

Clackamas Community College is committed to providing high quality education and training in these uncertain times. As of April 1st, 2020, Clackamas Community College has approval to transition many NWCG (National Wildfire Coordinating Group) courses to an “online or at-a-distance” delivery in hopes of preparing our partners and communities for future disasters. This is a temporary fix. It is expected to resume classroom deliveries when we are directed it is safe.

Instructors will be providing lecture hours, a screen cast of NWCG power point slides, group activities and testing, all through the aforementioned software above. With specific Google Websites tailored to each class, any student material will be available digitally.
