

LARRY ALEXANDER DYAL

Larry Alexander Dyal, 73, of Hilliard, passed away November 1, 2022. He was born in Folkston, Georgia on January 23, 1949, to the late Alexander Dyal and Betty Louise Henderson Dyal. He was a member of First Baptist Church in Hilliard. Larry loved hunting and instilled his love of the outdoors to his sons and grandchildren. They spent many happy times enjoying God's green earth. Larry also loved cooking good BBQ & ribs and having family over to enjoy it! He was a retired tractor and equipment salesman who met many customers along the way that later became lasting friends. He enjoyed sitting on his porch and reminiscing to his family all the good times he had as a youth. He had famous fishing trip memories of his dad and uncles. They caught lots of fish and had huge family fish fries. All his aunts, uncles and cousins came together and had a wonderful time.

He had many great stories about the hog butchering days and how he always got to tend the lard pot! He also loved to tell stories about his childhood friends and what fun they had fishing, squirrel and rabbit hunting. They were always keeping the rats in control. He said catching and cooking the fish right on the bank with his friends was the best! All this fun was after a hard day of doing chores and keeping the family garden growing. Larry had a full rich life and loved his family and grandchildren to the moon and back.

He is survived by his wife of 53 years, Ann Dyal; two sons Adam (Stephanie) Dyal and Charles (Missy) Dyal; five grandchildren Annah Dyal, Amelia Dyal, Ryland Dyal, Hadley Dyal and Lux Dyal; and three sisters Sharon (David) Manning, Alexis Herrington and Debbie (James) Hobbs.

A funeral service was held Friday, November 4 at First Baptist Church of Boulougne with Rev. David Manning and Rev. Paul Lucas officiating. Burial followed at Oakwood Cemetery. The family received friends prior to the service.
