ST. CROIX VALLEY HABITAT FOR HUMANITY WELCOMES TWO NEW MEMBERS TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS
The organization began its fiscal year 2025 July 1.

Wednesday, August 14, 2024- (Hudson, WI) St. Croix Valley Habitat for Humanity welcomed two new members to its Board of Directors in July. Sally Field is a retired consultant with more than 30 years in the human resources industry and has served on numerous boards in the St. Croix Valley. Jenny Larson is a mortgage loan originator with Bank Five Nine and has more than 20 years of experience in the industry.

In her free time, Field and her therapy dog, Monse, offer comfort and support to Hudson Middle School students and Amery Hospital patients. She and her husband can be found rowing on the St. Croix River on summer mornings and are dedicated to service in the community. "I am heartfelt in my belief that if we are blessed, we should return that in any form possible to serve others in need," Field said. "This is my honor to serve an organization that has such a wonderful mission as its foundation and purpose."

Larson is active in the nonprofit community, and most recently served as Vice Chair of the New Richmond Area Community Foundation. She is also an ambassador of the New Richmond Area Chamber of Commerce and has brought out colleagues and chamber members to work on numerous SCVHFH builds in New Richmond. "When asked to be on the board, knowing that I could do even more to help, I was excited to jump on the opportunity." When Larson isn't working or giving back to her community, she says she cherishes every moment fishing with her loved ones and exploring the outdoors on her bike or foot alongside her closest friends. Larson also volunteers with her therapy dog Ranger, serving patients at local memory care centers.

SCVHFH is currently building homes in Somerset, River Falls and Ellsworth and is accepting preliminary applications for its next build in Ellsworth. More information can be found at scvhabitat.org.
