III. Brief Introduction of the Lesson

Plackets are used at waistlines, necklines, wrists, and other parts of clothing which should fit well. They should be strong, easy to fasten, and long enough for convenience in dressing. Plackets should not be bulky and stretched.

Steps on how to Attach Zipper Placket

1. Stitch through the zipper tape and single seam the allowance about 1/6 inch (.15cm) from the tooth or coil.
2. Close the zipper and turn it face upward, away from the garment. Shift the position of the zipper foot to the left of the needle.
3. Smooth garment away from the zipper to form a fold line the seam allowance. Stitch fold 1/16 inch (.15 cm.) from the zipper tape.
4. Spread garment so that the placket area lies flat; turn the zipper tape face down over the other seam allowance.
5. Turn the garment to its right side, keeping the face of the zipper against the seam allowance.
6. Keeping the garment right side up, shape the curve of the seam over with your finger, and starting at the lower end of the zipper, pin or baste in place.
7. Shift the position of the zipper foot to the right side of the needle. Start at the end of the zipper just beyond the zipper stop, and stitch from the seam line across the end for about 3/8 or 1/2 inch (0.95 cm. or 1.27 cm.). Without lifting the needle, raise the presser foot and pivot the garment to form a square corner.
8. Remove hand basting, pull the thread to the inside, and fasten them securely. Remove machine basting and press.
