

Our story begins with a cross-cultural marriage. A Mexican husband and an Argentinian wife, married since 2001, brought together their traditions, flavors, and love for homemade food. What started in our home kitchen –sharing family recipes at gatherings and barbecue– eventually grew into something we wanted to share with others.

Originally from Mexico and Argentina, now proud to be part of the San Antonio community, we create authentic Argentinian chimichurris and homemade preserves, inspired by recipes we inherited from our families and lovingly recreated.

Our chimichurris capture the bold, fresh flavors of this classic Argentinian sauce, perfect for grilled meats, vegetables, and everyday meals. Our preserves reflect the comforting tradition of homemade recipes, carefully prepared to highlight simple ingredients and natural flavors.

Every jar represents family, culture, and community. We're proud to share a piece of our heritage and bring these flavors to tables in San Antonio and beyond.
