
MISS ADELIA BREAKSTONE.

She Scores a Big Hit in Boston.

The Boston Herald of April 25, has this to say about a young lady well known in Wilkes-Barre:

The graduating recital at Wesleyan Hall last evening by Misses Lola Parman and Adelia Breakstone and Mr. Henry Whitney Hastings was one of the most brilliant ever given under the auspices of the Emerson College of Oratory. Even standing room could not be found by those who came late. The first number, "Pauline Pavlovna," was the gem of the entire program, and deep dramatic power and passion were shown in it by both its interpreters, Mr. Hastings and Miss Breakstone. Miss Breakstone's presentation, "How Peggy Held the Fort," provoked peals of merriment.

The closing number was Howell's farce, "The Register," in which the characters were admirably sustained by Miss Parman, Miss Breakstone, Mr. Walter Tripp and Mr. Hastings.
