

Seventh Member Of Family Joins Nation's Forces

Louise Breakstone to Take Training Where Sister Is Stationed

There's less chance that Apprentice Seaman Louise Breakstone of 167 New Mallery Place, seventh member of her family to join the armed forces, will be homesick while taking boot training than the average Waves recruit as her older sister, Petty Officer Third Class Adele Breakstone is stationed at Hunter College, New York, where the new apprentice seaman will receive her basic training.

AS Louise Breakstone said she almost felt compelled to sign up with the Waves since her sister and their five brothers are already doing their part in speeding victory.

The only one of Albert Breakstone's children not in the service is Mrs. Sidney Schwartz who is residing with her husband, Sgt. Schwartz, stationed at Atlanta.

Apprentice Seaman Breakstone, who leaves November 4 for Hunter College, hopes she'll like the Waves as well as her sister, PO Breakstone, who enlisted about a year ago. The latter is doing office work at Hunter College.

Whereabouts of the Breakstone brothers: PFC Royal and Pvt. Morton in England; Corp. Delbert in Iceland; PFC Bernard, Camp Pickett, Va., and PFC S. H. Breakstone, New York.
