

JUST MY OPINION

Roger R. West

The division within America is worse now than I have ever witnessed. Race relations were about to finally disappear when Obama became president. He wasted no time in destroying relations and set our country back by decades. When Trump was elected, he strived to equal out the obvious disparities and also the perceived disparities, after all perception is reality to those who perceive even though it is really not real. Now we have Biden, who is undoing everything good that Trump had managed to repair and has polarized relations between the two political parties as never seen before.

Case in point, in a recent Rasmussen Report and confirmed by an national telephone and online poll from the Heartland Institute, nearly half of Democrat voters would back measures requiring that the unvaccinated live in “designated facilities or location” for refusing the COVID-19 vaccine. This poll was conducted on January 5 according to Epoch Times and Resist The Mainstream. They state that 45% of the contacted voters agreed with this, with a 3% margin of error and a 95% level of confidence.

Almost half of Democratic voters think federal and state governments should be able to fine or imprison individuals who publicly question the efficacy of the COVID-19 vaccines on social media, television, radio, or in online or digital publications. This is a total disregard to our 1st Amendment.

Also found was, 29% of likely Democrat voters surveyed said they would favor temporarily removing parents’ custody of their children if parents refuse to take the COVID-19 vaccine. Tyranny!

We haven’t seen any such mandates attempted in America yet, key word being YET. With the total insanity being displayed within the Capitol building and White House it would not surprise me to see it anytime now. There are other countries, such as Greece, that have imposed a mandate that people 60 years and older must receive the jab or face a monthly fine. Austria plans on imposing fines of up to $4,000 on its unvaccinated for all residents aged 14 and over. Quebec is set to fine the unvaccinated, as is France.

The last and only chance America has of surviving and remaining a Constitutional Republic is for the Republicans to take control of the House and Senate in November. Even then it’s going to be difficult to reign back what has been stolen from us by the communists’ democrats, along with still having a president that is totally demented and is driving a runaway train of destruction.

Enjoy your 1st Amendment while you can and exercise your 2nd Amendment which may become your own and your country's life saver. Our founders placed both amendments for a good reason.

As always...that’s just my opinion!
