Case No. 1:25-cv-00916-JDB

Judge John D. Bates

UNOPPOSED MOTION OF 1136 LAW STUDENTS AND 52 LAW STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS FOR LEAVE TO FILE AN AMICUS CURIAE BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFF’S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT AND PERMANENT INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

Pursuant to LCvR 7(o), 1136 law students and 52 law student organizations at American law schools (together, “amici”)¹ respectfully move for leave to file an amicus curiae brief in support of Plaintiff Jenner & Block LLP. The proposed brief is attached as Exhibit 1 and a proposed order is attached as Exhibit 2. Amici further state in support of this motion:

1. This Court has broad discretion in determining whether a third-party may participate in a case as an amicus curiae. Nat’l Ass’n of Home Builders v. U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 519 F. Supp. 2d 89, 93 (D.D.C. 2007). Courts in this District ordinarily have allowed an amicus leave to file a brief “when the amicus has unique information or perspective that can help the court beyond the help that the lawyers for the parties are able to provide.” Youming Jin v. Ministry of State Sec., 557 F. Supp. 2d 131, 137 (D.D.C. 2008) (quoting Ryan v. CFTC, 125 F.3d 1062, 1063 (7th Cir. 1997)).

2. Amici are law students and law student organizations representing different geographic, economic, social, and political backgrounds. They have different motivations for attending law school. After graduation, they will pursue different careers and represent different clients. Despite these differences, amici share their understanding that April 9, 2025 executive order at issue in this litigation (and similar executive orders) directly threaten this country’s legal profession, the ability of clients to obtain representation, and the rule of law itself. Amici understand that the executive orders threaten not only American constitutional values but also their professional and economic futures. The attached amicus brief provides unique perspective about the implications of these executive orders for law students who represent the future of the American legal profession.

4. Plaintiff Jenner & Block LLP is primarily concerned with the March 23, 2025 executive order at issue in this case. The attached brief seeks to provide the Court with broader perspective addressing the threat the executive order represents to the young people who represent the future of the legal profession.

5. Plaintiff consents to the filing of this brief. Defendants do not object to the filing of this brief.

WHEREFORE, amici respectfully request that the Court grant their motion for leave to file the attached amicus curiae brief.

Respectfully submitted,

INTEREST OF AMICI CURIAE

Amici are law students and law student organizations from law schools across the United States.¹ They are diverse geographically, economically, socially, and politically. They study law for different reasons. They will go on to represent a wide range of clients and causes. Yet amici are united in one fundamental respect. They have dedicated themselves to the idea that we are a society governed by laws, not by raw power. They recognize that the executive order attacks their chosen profession. It attacks the values that cause law practice to be meaningful in American life. Amici ask this Court to protect the legal profession they are preparing to join and the core values that the profession serves.²

ARGUMENT

The executive order at issue in this litigation (and similar executive orders) represent government reprisal against law firms for taking up representations disfavored by those in control of the executive branch of the government. As described by Plaintiff and other amici, these orders represent unacceptable intrusions on professional independence and the rule of law. They will undermine the profession's bedrock principles and ethics. They will reduce the opportunities that law practice provides. Unless enjoined by the Court, the orders will cause enduring damage to the legal profession and amici as America's future lawyers.

Our society has functioned for centuries on the understanding that lawyers are free and even encouraged to take up disfavored representations, that every person deserves due process and their day in court. For just as long, young people have been called to the law to renew that promise and to participate in America's legal institutions. Like so many before them, amici have expended considerable money, time, and effort to join the legal profession. They have deprived themselves of income from other possible employment. They have attended law school, studied difficult fields of law, and learned principles of legal ethics. They have clerked for law firms and judges during the summer and school year. They have planned for their future on the understanding that the legal profession represents a valuable and honorable profession.

² Amici certify that this brief was authored entirely by counsel for amici curiae and not by counsel for any party, in whole or in part; that no party or counsel for any party contributed money to fund preparing or submitting this brief; and that, apart from counsel for amici curiae, no other person contributed money to fund preparing or submitting this brief. See Fed.R.App.P. 29(a)(4)(E).

The executive order compromises the premise on which amici have labored to become lawyers. In the world envisioned by the executive order, any lawyer who undertakes a representation disfavored by the executive branch of the government can be ruined through a government-run blacklist. Lawyers who are associated with that lawyer because they work in the same firm also can be ruined. This has serious implications for amici as America's future lawyers. Under the fear-based system created by the executive order, law firms will be encouraged to withdraw from or decline to undertake representations that are disfavored by the executive branch. They will be encouraged to not articulate claims or defenses that are similarly disfavored. They may be encouraged to entirely avoid representations adverse to the government. America's legal system has been one the country's greatest assets; yet companies also may do less business in the United States if weakened legal institutions expose them to greater risk. For these reasons and more, in the world created by this executive order, there may be fewer opportunities for young lawyers to work, learn, and grow. The practice of law also may become less professionally satisfying and constrained by fewer economic opportunities.

Beyond that, amici now must wonder whether their professional prospects will be harmed by having accepted a clerkship with a particular judge or accepting a position with a particular law firm. Some amici soon may learn that a future employer now avoids the meaningful work that brought amici to that firm in the first place. Others will be told they must undertake representations solely to earn the executive branch's approval. As emerging lawyers, Amici are invited to walk into an ethical minefield where they must be ready to reject representations or abandon clients to avoid retribution. This is the opposite of what being a lawyer should represent. Amici haven't spent years studying so they could genuflect to whomever happens to occupy the executive branch. They signed up to be lawyers. They signed up to choose their clients, and vigorously represent their clients, whomever the clients and their causes and claims may be.

Left alone, the executive order signals a transformation of our legal system. The rules don't matter anymore. Neither does due process. What matters is being in the good graces of those in power.³ One might wonder whether law even will matter when amici graduate. Which begs a question: If law doesn't matter, why should anyone become a lawyer in the first place?

CONCLUSION

The executive order is an affront to the legal profession and the rule of law. It threatens the present and the future of the American legal profession. The Court should grant the relief sought by Plaintiff.

³ Indeed, a substantial number of additional law students expressed interest in joining this brief, but feared that doing so would expose them to retaliation as students or in their fledgling legal careers. That their concern is even reasonable is alarming in a constitutional republic dedicated to the rule of law.
