

The Clean Energy & Motion Series

Join Women Who Charge and 14 other Colorado women as we explore and learn about energy generation and clean transportation this summer.

The Series

Designed for women curious about what's going on in the clean energy industry, this one-month professional development series gives you the technical knowledge to lead confidently in these conversations. Through in-person, classroom strategy sessions and guided field observations, you'll gain real-world exposure to the systems shaping our future.
