaints and rumblings of rebellion caused rethinking of the President's Challenge. An extra-Special prize will be given to those incorporating all 14 items of Marlene's challenge: 1. Identifiable holiday, 2. 36 x 36 size 3, 4. Contain the color silver, contain the color blue. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Have a dog and a cat, a flower, a tree, a house and a bird. 11. Have the number 25 as the actual number, or 25 items such as 25 stars or 25 harts. 12. Have button accents. 13. A border with points. 14. Be an original design! To enter the challenge, at least 5 of the criteria must be met, but more fun and stretching of creativity if you do all 14 ideas. These will be judged in the fall.

PIN & NEEDLES QUILT GUILD

April 1, 2010

WRONGTWOOD, CA

DISPATCHER

Debbie Stevens showed off her desert to the mountains scene, made with hand-dyes and hand painted brushes, made in a work day for the Historical Society.

Betty's chrysanthemums are ready for Christmas of the mini-auction.

Debbie's great-grandmother made this quilt in the 30s, and Marian Corridor beautifully restored it for her, with new binding and repair of worn areas.

Christy Proximity shared a delicately pieced and quilted wall hanging as a relief from all the long arm work that she does.

Harriet MacClokin made a tea party ready for the fair. She will be sure to have her application in by April 3rd.

Marlynn Boyer says this quilt has been part of the furniture for two years. She's glad to have it off her long-arm. Prayers for husband Don who is on the pre-transplant list and waiting for bone marrow.

Marleen Bowman, Marleen DeBongh, and Giselda Melbar whow off their March kites, made in Marlene number 2's Monday morning class.

Alice Jones has a technique for making twp quilts at the same time, reversing the colors? These are for her grandson's bunks.

Iris Butcher gave us a quick glimpse of this Irish Chain in delicate tones.

Visistor Dodie Messick worked on this hand painted, hand quilted heirloom for 20 years. Done at last! She is glowing with pride.

Marilou Kettlepot made this sparkler from what were blocks of the month 9 years ago. Glad to see it out of the closet and ready for the fair!

Another top quilted and back from Christy Close. Marilyn challenged herself to use fabric she had in her stash.

Glory Safe Harbor finally finished her Strippers Round Robin. The center medallion has eleven borders around it.

This very successful Nine-Patch Pizazz is from another of our workshops, finished by ground Marilou.

Beth Standtall had fun finishing off this class project from our workshop with Cathy Van Bu8rgen.

Another glorious Judy Niedermeyer quilt from Lorrie Havens. The color combinations are delightful. The oranges just pop it.

Beside this long ago Materiaql Girl's block exchange is the very shy Linda Bareitall.

Lolly Highways is happy to have this little treasure ready to show.

NEW OPPORTUNITY QUILT

bETH showed us the new Oppertunity Quilt which is made of a randomly pieced background of white on whites or cream on creams, NO Sparklies! And machine appliqued. Linn Lobster has the plastic templates and directions for the Double Wedding Ring we did two years ago and H sold for $1100.

SAN BERNARDON COUNTY FAIR will have a quilting booth decorated by those intrepid quilters, Charon Snitzsneeze, Gladheart Ewe, and Lassie Crowdad. You can register on-line for the fair before April 3rd, or mail in your application fee— Fee for large quilts is now $2. If you sign up for booth babysitting, you will get into the Fair free.

COMING UP—April speker:

Marcia Stein is showing how she turns pictures into quilts, with a workshop on Wed. April 14th.

May brings us Diane Leighton with a variation of the Log Cabin called Wood Pile, speaker and workshop.

June is Terry Waldean—subject?

August Patricia Beavers— trunk show of 55 years quillting

September Karen Combs—speaker and Celtic Illusion Quilt workshop. the quilt room clutching his treasured horse quilt, he turned and whispered in awe, "How did they know?"

FRIENDSHIP BLOCKS—earn bucks from Christy Far for long arm quilting. Make blocks for your friends.

MINI QUILT AUCTION in JULY

Today our heros are Christy Close and Candi Plowman, who volunteered to do the Quilt Auction, with lost of help from a guide book and their friends. This is our second biggest fundraiser of the year, so start those auction quilts now.

Another hero is Marilou Caudron, who has been plugging ads for our guild into local publications all over the place. Thanks, Marilyn! You can see the Historian's Journal for 2009 in our library, put together by Joannie Two Shout.

CHARITY QUILT KITS The board has put together kits ready for aqsembling and distribution, fronts to piece, backs and batting. Please have these back within two months.

PLATTERS left from the Cookie House on the Home Tour are missing their woners. Sadly, they are empty platters. Check Debbie's pile for your dishes.

NEW CHRISTMAS QUILT

Kristal Markman is showing a sample of the 99 block Christmas Quilt. Get the directions from her, and win a raffle ticket for every block completed. NOTE: do not square up your block! She will do it! We're not even divulging the finished size expectations in this space. Just do it!

MYSTERY QUILT START LINE Some of the 34 quilters who are going to make the mystery quilt showed us their fabric choices. Pictured above are Elisa Hurdy-Gurdy, Lassie Crowdad and Kristal Markman.
