About Me

My name is Zoë Meyerson. I am a self-taught illustrator and a professionally trained graphic designer. I started designing at 19, with most of my skills being self-taught before I received a learnership to study marketing with a focus on graphic design through Red & Yellow: Creative School of Business with the agency VMLY&R.

I would describe myself as a fast, visual learner, a hard worker and very diligent. I specialize in logo design, brand identity, video editing (mainly music videos and promotional videos) and digital art/illustrations.

Experience

2018 to 2019

Marketing learnership student with a focus on graphic design with VMLY&R (classes for 5 months, then practical work at the agency for 6 months).

2019 - Current

Freelance graphic designer (including graphic design, illustrations, video editing, animation and website design)

You can refer to my website or my Behance portfolio to view some of the work that I've done as a freelancer:
