

JUST MY OPINION

---

Roger R. West

It appears that the red wave ended up being nothing more than a pink ripple. I cannot comprehend how this country of ours has fallen so deep in the quagmire that we are witnessing. It is heart breaking to say the least. I won't say the democrat machine stole some important seats, but if you follow the voting matrix there are several things that occurred that makes no logical sense. As in Georgia, Kemp (R) shut down Abrams (D) in solid form for governor; yet Warnock (D) collected more votes than Walker (R) for the senate seat. Why so many votes for a Republican Governor yet the electorates then voted democrat for their senator?

Then of course Arizona had their normal fiasco with a large dump of democrat votes on Friday night, 3 days after the election! I have totally lost all faith in the electoral process in America. There is No such thing as a fair and honest election any longer. Until we rid the voting process of using computers there will never be a fair election. Also, unless America turns from its wickedness and turns back to God there will be no America in the very near future. As of right now,

America is doomed.

For several years now I have been writing this column, primarily I have been just preaching to the choir. As a majority who read this has thoughts and beliefs that parallel mine. There are a few lost and misguided sheep amongst us but not very many. With that said, this is going to be my last "Just my opinion" for a while. It has been joyful at times and very disheartening at times. It often just depresses me as I read all the events that are occurring in the country that I love so dearly. Why people don't understand that socialism is the very same thing as a mouse trap. Mice die in a mouse trap because they don't comprehend why the cheese is free. Socialism is America's mouse trap! Democrat once was a political party, now it is a mental health crisis that has ruined the United States.

I will still fight for America with all my heart. I am and always will be a radicalized Americanist with my radical beliefs in the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and the United States Constitution. May God bless each of you and hopefully God will once again bless America!

As always...that's just my opinion!
