

QUOTE OF THE DAY:

Regarding the mistakes in my quilts: If I made a perfect quilt, then why would I do more?

The journey is the reward.

POTLUCK FOR COUNTRY CLUB, REVEAL FINISHED PANELS

Last July Chris Enriquez, Ginger Wheeler, Beth Stanton and ? all ended up with the panels on their laps, promising to bring them back July 2009. Will all 19 of the panels exchanged now be quilts?

July's meeting revolves around food—a smorgasbord of flavors from your best recipes. Chairs and tables will be set up for us on the deck at the Wrightwood Country Club.

Directions: 1287 Oriole Road, Make a left on Willow coming into town, which is the street across from the Post Office.

Make a right turn, and you will find parking on the left in the upper parking lot. You might want to bring a jacket and a flashlight as well as your delicious dish.

Door Prize: Christy Close

WOMAN WITH A HEART

At June's general meeting, Judy Sisneros showed us a pile of beautiful quilts, demonstrating how ugly can be beautiful using her spray and scrunch technique for 3-D effects. Judy's book NINE PATCH PIZZAZZ has sold over 40,000 copies. She had many samples of how this fun, fast, and quick-finishing quilt can dance and moosh. After her workshop the following day, we will soon be seeing some of our own samples of her easy technique.

Judy also told of her trip to Cambodia to teach a sewing and quilting trade to young girls who have been rescued from the sex trade. Their quilts are sold in the US and all of the proceeds go back to the girls for more supplies.

One of her fund raising efforts to help these women are silk quilt kits from Cambodian fabric, which you can see and order on her web site, judyisneros.com

Darleen Packard and Cristy Marxsen with a scrappy medallion charm quilt.

Marilyn Caudron chose this unique dolphin panel for her workshop attic window. 7 attic windows were shown.

Marion Hall had two bed sized scrappy quilts to show, this one with a nice border treatment.

Linda Rhoades went for purples and teal in this stack and whack.

Alice Smith is showing a beautiful roses on cream piece.

This hidden quilter made a vintage looking flower basket. Big thanks to Michelle Faub for taking the photos!

Cathy Crase has finished this medallion and flying geese for someone special.

Elisa Gurley chose strong values for this cowboy and horse hanging. Nice!

Leonor Ferris is back at guild with an attic windows looking at big horn sheep.

Harriet McGlothlin and her daughter Stephanie Neal show off Harriet's attic window—a garden.

Cristy Marxsen and Darleen Packard show off another high value sampler quilt with an unusual setting.

Elisa Gurley made this value quilt for someone special....be patient, be kind. Talk about high values.

SQUARE IN A SQUARE WORKSHOP with this month's speaker Jan Steffan. Jan will be teaching 17 options of Jody Barrow's Square in a Square, to be put into a 3 ring binder for future reference. Openings are still available, but other guilds have been invited, so contact Joy Agnew or Debbie Stefan immed.

MINI QUILT AUCTION needs more volunteers and quilts. By the time you receive this, Debbie and her volunteers will have sorted, labeled, and described the quilts ready for the auction. July 4th is the big day—set up, sales, runners, and take down helpers are needed, 2 hours each.

ANDREA TRULL is looking for workers during the 2 weekends of the Quilter's Run in July at her quilt shop. She will pay by the hour or in shop credit. Dates are July 9-12 and 16-19. Call 955-9777.

PUBLICITY CHAIR empty again. Betty Fudala's changed work schedule pushed her out of the job. By the way, thanks to everyone who helped take up the slack at the last meeting in mine and Betty's absence. Michelle Faub used Rose Burcher's camera for the photos which you see, and Darlene Packard and Debbie Stefan did a great job getting all the information to your editor. And a cartoon from Joy. Nice teamwork!

Our guild donated $25 to Best Original Design, Best Group Quilt, Intermediate, Best Group Quilt, advanced, and Best Mixed Techniques Quilt Fair winners and we received thank you's from those recipients. Lorrie Havens received batting donated by Mountain Mist for recognition in winning Best of Show Overall quilt, and Best of Show, presented to her by Fair chairman Kathy Lee.
