

Present with Passion and Purpose

Present with Passion and Purpose is a program that transforms people into Passionate communicators who can own their space, engage their listeners and achieve their Purpose at every speaking opportunity.

This course has been instrumental for so many people in:

- Delivering; Business Pitches, Presentations, Training, Speeches, Webinars, On-Camera pieces
- How to engage and inspire your audience
- Navigating any high stakes communication
- Managing and utilising nerves
- Developing emerging leaders

Program overview

Present with Passion and Purpose is a program about discovering the pleasure of public speaking. It will teach you how to engage with your audience and to connect with your messages.

During the program you will be learning through methodologies, group discussion, reflection and by doing. Speaking publicly is an active process which is learned by experiencing scenarios, being on your feet, trying things out in a safe and supportive environment.

PPP will encourage you to extend yourself, take risks, enjoy the process and move beyond your 'blocks'.

PPP confronts performance anxiety head on, providing techniques, insights and theory to enable you to manage your nerves and use them constructively.

Feedback from recent participants:

"A life saver! Dramatically increased my confidence and reduced my nerves. Exceeded expectations. Lots of practical exercises – awareness of the room + own emotions/headspace. The focus on connection, being yourself."

Director, Little Flowers

"Firstly let me say thank you for what you have done for me – you have made speaking in public a task that I now enjoy and not shy away from. I still practice and plan what I am going to say, but I am far more comfortable in my presentations. I still am working at owning the space but I am getting there"

Director, TPH Australia

Passion is about Connecting with the things that drive us, the things that light us up. If they light us up they will light up an audience

Purpose is the reason for communicating your message – your 'why'. We need to link our purpose with the intended outcome to achieve results

PPP Learning outcomes include:

- Understanding and managing the physiology of nerves
- How to Own your Space and exercise your Right to Speak
- Presence; learning the skills to create it and to use it
- How to plan and prepare your material
- Using emotional engagement to impact the listener
- Mastering vocal technique
- Thinking on your feet and managing audience interaction
- Using your physical and spatial presence to engage the listener
- How to 'lift' your words off the page to make them sound authentic
- Increased self-awareness and the ability to stay focused

About the facilitator

Tony Sloman is a gifted and passionate communicator who knows from long experience that many people fear public speaking more than death. Tony shows people how to turn that nerve-racking ordeal into an enjoyable and effective experience for speakers and audience alike.

During successful and parallel careers in theatre, business and learning & development, Tony saw many people who were struggling to communicate effectively with groups, even one-on-one. He set up Passion and Purpose in 2014 offering his unique combination of skills and experience to unlock the chains that keep so many people from being successful communicators.

Tony says communication isn't rocket science, but it is a science. He teaches the 'performance science', the fundamental elements that create connection and engagement, and how to use them in all your communications.

Tony delivers tailored workshops for groups, and one-one-one coaching. He believes everyone has the potential to be an excellent communicator, even those who find it terrifying. Tony will show you why nerves and fear occur, and how to turn them to your advantage.

Tony works with people of all skill and experience levels, from novice speaker to expert, helping them wow their audience, and make successful presentations and pitches. He's worked with many clients, including government, corporate, not-for-profit, executives, established and emerging business leaders.

Tony combines the creativity of the theatre with a deep understanding of contemporary business practice. He shares his own journey and the lessons he learned as a professional actor, facilitator, coach, corporate relationship builder and business development specialist. He's worked in the financial sector, IT, business analysis and consultancies.

Tony graduated from the prestigious Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London, where he was taught by global leaders in the field of public performance; voice, movement, drama, emotional resonance. He also holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of New South Wales, a Certificate IV in Assessment and Workplace Training, and a Certificate in Organisational Coaching.

Tony has worked extensively on stage, television and radio. He's an entertaining and engaging speaker, with a wealth of experience and insight to share.

A Testimonial

Tony Sloman recently conducted a workshop with a large number of our leaders. In exploring pitching, the express aim was to connect their passion with their purpose in a way that engages with their audiences – aligning heart not just giving technical satisfaction. Our team found the workshop very enjoyable; particularly the way that theory was demonstrated in practice and linked to real life experiences. Each person's personal pitch was fascinating and team pitches proved they could place the essential purpose at the heart of the presentation. Everyone found Tony to be an excellent communicator and the material easy to understand and memorable. 'Very inspiring' is how one person expressed it. CEO, DWP Suters
