

Dear Mr. Anthony Tony Weekes,

Thank you very much for informing us of the related information on collaboration opportunities between SEDI, United States Virgin Islands and Central Taiwan Science Park (CTSP). It's an honor for us to receive the delegation coming all the way from United States Virgin Islands on March 25th, 2019, which leaves us a great impression and is truly beneficial for us to gain a deep insight into science parks' operation, management and planning.

In the future, we are looking forward to exploring the possibilities of connecting SEDI Marketplace and CTSP as well as the potential of SEDI Marketplace with your team. In addition, except the areas of ship building and education tourism, the other potential collaboration areas you've mentioned (including Biotechnology, Renewable Energy and E-wast, Smart Machinery and Silicon Island (Technology incubator)) will be the emerging technologies CTSP endeavors to promote. Therefore, we strongly hope to join hands with SEDI and United States Virgin Islands to create more collaboration opportunities in those areas and achieve a multi-win situation for both sides.

Sincerely yours,

Ching-Huei Lin
