Agape
Adoptions

A Year in Review

I am proud that Agape Adoptions has adapted, risen above, and built new possibilities. We've bent, we've flexed, and we've managed to problem solve. We've launched new programs and expanded existing ones, which we'll continue to do - because there are children in need of families, and families who want to embrace, care, and love them. I look forward to continuing with our existing relationships and building new ones - all with the focus and attention of children who need families as our north star.

Agape has stood steadfast in its commitment to our families' children in need. While over fifty families have waited to complete their adoptions from China for some two years, Myriam's team has remained committed. The team has increased advocacy efforts, continued to think of new and different strategies, and provided increased services to families who wait. Agape's goal remains to do everything in our power to ensure, one day, that these children and families will be united.
