

The 1910 forty-horsepower Midland stock car, which was last year driven by F. B. Wood, now general manager of the Midland Motor Co., over 21,000 miles of country roads, while acting as general executive of the Chicago Motor club, was today sold to S. Breakstone & Co. of Chicago, to be used as a demonstrating car for Breakstone accessories. In testing this car Mr. Breakstone remarked:

"I have never seen such a wonderful example of endurance and durability as was shown by this car. It is as powerful and quiet as when new, in spite of the extremely severe usage to which it has been subjected."
